BELGIAN REDS ASK FOR VENGEANCE IN LEADER'S SLAYING

Commies Blame Leopoldists And Leo-Rexists For Assassination

MURDER CAME AS CIVIL STRIFE BEGAN TO DIM

Liege, Belgium, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Belgium's Communist Party blamed pro-Leopoldists tonight for the assassination of the party president, Julien Lahaut, and issued an angry call for vengeance.

A party manifesto urged all the country's workers to "get together to disarm the murderers and stop Fascism." It demanded mass demonstrations throughout this nerve-wracked country, which has just weathered a violent crisis. The division of the nation with the return of King Leopold III to the throne almost started a civil war.

The 66 - year - old Communist president was shot down last night at the doorstep of his suburban home. Lahaut's wife said the assassins were two young men, one of whom pumped two bullets into Lahaut's head and one into his body.

The attack was made only a few hours after Belgium's parliament completed approval of the first government to serve under crown Prince Baudouin, to whom Leopold delegated the royal powers in order to stop civil strife. The new premier, Joseph Pholien, quickly addressed a radio message to the nation deploring the killing.

"The government stigmatizes this odious crime, which has so terribly upset all good citizens," said the premier, head of the all-Social Christian (Catholic) party cabinet which supports the royalists.

ALTRUSA TO AID WAR HIT KOREA

Locals Collecting Supplies After Plea From Korean Diplomatic Mission

Altrusa clubs in District 7 have been appealed to by the Korean diplomatic mission in Japan for assistance in furnishing blankets and clothing for women and children and drugs and medical supplies.

The request has a special significance for the district, comprising clubs in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas as well as Guatemala, Korea and Mexico. Two years ago, the membership of the seventh district sponsored a Korean woman's trip to the United States and her education at Vanderbilt University.

The visitor, Mrs. In Ai Yang, a nurse in her native land, graduated from the southern college at the end of the last semester, and in June was a guest of the Monroe Altrusa chapter.

Mrs. Yang had hoped to return to Korea when the North Korean invasion began. At the present time, she is serving as an interpreter for the head of the U. S. Nurses in the Far East, officially assigned to the Korean diplomatic mission.

Her husband, a mining engineer in Korea, has not been heard from since the fighting took in the area in which he worked. Mrs. Yang hopes to go to Korea as soon as army permission is forthcoming to learn his fate and whereabouts.

WILD HURRICANE MAY LASH COAST

Cape Hatteras Area Under Main Threat Of Furious Atlantic Twister

Mia...i, Fla., Aug. 19. —(AP)— Northeast storm warnings were hoisted from Morehead City, N. C., to the Virginia capes today as the Atlantic hurricane speeded its forward motion.

An advisory issued at 4:30 p.m. (E. S. T.) by the Miami weather bureau predicted that the 140-mile winds whirling in a narrow band around the storm's center would remain at sea off the North Carolina coast.

The center is expected to pass a short distance offshore from Cape Hatteras Sunday morning. Coastal residents were advised to take precautions against dangerous gales and high tides.

The storm covers a diameter of 350 miles with heaviest winds near the center and lesser velocities stretching outward. After inching along at a pace of 10 miles an hour or less for a week, the storm has stepped up its pace to about 12 miles an hour.

A navy hurricane hunter who flew into the eye of the storm said it was one of the roughest he ever encountered.

Miami forecasters said hurricane force winds will prevail just off-shore from the warned coastline. They added:

"It will be a close brush, however. After passing Cape Hatteras it should begin to speed up its forward movement and if present indications hold, it probably will brush past Cape Cod and pass out to sea."

In the wake of the storm the steamship Russell R. Jones was under escort toward Jacksonville, Fla., after battling fire, wind and tumbling seas. A paper cargo in the ships forward holds caught fire yesterday as it battled hurricane force winds and high seas.

The steamship Tulane and a naval vessel, the U. S. S. Kliensmith, accompanied the freighter through seas still rough from the passing storm. But the fire apparently was out and the distress call flashed yesterday so that other ships were released from rescue duty.

SENATORS BACK MAJORITY RULE ON CONVENTION

Three North Louisiana Lawmakers Oppose Long's 'Half-Million' Clause

CROTHERS, BARHAM AND VOW TO FIGHT PROPOSAL

Shreveport, La., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Three north Louisiana state senators who voted for Gov. Earl K. Long's amended constitutional convention call at the recent special session of the legislature joined in statements today saying they opposed any convention at this time and will work to defeat the governor's convention call in the November 7 election.

The three senators are Charles Tooke of Caddo, C. E. Barham of Lincoln and Brenham C. Crothers of Concordia.

Each explained that he had sought to have the convention call amendments in the special session so as to provide for submission of any new constitution to the people in a referendum in which ratification or rejection would be decided by a simple majority without regard to the total vote cast.

The present convention call provides for automatic ratification of a submitted constitution unless 500,000 or more votes are cast.

Senator Tooke issued a statement detailing the parliamentary situation in the senate and pledging his active opposition to the convention call in the November election. Barham stated that he concurred in the Tooke statement and Crothers made a separate statement along the same line, pointing out that he voted against the convention call in the regular session which preceded the special session.

Tooke pointed out that he and Barham and Senator Reimer Calhoun of DeSoto parish introduced and supported an amendment in the special session to remove the "half a million votes" restriction, with Crothers also one of its supporters. When this was defeated, Tooke said, his position was that it was better to vote for the administration's version because it gave "the people some chance to defeat the matter."

Korean War Costs Us 55 Planes So Far

Washington, Aug. 19. —(AP)— The air force announced tonight that it had lost 55 planes to enemy action in the Korean war.

This figure does not necessarily cover all plane losses. The air force said it covered only losses known to the enemy. Any operational losses that may have occurred in American-held territory, where the enemy could not observe them, were not reported.

The announced figure included losses from fighter attacks, anti-aircraft or small arms fire from the ground and enemy strafing and bombing.

Two C-54 transports were lost by strafing and bombing.Other losses were six B-26 light bombers, one B-29 medium bomber, 24 F-51 piston-engined fighters, 17 F-80 jet fighters, four F-82 night fighters and one T-6 target spotter.

The air force said that crews of the Far East air forces have claimed the destruction of 70 Communist planes. In addition to these claims of planes definitely destroyed, the U. S. fliers have claimed 17 Communist planes probably destroyed and 32 others damaged.

F. Wolff, Of Bastrop, Dies In California

Ferdinand Wolff, 69, prominent Bastrop business man and lifelong resident of that city, died suddenly Saturday in Los Angeles, Calif., according to word received by relatives in Monroe last night. He had been vacationing with his wife for the past two months.

Funeral arrangements had not been made last night pending arrival of Mrs. Wolff. She is expected to arrive in Bastrop Tuesday. The body will arrive Wednesday.

In addition to operating a clothing establishment in Bastrop for many years, Mr. Wolff holds vast properties in his native city and Morehouse parish.

Survivors, besides his widow, are: three brothers Dr. I. J. Wolff, of Monroe, Eugene Wolff, Miami, Fla., and Adolph Wolff, of Opelousas; two sisters, Mrs. George Margoles, of Fort Plains, N. Y. and Mrs. Leon Cohn, of Monroe.

European Stronghold To Block Communist Aggression Is Urged

Top Republican Adviser To State Department Stresses That U. S., Britain Should Commit Force To Stop 'Mortal Danger'

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—One of the State Department's top Republican advisers declared tonight that the U. S. and Britain must commit "men and equipment" to the defense of western Europe against the "mortal danger" of Soviet aggression.

He accused Russia of resorting to "bare faced aggression" in Korea, said this places other areas of the world in great peril and warned that "under present conditions, the Soviet forces could overrun Europe at any time."

This slashing attack on the Soviet Union coupled with sharp criticism that the western nations have failed to respond adequately to the danger to themselves, was made by John Sherman Cooper. A former Republican senator from Kentucky, he is now an adviser to Secretary of State Acheson on recent North Atlantic treaty defense moves.

In an address prepared for a reunion of the third army association tonight, Cooper said that he spoke in a personal rather than official capacity. But his views though going far beyond public expressions of officials, clearly reflected much top-level thinking in the state department.

His speech was made available at the department in Washington and it was understood that department officers had at least assisted in its preparation.

Outlining what he described as three essentials urgently required for the defense of Europe, Cooper declared that for the first time in its postwar period of expansion the Soviet Union had resorted "to direct military action" in Korea. He said "we must consider the possibility of similar action upon

GERMANS PROFIT FROM ARMS RACE

Expect Boom In Consumer Exports While Other Nations Build Weapons

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Allied and German officials reported today western Germany is reaping a harvest of export orders because of the western world's rearmament programs. It may develop into a full-blown economic boom.

Western Germans expect to profit handsomely from exports of consumer goods while other nations concentrate on arms. They also expect the need for their industry's output, spurred by the eruption in Korea, to wipe out some western allied limitations—particularly on steel production.

Britain and France have joined the United States in placing large orders for steel with the Germans, officials said. More orders are pre-

Renewal Of World-Telegram And Sun Awaits 400 Striker's Okay

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Negotiators today agreed on terms for ending a strike that has kept the New York World-Telegram and Sun off the streets for two months.

The agreement, still to be ratified by members of the striking C. I. O. American Newspaper guild, came after an all-night, 15-hour session.

Guild representatives said they would recommend approval by the 400 editorial advertising and business office strikers at a membership meeting Tuesday.

Terms were not disclosed pending the vote, but they were described as covering "all issues" in the contract dispute.

The lengthy bargaining meeting, at which federal mediators took part, broke up at 4 a. m. (EST) with handshakes all around.

Said B. O. McCanney, the paper's managing editor and one of the negotiators:

"I am very happy that both sides have reached an agreement we can live under."

He said it would take two or three days after the final settlement for the big afternoon daily to resume publication.

Thomas J. Murphy, the guild local's executive secretary, said

Payday Comes For Guardsmen At Polk

Camp Polk, La., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Men of the 39th National Guard division will start back to their Arkansas and Louisiana homes tomorrow carrying $718,000 in active duty training pay.

The payroll cash rolled into Camp Polk in an armored convoy for the thousands of soldiers.

It cost about $102 per man to pay, feed and transport the division during its two-week training.

Arkansas guardmen got $432,000 pay while the lesser number of Louisiana troops received $286,000. However, Louisiana gained from the money spent with merchants in the Camp Polk area.

The soldiers were ordered to leave Camp Polk in readiness for its next occupants—the troops of Oklahoma's 45th National Guard division—who are scheduled to arrive next month.

Korean War Felt By Every American, Worst To Come

By Rader Winget

New York, Aug. 19. —(AP)— The cost of the Korean war is being laid on the shoulders of every one in the nation, and the worst is yet to come.

The economic impact of Korean fighting—eight weeks old this week-end — has already rippled out into every home and every business.

The price of war varies. The soldier who doesn't come back pays high. The housewife who has to shop three stores before finding sugar pays with a slight inconvenience.

The administration already has asked for $16 billion in new funds for defense requirements. More billions will be asked later. Heavy new taxes on business and personal income will have to be levied to help raise these huge sums.

Today, inflation is the main thing the American civilian feels as a result of the Korean war. Prices are higher, and there is a general rush to "get it while you can."

That rush to buy already has begun to taper off in some areas —notably at the retail consumer level. Department store sales hit their peak in late July and then started a return to a normal pace. Last week they stood at 26 per cent above a year ago.

But elsewhere the scramble to buy has grown to such proportions that normal business standards don't apply in some cases. Grey markets have sprung up, many producers have withdrawn their price schedules until the situation clarifies, banks have refused to lend money for speculative buying.

Strategic stockpiling is one name applied to the buying. Anticipatory accumulation of inventory is another name. Some people call it hoarding.

The government so far has tightened credit to home builders at a time when construction of all types is estimated by the commerce department for 1950 at a record breaking $26 billion.

The Federal Reserve Bank approved an increase in the discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York from 1 1-2 per cent to 1 3-4 per cent. This tends to restrict the loans of member banks.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder announced such institutional investors as insurance companies and savings banks may buy up to $1,100,000 worth of F and G government bonds this year. The limit formerly was $100,000. This encourages bond buying for investment rather than the basis for loans.

Other government controls await

Republic Steel Stops Mills; Strike Looms

Cleveland, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Republic Steel Corporation started shutting down its local steel mills today because of a railroad strike threatened for Monday.

Threatened by the brotherhood of railroad trainmen is the river terminal railway, a 22-mile subsidiary of Republic which operates in the Cuahoga river flats.

The B. R. T. has called a five-day strike to back its demands for a 40-hour week with the same pay its members now get for 48 hours. Negotiations were recessed today after a stalemate.

Republic declared more than 35,000 tons of steel would be lost if the railway, which employs 400, is struck.

Republic said it would start shutting down coke ovens, blast furnaces and open hearths today and tomorrow.

The corporation also declared it would shut down mines employing about 1,000 near Pittsburgh if the strike call is effective Monday. They are the Banning and Clyde mines south of Pittsburgh.

READY TO MARCH

Allies Attack East Of Tense Sector While Eyeing Big Threat

RED MENACE MELTS WITH BLOODY RIOT IN SOUTH

(By The Associated Press)

Tokyo, Sunday, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A 50,000-man striking force of Korean Communists was reported today massed north of Taegu, key American supply base, waiting orders to march.

Ahead of this menacing force was the spearhead of Reds which drove within 10 miles of Taegu before South Koreans and a "fire brigade" of Americans blunted it. Resistance in that sector today disappeared but American leaders were cautious.

While keeping a wary eye on this as yet withheld big push, the U. S. eighth army headquarters today sent American and South Korean forces to the attack in a sector immediately to the east. This drive on the east anchor of the 120-mile battle perimeter was launched by the South Korean third division and unidentified American units from the Pohang-Kigye line.

Pohang is the port city on the east coast recaptured two days ago by the South Koreans. Kigye is nine miles west and slightly north of Pohang.

Twenty-three miles southwest of Taegu another Communist menace melted in a bloody rout. Hundreds of bodies were found on hills seized by U. S. marines as the leathernecks and elements of the 24th infantry division drove against 12,000 Reds who had massed on the east bank of the Naktong near Changnyong.

Officers said today that few of the Reds got back to the west bank.

AIR FORCE SEEKS DOCTORS, DENTISTS

Commissions Extended Medical Men, Including Extra $100 Month

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)— The air force tonight invited doctors, dentists and veterinarians trained in special World War II programs to accept commissions if they do not hold them in other services.

A number of such persons were deferred in the last war to continue their education under the army specialized training (A. S. T. P.) and navy V-12 programs.

Normally, doctors and dentists would be commissioned first lieutenants and veterinarians second lieutenants, the air force said. It added that professional qualifications might justify a higher rank.

The law now entitled physicians and dentists who volunteer for service an extra $100 a month on top of regular pay allowances. It added that professional qualifications might justify a higher rank in individual cases.

A bill coming up for hearings in the senate next week would permit drafting medical men. Its author, Senator Hunt (D.-Wyo.), says the idea is to permit induction of those deferred in the last war to continue their training.

NINETY B-29'S HAMMER ENEMY

Second-Heaviest Air Blow Levied Few Miles From Soviet Border

Tokyo, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Ninety B-29 bombers hammered North Korean targets today with nearly 800 tons of bombs.

The war's second-heaviest air smash, it centered on the key Communist port and manufacturing city of Chongjin, less than 60 miles from the Russian - North Korean border.

In three waves, 60 of the big planes smashed Chongjin's important railroad marshalling yards and the vast Mitsubishi iron works, one of the most modern metal-producing factories in Asia.

They dumped 550 tons of explosives in a 45 minute attack.

The other 30 planes plastered Hamhung, 130 miles north of the 38th parallel.

U. S. jet fighters went after North Korean communications and B-26 light bombers singled out similar targets in 30 night intruder missions.

Associated Press Photographer Max Desfor said in a dispatch from fifth air force headquarters that U. S. mustang fighters straffed schoolhouses where the Reds have been concentrating troops and supplies.

Tideland Showdown Time Should Be Known This Week

By Edward Jamieson
World Washington Correspondent

Whether an interim tidelands bill will be pressed for action during the short time remaining in the present session of congress, or be laid aside for possible enactment during the 82nd congress, will probably be determined during the coming week.

As hearings on the interim measure introduced by Senator Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming ended today before the senate interior and insular affairs committee, of which he is chairman, O'Mahoney disclosed that he would call the committee for consideration of the legislation at the earliest possible time next week.

While O'Mahoney appears anxious to get a favorable report on the bill and attempt to get senate approval of the measure before the coming recess of congress, chances of final enactment appear to be very slim.

Only a few weeks, at best, remain in the present session of congress, which is faced with a very heavy calendar of legislation, which would hurt chances of a bill which was generally acceptable to all interested groups.

The O'Mahoney bill, in addition, has proven to be unacceptable to virtually everyone concerned unless it is amended. The conflict is so great over the various amendments which have been pro-

Social Security Tax Will Force Red Tape Expansion

By Max Hall

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—If you have a domestic employe in your home, you may be mailing the government a check every three months, starting about next April.

The check will be social security taxes.

President Truman is expected to sign the new social security bill which congress passed Thursday.

If he does, millions of new people will come into the social security system on January 1. They will become eligible for old age pensions and survivors' benefits. They will also pay social security taxes, and so will their employes.

This will bring some new tax-collecting problems.

One of these problems will involve an estimated 1,000,000 regularly employed household domestics — maids, cooks, laundresses, yardmen, butlers, even perhaps a few baby-sitters.

As in the case of most others under social security, an amount equal to three per cent of their wages must be paid to the government in taxes. Half of this or one and a half per cent may be deducted from the worker's wages, and the other one and a half per cent must be supplied by the employer. Or — the social security law permits an employer, if he wishes, to pay the whole three per cent out of his own pocket.

In any case, the employer is responsible for delivering the whole amount to the tax collectors.

How will the housewife go about delivering this money?

The federal security agency and the internal revenue bureau would not disclose the method that will be used to collect the tax on domestics. They are working on procedure now, and said they weren't ready to announce details.

GERTIE'S SHOP WILL OPEN SOON

Mrs. Jones Selects Complete Stock Of Dresses, Lingerie

Gertie's Resident Shop to be located at 405 Catalpa street, will open for business the first week of September, according to Mrs. Gertie Scherck Jones, owner.

Merchandise for the new modern resident shop has been purchased personally by Mrs. Jones, better known as "Gertie". She recently returned from market where she selected a complete stock of nurses uniforms, ladies millinery, dresses, lingerie, hosiery and other items.

The newly decorated store was designed by her husband, R. Murph Jones, a local window display man.

Mrs. Jones pointed out that all the remodeling and work done in connection with opening the store has been done locally.

Modern shop fixtures finished in natural Louisiana yellow pine have been installed. Interior walls of the building have been finished in pastel shades of rose and green. To blend with the fixtures and interior walls, Mrs. Jones selected grey flooring with a touch of rose.

In addition, the resident shop is equipped with venetian blinds and florescent lighting.

Mrs. Jones has been in the business worked for the past 35 years. Having come to Monroe 22 years ago during which time she has become widely known in the ready-to-wear field.

She came to Monroe from Hot Springs, Ark., where she was buyer and manager for Simon Mendel and the Cinderella Shop.

Mrs. Jones pointed out that her resident shop will carry moderately priced merchandise. She has adopted the slogan, "Pay less, Get more, at Gertie's cash store."

The new ready-to-wear shop is within walking distance of DeSiard street and is centrally located directly behind the St. Francis Sanitarium.

Mrs. Jones is well-known among local shoppers. During her many years of serving the public in Monroe she has become recognized as an authority on ladies ready-to-wear and millinery. Her pleasant personality and ability have won her the admiration and patronage of shoppers throughout northeast Louisiana.

Mrs. Jones said the formal opening date of her resident shop will be announced later. She extends a cordial invitation to every citizen of the Twin Cities and adjourning parishes to stop by her shop during the opening day and look it over.

In connection with the formal opening, Mrs. Jones will have a register and award several prizes.

CANCER SOCIETY CONDUCTS MEET

1950-51 Campaign Launched With Parley Of Board Of Directors

For the first official meeting of the 1950-51 campaign season, members of the board of directors of the Ouachita Parish Cancer Society met Friday at a local restaurant for luncheon.

Field Representative Lockridge of the Louisiana state cancer society, the featured speaker at the meeting, discussed the history of the Society and the need for increased campaign activity in the forthcoming drive, which will begin in the Twin Cities September 11

The history of the Cancer Society's growth was traced from its inception in May, 1913 to the present. Also under discussion was the distribution of funds received by the Society.

The ways in which the average dollar contributed to the Cancer Society fights cancer were explained in detail. According to figures released by the national organization, a quarter of the donated dollar pays for nationally planned research projects, 60 cents stays in the local division to support the division's own program of research and service and the remaining 15 cents pays for the production of exhibits, pamphlets, movies and other tools for professional and public education produced nationally, as well as national statistical, administrative, publicity, fund-raising and special consultative services.

Members of the board present at the meeting included campaign chairman F. J. Brennan, Ed Seymour, chairman of the big gifts committee, publicity chairman Mrs. N. Klam, Mrs. Gordon Wright Mrs. Gladys Collins and Mrs. C. K. Crandall.

WORK TO SAVE SOIL

HOUSTON, Tex.—(AP)—Soil conservation work is now being done by the big pipe-line companies in cooperation with farmers. One firm, the Texas-Illinois Natural Gas Pipe Line Co., has a special department to save soil. It develops plants to hold it in place, terraces hillsides, plants grass and develops other practices.

E. D. Warren, a company executive, explains that most pipeline companies have discovered that their lines face extensive damage when the soil washes away. It is cheaper to keep the soil in place than to repair washed out lines, he indicates.

Daughters Of Cross Will Observe

Tuesday will be an occasion of marked solemnity and celebration for the Daughters of the Cross of St. Vincent's Academy in Shreveport.

According to Reverend Mother Elizabeth, Superior General of the congregation, Golden and Silver Jubilees will be observed in traditional order and beauty beginning with the 8:30 Holy Mass celebrated in the conventual chapel of the Motherhouse. Professions of vows, too will take place as well as the reception of the holy habit.

Members of the congregation who will mark the fiftieth anniversary of their entrance into religious life are Sister Margaret Mary Sparfel of Landernau, Finistere, France, and Sister St. Leon Le Rest of Lesneven, Finistere, France.

Sister M. Patricia Tynan of Shreveport, who is principal of St. Matthew's Catholic school in Monroe, Sister M. Fidelis Birdwell of Bossier City, and Sister Sophia Malarcher of New Orleans, will renew their triple vows pronounced a quarter of a century ago.

The Reverend Charles Pascal Greco, Bishop of Alexandria will officiate and will receive the vows of the Sisters. The Reverend Robert Tynan, priest-brother of the Jubilarian, Sister M. Patricia Tynan, and uncle of Sister Ann Particia Tynan will deliver the Jubilee discourse.

St. Vincent's Sisters' choir under the direction of Sister Rose Marie and Sister Mary Grace will take part in the celebration.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

Checker Tourney To Be Held Here

In compliance with several requests, plans are being made to conduct a checker tournament here to determine the northeast Louisiana checker championship, it was announced Saturday by W. G. Jasper. This will be the first championship tournament in more than two years.

Any local players and any in surrounding parishes who are interested in the tourney are requested to get in touch with Mr. Jasper at his home at 806 N. Fifth street, West Monroe.

A date for the tournament will be announced soon and also the style of play will be decided upon. It may be that the double knockout system, such as is used in national tournaments and many state tournaments, may be adopted here instead of the round robin style that has been used heretofore.

Northeastern's President

The state board of education made an excellent choice when it selected Lewis Slater as Northeastern Louisiana State College's first president.

Mr. Slater has the educational background, administrative experience, initiative and the knowledge of local conditions to handle the job—which won't be an easy one.

It's going to take plenty of planning and "selling" to build the college even to the status it enjoyed as a junior college several years ago. Mr. Slater and his associates, however, don't intend to stop there. They're hoping to make Northeastern a four-year college of which northeast Louisiana and the entire state will be proud—with an enrollment that will match that of any state college with the exception of L. S. U.

Mr. Slater has had wide experience, both as an instructor and an executive.

Mr. Slater received a B. S. degree as a chemistry major from the University of Colorado in 1914, and in 1915 received an M. S. degree as a chemistry and engineering major at Louisiana State University. He was an assistant professor at L. S. U. from 1915 to 1919, with the exception of one year when he was director of experimental high explosive shell loading at a New Jersey war plant.

He served as instructor and assistant professor of chemistry, physics, mathematics, biological and natural sciences and aviation at Northeast Junior College from 1938 to 1950. He has been head of the department of biological and natural sciences since 1942. During World War II he was chief ground instructor at N. J. C. of the flight training program carried on in cooperation with the army and civil aeronautics authority. During this time he was licensed by CAA through written examination, as a certified ground school instructor, with several ratings. He was selected as one of five ground school instructors in the United States to serve with Cornelius H. Siemens, educational consultant, to aid in educational aeronautical research.

Since Mr. Slater became head of the science department at N. J. C., the faculty has increased from three to 11 members and the growth of the department necessitated building of a science building in 1949.

Between teaching assignments at L. S. U. and N. J. C., Mr. Slater was chief chemist and chemical engineer for the Bogalusa Pulp and Paper Company, and later was chemical engineer for the Bastrop Pulp and Paper Company, which is now the International Paper Company.

All of this certainly qualifies him for the responsibilities which have been handed him. It's going to take time and a lot of hard work to accomplish the goal for which he strives, and we urge the wholehearted cooperation of the entire community in building an institution which will be a distinct asset to this section of the state.

The FBI And Sabotage

Some years ago a presidential directive was issued providing that the federal bureau of investigation take charge of investigative work in matters relating to espionage, sabotage, subversive activities and related matters. Now President Truman has again called attention to this directive, and added the suggestion that all patriotic organizations and individuals, as well as law enforcement officers, report all information concerning such matters to the bureau.

The FBI is as near to you as your telephone. The organization is interested in facts, not gossip or idle rumors. Some bit of information which may sem inconsequential to the individual coming upon it may be just what the FBI needs, in conjunction with other data in its possession, to make a case. No one should make private investigations in this field—they can only lead to hysteria and witch-hunts which in themselves weaken our internal security. If any fact of any nature comes to your attention which suggests sabotage or espionage, report it at once.

This is vitally important now. The forces which are working to undermine us are not always easy to identify. They have been trained in deceit. They utilize cleverly camouflaged movements, such as certain peace groups and civil rights organizations, to advance their ends. Communsim teaches that every conceivable weapon must be used to help destroy the non-Communist world. And the center of that world is the United States.

Remember—the FBI is our first line of defense against the destructionists within this country. Help it whenever you can, and without delay.

There's an FBI office here in Monroe. If you have information that will help them, they'll appreciate it.

Conditioned To Scarcity

A government bureau has issued a new comparison of commodity costs in the Soviet Union and the United States, based upon the working time required to earn the money needed to buy goods. It is a revealing example of the vast differences between a free, competitive economy, and a controlled economy in which practically everything is rationed and priced arbitrarily by the government.

To buy a pound of bread the Russian worker must put in 19 minutes, and the American worker six minutes. To buy a bar of soap the respective times are 41 minutes and three minutes. In the case of a pair of women's shoes, the figures are 72 hours as against 3 1/2 hours. If the Russian wants a new suit, he must work 376 hours to earn it. His American equivalent can earn the price in a trifle more than 24 hours.

In Russia, under communism, all consumer goods industries are rigidly restricted. The standard of living is held at low levels as a matter of government policy.

What is true of producing industry is also true of distribution. Here in America we take our retail stores for granted. They are crammed with goods of all kinds. They do everything they can think of to attract the consumer—through advertising, through eye-compelling displays, through low prices. Competition is rife on every hand, between the chains and independents, the specialty shops and the department stores, and every other kind of retail outlet. To the average Russian, this would seem absolutely unbelievable. He has been conditioned to scarcity.

Retailing is the show window of America. It visualizes the workings of an econmic system which has done more for more people than any other system ever devised.

WALTER WINCHELL

BY JACK LAIT
(Walter Winchell is on vacation)

Many of my kind friends and helpful fans suggest to me that, since I seem to have much inside info on crime, political dirt and the underworld, I should do something about it, not only write books and columns.

Therein I must disagree.

Writing things is my business. I have developed many valuable contacts. I have kept them because I have used what I learned from them in the manner and method intended and expected by those who told me things.

I am no copper.

It is not my purpose to put anybody in jail. What I show up is read by millions. Those include law enforcement officers in every branch and every bracket. Following up is their job, not mine.

If I rushed to congressional committees, district attorneys and governors in efforts to clean up vice racketeering, gambling and payoffs, I would have to expose my sources.

That would be an unethical betrayal.

Every American knows where he can make official complaints and charges. Few of them want to. But they are willing to pass along facts to someone who will not have them subpoenaed, subjected to cross-examination, laid open to publicity and possible reprisals

If I did they would clam up on me. And I would deserve it.

There is a vast psychological difference between being an informer and an informant.

In my many years of hunting information, I have found that few people would directly help if my objective were convicting people.

They are rather thrilled by a chance to "spill." Most of us are gossips at heart. The average person's field is limited to a handful of friends and neighbors. When an opportunity is thrust at one to expand his views or news to multitudes, he is often eager.

This is even more pronounced when it is known that I am working on a book.

While people get excited over a chance to spread what they think or know, the immediacy of newspaper publication often scares them.

But a book is a more remote medium. It is a more permanent project. It impresses them as something with fascination and force. An "author' 'seems to pack more weight than a reporter.

Having dug plenty for both types of publications, I can testify that doors and mouths open to a book-writer which would clamp down on a newspaper questioner.

People get so worked up at chances to "tell all" to a book-writer, I have known them to push or me dangerous, unsavory inside stuff about themselves.

All public officials and many others meet reporters. In time they grow used to them. They court their favor, fear their anger, but get to accept them as a daily factor of life, win or lose.

But few ever get to meet established authors, whose works they know will come out between hard covers. They are flattered. I have had hard-boiled professional politicians, who shy and lie when quizzed by representatives of the dailies, not only give me anything I'm after and more, but follow me out to the threshold and ask me for my autograph.

After "New York Confidential," which stepped on a lot of tender toes, I thought hunting stuff for "Chicago Confidential" would run into cautious and hostile reactions. It turned out the reverse.

I found a mischievous, babbling attitude, something like this:

"Boy, you gave it to them good. But that's nothing to what I can let you in on. Now, this will knock your hat off, but—"

Now, working on the Washington book, next in the series, Lee Mortimer and I are solicited by volunteers, who have heard what we're after, some of whom are in a rash to come to New York at their own expense to feed us the lowdown.

Of course, few of them really have anything we want. But what they have they itch to impart.

And we know that these same persons would run from us if we were dicks, hunting evidence to put people behind bars.

That is not a natural instinct, as the impulse to relay tough truths happens to be.

Many a time I've interrupted, saying:

"Do you realize what you're telling me can send so-and-so to jail?"

Then they clap their hands on their gushing kissers and exclaim:

"Oh, no—I don't want to do that. But let me finish. Now, here is some really hot stuff—"

Since the announcement that Mickey Rooney's wife, Martha Vickers, has signed to do a movie role, a lot of people in Hollywood have been wondering, out loud, just how this new development s going to set with "the Mick," who's always fought the idea of two careers in the same family. I find it hard to believe that any serious misunderstanding will grow out of Martha's return to the screen If she's feeling thwarted (which is a common ailment among actors and actresses who suddenly drop out of professional life;, Mickey would be smart to raise no objections to an occasional movie role. And if Martha is the sensible girl I've always known her to be, she'll be perfectly happy to keep her acting career subordinate to her career as a wife and mother.

Two independent producers are hot after Marlon Brando to star in a picture based on the life of the infamous bank rokker and murderer, "Pretty Boy" Floyd. I don't know what kind of bait they're dangling in front of his nose, but I doubt if Brando is foolish enough to give such a proposal serious consideration. As a result of his stirring portrayal of a para plegic in "The Men," he has established a reputation as a brilliant young actor who stands pretty much in a class by himself. I can't think of a faster or surer way for an actor in that unique position to commit professional suicide, than to join the long line of gun-wielding ing gangsters that are parading across the screen these days.

New York Day By Day

New York — This is the birthday of Bernard M. Baruch. Let us salute this patriotic elder statesman, and wish him joyful years to come, whether or not we agree with his policies at all times. He preaches an aggressive, forward-striding American civilization.

Buoy is pronounced in two syllables, boo-i, the i being short, as in it.

Mrs. John R. Barton, Jacksonville, wishes to call this simple fact to the attention of bobbling commercialists who clutter up the air with the mispronouncing of the name of their own product, which contains the word buoy. The broadcasters all call it boy, which it distinctly is not.

Daughter Marv sends me clipped ads from a daily newspaper in her neighborhood, in California. Painless Parker, dentist, takes nearly a quarter of a page, big display type, with portrait of Painless.

Another dentist, with better and larger portrait, has nearly half a page. A painless "foundation," treating a long list of painful ailments, has a two-column ad, half page deep, with portrait of a grinning old gentleman in a Roman collar — rathy nifty touch!

A less handsome specimen, using the degree D. C., asks "Why be sick?" and advertises an amazing physical examination for $5.

A competitor, same degree, in the same size ad offers complete physical for $2, assuring you that he can see your innermost organs.

An arthritis book, full of marvelous information, is offered in one column. A book on nervous breakdowns completes this museum of nostrum business, all from one issue of one newspaper.

This is quite an enlightening exhibit for us here in New York, where such advertising has been prohibited for many years.

A chiropractor may not call himself a doctor in New York, and the degree D. C. is not recognized. I know a masseur who spent six months on the Island for calling himself a doctor.

"Painless" is labeled fraudulent advertising, since it is obvious that dentistry is not painless.

Large signs outside offices of dentists or doctors are not permitted.

"That Old-Time Religion," by Archie Robertson (Houghton), is a good piece of Americana, deftly done by one who has respect for the more primitive forms of religious worship in this country, without himself being a fanatic.

I have always taken a great interest in the more vigorous of the evangelical sects, having been reared in a neighborhood in which were two wooden churches, one Methodist Episcopal and the other cUnited Brethren. Both congregations were of the shouting persuasion, and I requently attended the shouting exercieses. I enjoyed the lusty singing, and today I know more campmeeting hymns than most of my New York colleagues.

The ministers og God who conducted the camp-meetings, protracted meetings and bush meetings were often imported, but the local pastors could do pretty well themselves. One Uncle Andy had a wooden leg, which he used effectively for emphasis, as he shouted and wept before the deeply stirred congregations.

"That Old-Time Religion" brings back a lot of memories.

OUR CHILDREN

SEX NO SECRET

Fathers and mothers who try to keep their boys and girls "innocent" of sex practices are trying to sweep the sea with a broom. All nature is against them, present-day society is against them. Sex is no secret. Nature shouts it in every plant, in every animal, in every human being that lives and moves on this earth.

Nor is sex a sinful matter in itself. "Innocent" cannot be rightly used in association with knowledge concerning it. "Ignorance" is the correct term there and, as we say, ignorance is impossible today when every newspaper, magazine, show window, radio, screen and stage abounds in its expression.

Nobody needs to be told what a powerful force for good or evil lies in sex. Its use or misuse means all of life to people no matter who they are or where they are. To keep children ignorant of this powerful force, to attempt to keep them ignorant, is to burden them with semi-knowledge that is dangerous, to burden their minds with a feeling of guilt, to mar a sacred and lovely phase of their lives.

Keeping children in ignorance of sex ways and their implications in life is dangerous to the welfare and happiness of the children and young people. They must meet sex in their associations with others and unless they can meet it with understanding they are wide open to disastrous mistakes. For one thing they are exposed in their ignorance to disease, terrible disease for which there is but doubtful cure. This is something that every boy and girl should be taught. They should know, at least in terms of intellectual knowledge, that promiscuous sex relations threaten disaster to their health and to the health of their children. To suppress such knowledge is to sin against childhood and youth.

I can understand parents who object to class instruction in the schools on this subject. There are children who are unready for such teaching and they should not be exposed to it. But parents of such children are duty bound to instruct their children as fully as their stage of growth and experience allows. Anybody who believes that a twelve-year-old child attending junior high school does not hear talk about sex relations, is not informed by others with more or less accuracy, is mistaken.

Children must be taught to manage their sex lives, if not in school, then at home. To attempt to keep them in ignorance with the idea of protecting them is futile and dangerous.

Dr. Patri's leaflet, P-3, "Sex Education," gives helpful information to parents and a list of excellent books on the subject. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G. New York 19, N. Y.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

CHRISTMAS IN AUGUST

This morning's batch of mail included the following from a man in Great Neck, L. I.:

Dear Billy Rose:

As you probably noticed in the papers on August 7, a boy named Henry Turrill found a sack of undelivered mail in the rear of a junked automobile on the outskirts of Great Neck. It consisted mostly of Christmas cards which had been mailed in December, 1947, and the Post Office, after apologizing for the delay, promised to deliver them the next day.

Well, one of the pieces of mail was addressed to me—a letter from my wife, postmarked Cleveland, Ohio, and dated December 19, 1947. But what was in that letter won't make much sense to you unless I first tell you something about myself.

Shortly after I was married in $44, the draft boards began taking anything with two legs, and after ten months in Texas I was put on a boat and shipped off to that swamp called Okinawa. By the time I got there, the shooting was over, so I guess I was better off than most of the boys, but it was a dull and muddy sort of life, and I was plenty glad when I was shipped back and discharged in '47.

It was two days before Christmas when I arrived in Great Neck, and you can imagine how let down I felt when I found that my wife wasn't there waiting for me. Instead, there was a note on the table saying her mother wasn't feeling well, and she had gone to Cleveland. She'd be back in a few days—that is, if everything was all right.

This, of course, wasn't the homecoming I'd been figuring on and I took it pretty hard. But realizing there was nothing I could do about it—her mother didn't even have a phone—I sent her a Merry Christmas wire and told her to hurry back as soon as she could. It wasn't until after New Year's, however, that my wife showed up.

That was in '47, and in the past three years a lot of nice things have happened to us—a son, a pretty good job, and most of the mortgage paid off on our house. None of which would have come about if the letter my wife sent me from Cleveland had arrived on schedule.

In it, you see, she confessed there had been another a man while I'd been away—nobody she cared anything about, just someone who had happened along while she was lonely and miserable. She said if I didn't want her to come back to write and say so and she'd understand, but if she didn't hear from me she'd figure I had forgiven her and would return and try to make it up to me.

When the mailman handed me this three-year-old letter a couple of weeks ago, I wondered what the heck was in it, so I ripped it open and read it right there on the porch. And corny as it sounds, all the time I was reading it I could hear the vacuum going inside and my son making a racket in his upstairs bedroom.

Chances are, had I gotten this latter when I was fresh out of the army and plenty jumpy, I would have called my wife every dirty name and busted up our marriage so fast as the law would allow. But standing there on the porch I thought of the three good years we'd had together and the thirty more, maybe, coming up—not to mention the fact that I hadn't always been a saint myself. So, I put the letter in my pocket, and that night after work went to a jewelry store and made a down-payment one one of those wrist-watches with little red stones.

When I handed the present to my missus after dinner ,she said, "What's this—Christmas in August?"

"Exactly, baby," I said, and then I told her I had finally gotten her letter and how happy I was it had come thirty months late.

Since then we have talked a lot about this lucky accident, and today we decided there's a lesson in the story which might help a lot of other couples who feel like busting up their marriages the first time something goes wrong. If you run this letter in your column, we'd appreciate it, of course, if you didn't use our real names.

Sincerely,

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

EUROPEAN DEFENSE

A large minority of editors doubt that Winston Churchill's proposal for creation of a European army will do more than spur effective action on integration of forces under the North Atlantic pact. But majority opinion is hopeful that the separate European nations will see that a greater unity of military organization than the Atlantic pact would provide is necessary.—A considerable minority of editors continue to have some doubts about the wisdom of rearming western Germany. But the large majority considers the industrial and manpower resources of western Germany absolutely essential to the defense of Europe.

Denver (Colo.) Post (Ind.): "The consultative assembly of the council of Europe has voted in favor of a plan, urged by Churchill, Georges Bidault and Paul Reynaud of France and others, for creation of a united European army. . . . The assembly has no real authority to bring about such military unification but its decision is bound to carry a great deal of weight. . . . The United States even now is increasing its defense aid to Europe. The time has come when western Europe must help itself more, as Mr. Churchill and many others realize. Imperialism can be stopped, but only by united effort."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "In the consultative assembly we often see federation and rearmament treated as if they were essential parts of one problem. They are closely related. But for the moment they are distinct, and the shorter the time we have to prepare the more distinct they are. It is by no means clear that there will be time to federate before adequate mobilization can be achieved; nor is it by any means clear that prior to federation one war minister could fulfill the functions that would be assigned to him."

Oakland (Calif.) Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "Faint and tentative steps . . . have been taken by the members of the Atlantic alliance but Churchill's proposal goes much further than the tenuous integration now contemplated. . . . It presents difficult problems to the nations concerned but, in view of the tremendous contributions we are making and the atomic weapons we are committed to furnish, a really unified army seems the least that the free nations could do in the name of common defense."

Youngstown (Ohio) Vindicator (Ind.-Dem.): "Churchill's proposal . . . is hardly practicable. It is not likely that he expects it actually to come into existence, but hoped to rouse the European people to the need for joint action, and the European governments to move fast on the plan they have already set up. This plan, under the Atlantic pact, is for a European defense system made up of national forces, each of which would specialize in what it could best do. The program would produce national forces which could be integrated into a general defense system in time of crisis."

New York Times (Ind.-Dem.): "The assembly's resolution is also significant for another reason. . . . It envisages the inclusion of Germany in the west-European defense system. In that respect the resolution goes beyond the confines of the north Atlantic pact. . . . It marks the growing recognition that Germany is just as essential to European defense as to its economic stability, and that in the view of most authorities western Europe is indefensible unless Germany 'shares its perils and augments its strength.'"

Birmingham (Ala.) News (Ind.-Dem.): "It is clear enough that some west Germans still do not want to be rearmed (in fear of inviting a Russian attack). That is our real thistle in the garden—the reaction of west Germans. Rearming them . . . could be dangerous. It is not clear that west Germany so opposes Russian domination that it would stand with us against the greatest of odds. West Germans have not docilely followed our lead, as have Japanese. But . . . the question is most persistently and annoyingly with us. We've got to get at it."

Savannah (Ga.) Morning News (Ind.): "Whether or not the Germans in the western zones would be loyal to the west . . . of course, would have to be proved; but it is a fact that should be considered that during the height of Hitler's power the German people schooled in the idea that the Bolsheviks were Germany's worst enemies. This was done even after the Russo-German non-aggression pact of 1939 was signed. Under proper control and oversight there is every reason to believe that the Germans in the west could be put to excellent use in the event of a war with the Soviet Union."

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

PRIVATE RESPONSIBILITY

In time of war, it is not unusual for a people to become deeply concerned over details. Where is Pusan? What did Averell Harriman say to General MacArthur?

All this is interesting, but it divorces the mind from our major problem—the answer to which will decide what our world will be, no matter whether battles are won or lost.

Obviously something happened between the years 1914 and 1950 which altered the course of western civilization and of American history and life. That alteration has not been for the better. It has brought us, to date, three general wars and an economic dislocation of great depth. Its social consequences are just beginning to appear in the changed character of our family life.

Walter Hoving, merchant, put it this way:

"Why are we so confused? Is it possibly because so many of our basic beliefs were under fire during the first half of the twentieth century? Beliefs that we used to take for granted suffered from constant and vigorous attack. Take our religious beliefs for example. The initial assault on religion came from science. Science set itself up as having an omnipotence of its own. Many people instead of recognizing that science was merely discovering the laws of God were led to believe that science itself was God. They were made to feel that the spiritual basis for the universe was old-fashioned and obsolete."

This is a clinical diagnosis of a deep social illness, namely, that the vast accumulation of unrelated data has had the effect of separating us from the essential characteristic of western civilization, which is, private, personal, individual responsibility.

But what it comes to is that not a majority, or a mass or a mob or a committee, nor even a minority, can assume responsibility for the conduct of the individual in the presence of God.

This concept of personal responsibility had the broadest historical consequences, for it evoked the doctrine of personal liberty and of political and economic freedom. On the political side, it destroyed the concept of despotism and established the principle that a good government is one in which the choice is made, in an orderly fashion, by the people themselves. On the economic side, it produced capitalism.

By whatever name, private enterprise, free enterprise, profit and loss system, capitalism is the economic consequence of a philosophic system of personal rather than mass responsibility. It is one man standing alone to do what he can and must, assuming all the liabilities, risking his future, accepting the benefits, whatever they may be.

This system, whatever its advantages or defects, cannot exist at all if government or any other communal agency rejects the responsibility of the individual for his choices, his decisions and his conduct. For instance, such a system cannot exist in a prison or an asylum or even when, in despair or for power, men are forced to go to war.

Under such conditions, a despotism appears—either the despotism of the person, or of an oligarchy or a mob. The individual is not only repressed; he is actually suppressed as a nuisance. Whoever controls force and power, controls man. The individual not only may not do according to his choice; he may not think without consent.

Thus Zhdanov was able to dictate the character of newly-written music; and now Stalin is messing about with the propriety of words. Dictators operate not only in the political and economic realm; they would fashion all men to their tastes and destroy those who displease them.

Walter Hoving makes this interesting point:

"One of the most tragic consequences of all this is that we have even lost our deep seated belief in freedom itself. Although we still use the word, its connotation has changed. We have substituted for freedom a sort of parasitical security. For example, many people number among the so-called four freedoms two new ones. . . . They are the freedom from want and the freedom from fear. These, of course, are not freedoms at all, but securities."

For every benefit, there must be a compensatory payment or even sacrifice. Therefore, to obtain extraordinary securities, freedoms have to be curtailed or sacrificed entirely. Guaranteed existence, which is called security, can only mean a lessening or the elimination of personal responsibility. This is the essential danger of our era.

"POLITICS AS USUAL"

Every indication is that the administration is playing "politics as usual" during the present crisis. All decisions are made with an eye as to how they will affect the fall elections. Nothing will be done to alienate the voter before these elections take place.

This in face of the fact that these are not "usual" times. Certainly, it is not "life as usual" to the American boy who goes into Korea knowing that the enemy will make every effort to take his life and not knowing whether he shall ever again see his home. It is not "home as usual", when mothers and fathers drad the day that they may see their sons called off to a possible death in a foreign land. It is not "business as usual" when prices are rising and taxes are rising and there is a shortage in many lines.

But that is war! Nothing is supposed to be "as usual" in time of war. Not even politics! War is life and death. War not only makes doubtful the survival of the individual—the outcome of war determines whether nations shall survive whether creeds and philosophies shall survive

That is why all the resources of a people engaged in war must be devoted to the winning of that war. Because the survival of all the component parts of that people's way of life depends upon their winning that war—not some of them, all of them. No one of these parts can be "as usual", while the rest of them are subordinated to the winning of the war.

It is tragic, therefore, to see the administration attempt to unbalance even more an already unbalanced budget. Even before the Korean outbreak, it was already known that our 1951 fiscal year would end with a deficit of anywhere from $3 billion to $10 billion. Since the outbreak, this deficit has already been definitely increased by $10 billion more. The chances are that even under present conditions a further increase of $10 to $12 billion will be piled on top of that. In other words, even without world war, the probabilities are that we shall wind up the year with a deficit of from $20 to $30 billion.

But for fear that the voters may not like it, the administration is only asking for additional taxes of $5 billion—just a token of what it will take.

Maybe the voters wouldn't like it! Perhaps it would alienate their votes for an administration that would call on them to not only balance the budget but to pay the increased cost of the war as we go along. But that's where leadership comes in, that's where statesmanship comes in—because anyone of any intelligence knows that these enlarged governmental outlays piled on top of the "boom" we were already having, without a corresponding increase in governmental income, will lead to a disastrous inflation that will destroy our national economy and correspondingly our form of government.

So this is no time for "politics as usual"! An administration that placed patriotism before politics would first of all abolish all "pork barrel" appropriations. It would cut out all unessential expenditures. It would then demand an immediate increase in taxes, if that were necessary, to balance the budget and cover war costs. It would demand adequate control powers over consumer finance and construction finance to go along with existing monetary authority. It would pay government expenses out of government income instead of the printing press. It would keep the country economically strong—and therefore militarily strong.

Our economy is still strong in this country; it can still provide a very high standard of living and large increases in defense expenditures without further inflation, if we only have the will to make it do so. The responsibility for avoiding the unmitigated tragedy of inflation lies clearly before our leadership at the present time. Failure to take action to prevent it will be inexcusable.

In Washington With

BASCOM TIMMONS

Inability to profit by lessons of World War II is not confined to the department of defense. The congress of the United States, which traditionally gives its worst legislative performance when hostilities begin (and that goes for all wars in our history) is kicking around economic controls in a manner which would indicate that its leaders entirely mistrust the experiences of 1941-46, when the trial and error process reached its peak in American history.

The country might think from their actions that hardly a member of the present congress had gone through the excruciating phases of World War II, in which the most important thing for victory was not price control and rationing, even though it affected every civilian, but materials control, which worked out very well over the full course. Many industrialists have communicated to Washington their view that if the controlled materials plan in effect at the end of World War II were restored now, nothing else would need to be done for some time to come.

The emphasis of congress, however, seems to be on price control, which President Truman is not ready to put into effect, and which is not being widely demanded by consumers. What congress had dodged, and with some legitimate excuse, is the necessity of cutting more deeply into non-military appropriations in order to offset the tremendous bill to be presented for additional armament.

The excuse is that the legislative branch of government has hamstrung itself in many ways to prevent reductions in non-military expense. As pointed out in this column, recently there are several billions of dollars for non-military purposes which cannot be cut because of restrictive provisions adopted by congress and there are other outlays which political pressure just won't permit to be trimmed.

Without a very drastic reduction in spending, which congress hasn't yet shown a determination to accomplish, the inflationary trend which Soviet Russia has figured will reach the "boom and bust" stage in this country comparatively soon will be accentuated. We haven't reached the "guns or butter" stage exactly, but there are people here who think it won't be long.

The credit controls of the house bill give the president wide latitude to reduce your credit buying, but they do not take much account of the tremendous monetary purchasing power now extent in the United States which sends people scampering to buy until there is a shortage of goods and prices go zooming, with the accompanying black market and the necessary imposition of price control, which might not be required if the instinct to buy everything in sight, because we have a war on, could be restrained.

The Communists must derive some satisfaction from this picture, because they have our economic reactions well figured (we could wish we had theirs as well gauged) and they are convinced that no capitalist country can continue in the cycle which a national emergency produces, with its tremendous costs for armed service.

Nobody seems too much impressed with the idea that instead of rationing and price controls, an individual expenditure control plan is introduced, which would permit every one to buy the same amounts of goods in dollars value. But maybe that would be socialistic.

Afflicted Youth To Get Treatment

Osceola Mills, Pa., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Little Nelson Haney is a sturdy, good-looking four-year-old. At first glance, he appears to be pretty much like other little boys his age.

But Nelson is sick. Since the age of three months, a strange ailment, believed to be a brain tumor, has caused him to scream out intermittently and pound his head with his hands.

He learned to walk but his speech is limited to the word "mama." He cannot play or feed himself. His coal miner father, with five other youngsters in the family, has never been able to afford special hospital treatment.

But Nelson will be flown to Philadelphia for examination and possible treatment at the graduate hospital. The entire cost of the trip has been underwritten by contributions to a fund sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary in this little Clearfield county community.

The original goal of $1,000 set by the auxiliary has been almost doubled. Contributions ranging from 10 cents to $100 poured into the Osceola Mills National Bank, depository of the fund, after the child's plight was made known.

If doctors are unable to cure Nelson, the money will be used to place him in an institution where he may receive special care that his parents are unable to provide.

A DAREDEVIL TAKES TO THE AIR

City Playgrounds Windup Successful Summer Session

The city playgrounds under the sponsorship of the Monroe Recreation department closed a very successful summer session Friday with an overall enrollment of 26,889 children, including white and colored, in attendance.

Many special features such as baby shows, pet shows, bicycle parades and others were conducted. The highlight of the playground was the program on Joseph E. Lee day when 500 children met at Barkdull Faulk for a full day of enjoyment.

Winners for the season in handcraft, instructed by Miss Peggy Garnett, were as follows: Georgia Tucker, Tommy McDonald, Janet Mahaffey, Conley Thornhill, Nancy Breard, John Cobb, Mary Wilson, Joella McClary, Virginia Pohlman; Missouri Pacific, Sam Jungina, Claudine Moore, Billy Bryant, Eva Joy Lent, George Riser, Joe Arron, Sue Turner; Barkdull Faulk, Henry Holdiness, Elizabeth Pitano, Glenn Officer, Jenene Gibson, Tommy Crow, Judy Hesketh, Noble Pruitt, Elaine Hesketh; Lida Benton, Cecil Williams, Ann Rizzo, Lavell McLenard, Antionette Wardner, Glenn Bassett, Bater Eberts, Billy Shipp; Sherrouse, Billy Young, Irene Block, Bater mond Nelson, Shirley Crowe, Tommy McBride, Miratta Heidenrich, Ann Walker, Ernest Carter, Louise Nelson, Carolyn Block.

Four Killed In C-47 Crash In Costa Rica

Panama, Panama, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Maj. Robert R. Smedley of Louisville, Ky., and Lt. Owen C. Bickford of Glover, Vt., were identified today as two of four persons killed by the crash of a U. S. airforce transport plane near Sabana airport, San Jose, Costa Rica, Thursday.

The other two dead were Costa Ricans, one a five-year-old girl. The plane, a C-47, crashed through three houses. One crewmen and several workers were injured.

Maj. Smedley commanded the sixth liasion flight at Albrook airforce base. Bickford was on temporary duty in Costa Rica with the Inter-American Geodetic survey.

HARPER AWARDED COURTHOUSE JOB

Winnsboro Building, To Cost $555,867, To Be Finished In Year

Winnsboro, La., Aug. 19.—(Special)—The Franklin parish police jury has awarded J. A. Harper, Crowville, La., the contract for construction of the three-story courthouse and jail at Winnsboro. The cost of the building will be $555,867, and it is to be completed within 365 days.

Officials have moved out of the old building and it is being demolished to make way for the new structure. The 34 shade trees on the courthouse square which were set out in 1903, are being cut down to make room for the new building. It is a sad sight to see these oak trees, the most beautiful in Winnsboro, being destroyed.

The parish tax assessor, registrar of voters and the police jury have moved to the Winnsboro municipal building, the Red Cross to the Diamond-Hawthrone Community center and the sheriff's department to the Knight building located on the east end of Prairie street. The Winnsboro city jail will also serve as the parish jail. The clerk of court office will remain standing as long as possible or until the new structure is completed.

On the first floor of the central structure of the new courthouse, will be the sheriff's department, assessor, police jury, registrar of voters, service officer and the Red Cross. On the second floor will be the courtroom, judge's chamber, district attorney's office, witness and jury room. The office of the clerk of court will be in the east wing and the jail and jailer's quarters will be located on the third floor.

The bond issue for this building was approved in April of this year.

"Missing Links" Sought In Hiss-Chambers Intrigue

By John B. Owen

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Seeking "missing links" in the Hiss-Chambers case, the house un-American activities committee has called as a witness, Lee Presman, onetime new deal government lawyer and a former C. I. O. leader.

Rep. Nixon (R.-Calif.), disclosing this today, said the action was his idea, prompted by Pressman's break last week with the American labor party. Pressman said the party couldn't win because of labor's conviction it is following the Communist party line.

Pressman himself was accused by Whittaker Chambers in 1948 of having served as leader of a "cell" in a Red network in Washington during Chambers' career as a Communist party member which ended in 1937.

Summoned to testify at that time, Pressman refused to say whether he knew Chambers, and declined on constitutional grounds to say whether he had ever been a Communist party member.

Chambers was the government's star witness in the perjury trials of Alger Hiss, who was convicted for denying that he had supplied government secrets to Chambers at a time when the caller was a Communist spy ring courier.

Nixon, who said there were "missing links" in the case, did not describe them. He told reporters he believes Pressman can supply some of them.

Hiss acknowledged at his trial in 1949 that he knew five men named by Chambers as Communists, including Pressman, but he denied he knew them as Communists.

Pressman, publicly denying accusations against him, termed the house committee's hearings in 1948 as designed to "smear" him and others who once served in the Roosevelt administration.

Pressman resigned his $19,000 a year post as general counsel of the C. I. O. in 1948 when the C. I. O. opposed the Progressive party candidacy of Henry Wallace for president. He supported the Wallace candidacy and himself was American labor party candidate for congress in New York.

In his break with the American labor party, Pressman said labor does not support it because of "an outstanding conviction" that its policies, activity and political direction reflect the Communist party.

Pressman, joining the government in 1933, was assistant general counsel of the agricultural adjustment administration, and then general counsel of the works progress administration and the resettlement administration. He became C. I. O. general counsel in 1936.

POLICE ENFORCE NEW SPEED LAW

State Police Troop 'F' Arrests 69—29 For Speeding Violation

Continuing to crack down on speeders, state police of troop "F" made 69 arrests during the past week including 29 apprehensions for speeding.

Capt. R. W. Ensminger urges truck drivers and motorists to cooperate with state police in observing the speed limits. He pointed out that arrests will be made in all cases where the speed limit is violated.

In an effort to make Louisiana highways safer, Capt. Ensminger said state police are exerting all efforts to enforce speed limits.

The speed limit on buses is 50 miles per hour, towing units 35, trucks 40 and passenger cars 60.

Under the present law, speeders face a mandatory $100 fine for being speeding.

The 29 persons apprehended this week and charged with speeding are:

Alphonso Schuler, 21, 3560 Stonewall street, Shreveport; Britton Lillie, 42, Negro, Kelly; Eloy B. Cobb, 30, 3601 Richmond street, Monroe; Burl Franklin, Jr., 20, Negro, Ruston; John H. Packard, 29, Negro, route 1, Jones.

No driver's license: Cleave Dean, Negro, 30, 918 Atkinson street, Monroe; Hayward Rubin, Negro, 43, Winnsboro.

Disturbing the peace: John C. Jordan, 38, 1306 South Third street, Monroe; Jeff J. Beebe, 49, West Monroe; Franklin B. Frost, 31, West Monroe; Walter W. Frost, 66, West Monroe; Ford Cotney, 45, Fairbanks; Net English, Negro, 67, Sterlington; M. A. Koleman, 207 Louisanna street, Monroe.

Eight Persons Feared Drowned In Accident

Cornwal, Ont., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Four automobiles plunged off a slippery roadway into the Soulange canal near here, and eight persons were feared drowned.

Police said three bodies were recovered. One victim was a baby, whose parents were believed from New York.

The cars plunged into the canal during a series of four accidents on the Kingston-Montreal highway. The mishaps occurred within a half mile of one another.

One car, seen sliding down a bank into the water, had a United States license, witnesses said. The other vehicles were believed to be Canadian.

Russian Labels Americans 'Uncultured Gangsters'

Moscow, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Literary Gazette published a picture today purporting to show a group of captured Americans in North Korea signing the Stockholm peace petition—and in the same edition carried a story which called American soldiers "uncultured gangsters."

The picture did not identify any of the soldiers. It merely showed them in a group, one with pen in hand.

(The so-called Stockholm peace petition is a Communist supported appeal for outlawing the atom bomb, for which the Communists throughout the world claim millions of signatures.)

The Gazette's correspondent in North Korea signed the story characterizing American doughboys as gangsters. It was in the form of an interview with a prisoner of war, identified only as "Paul Sanders, son of a rich Indiana farmer."

(At Shoals, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders, operators of a small farm and sawmill, said they believed their son, S-Sgt. Paul R. Sanders, was the one interviewed. He is listed as missing in action. Sanders' father commented angrily "if I had a rifle and I were over there, I'd show them how poor I am.")

The Soviet correspondent, Alexander Chakovsky, said he asked Sanders how he got to Korea.

Chakovsky said he then asked Sanders about his political opinions and was told: "I don't mess about in politics."

"Who is Charles Dickens?" Chakovsky said he then asked.

"Sanders did not comprehend the question and then said 'O, yeah, something for children,' " the story continued.

"The soldier then made an observation which requires no comment: 'I have no notion of culture,' " Chakovsky wrote.

The correspondent likened Sanders to a German captive soldier he once interviewed. The German, too said Chakovsky, claimed he was following orders.

Chakovsky then wrote that he had talked to another American soldier who was captured "dead drunk."

"These are the American stormtroopers—stupid toughs from some place like Indiana or Oklahoma, picturing themselves as supermen, yet cowardly talking about orders," the correspondent commented.

The story said many American soldiers were surrendering willingly. He described the U. S. military position in Korea as a "shameful collapse."

SHERWOOD SPEECH IRES SCOTCHMEN

U. S. Writer Blasts Stalin; Scots Say 'We're Not Here To Politic'

Edinburgh, Scotland, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A charge by Rogert Sherwood that Prime Minister Stalin is fomenting war irrated two scots in the international congress of the P.E.N. today.

Dr. Archie LaMont, Scottish geologist and pacifist, interrupted the New York dramatist to say: "You are talking about drama, not politics."

Scottish poet Hugh MacDiarmid walked out angrily.

Sherwood had told the member of P. E. N. (poets, essayists and novelists) that many intelligent persons hold Stalin will not be stupid enough to start another world war, but "the bitter fact is that Stalin has already displayed a capacity for abysmal stupidity."

He accused the Russians of incredible intransigence. He said the present world situation is unnecessary and senseless and declared those responsible for it are, like Adolf Hitler, headed for suicide.

Dr. Lamont spoke up at that point. He did not join MacDiarmid in the walkout, but stayed on to interrupt other speakers.

A British novelist, St. John Ervine, later prefaced a talk on drama with a reference to "angry little men."

"They are the most dangerous people in the world," Ervine said. "They run about imagining that their emotions are all that matter—that what they thing is the only thing that is worth a damn and tat anybody who doesn't agree with them should be liquidated."

P. E. N. is a politically independent literary organization. The meeting was attended by about 150 writers from 20 countries, including the United States, Canada and most West European nations.

The group met in connection with Edinburgh's annual international festival of music and drama, which opens tomorrow and continues until Sept. 9.

Dr. Lamont showed up tonight at the Edinburgh College of Art, where he rose to protest a speaker's remarks at a meeting opening "the 1001 books of the year exhibition."

The Earl of Crawford and Balcarres referred to the absence from the Edinburgh festival of a famed Czechoslovak puppet show whose appearance was cancelled by the Czech government.

"The iron curtain stretches further and further forward," he said. "It has even fallen on the puppets on which we thought an Edinburg curtain would rise."

He added that it had fallen because of the fear that ideas from "plutocratic princes street (Edinburgh's principal thoroughfare) would enter their poor little wooden heads."

NINETY B-29'S

eclipsed only by the B-29 smash last Wednesday on the Communist ground troop build-up in the Waegwan area of the central front.

"Clouds of dust and debris and many small fires covered the rail center," reported Lt. Col. Joseph D. White, in telling of the Chongjin attack.

"Our whole bomb load struck the railroad shops and marshalling yard area," the airman said. His plane was in the third wave to attack.

Other pilots said great balls of fire—from 500 to 1,000 feet in diameter billowed up from the blasted iron works. Air force experts speculated that the elaborate fireworks may have resulted from direct hits on furnaces containing molten metal.

GRAIN

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A slight pick up in selling pressure toward the close today was enough to leave wheat with minor losses. Before the late liquidation the market had drifted along at a steady pace with dealings very small.

Wheat closed 3/4 to 1 cent lower, September $2.23 3/4, corn was 3/8 lower to 3/8 higher, September $1.52 1/8-$1.52, oats were 1/81/4 lower, September 76 3/4, rye was unchanged to 1/4 lower, September $1.37, soybeans were 1/4-1/2 higher, November $2.44 3/4-1 4, and lard was 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $14.55.

Close: Wheat—September 2.23 3/4, December 2.27 1/8, March 2.28 1/2, May 2.25 1/4.

Corn—September 1.52 1/8-52, December 1.44, March 1.47, May 1.48.

Oats—September 76 3/4, December 78 1/8-1/4, March 78 1/4, May 75 3/8.

READY TO MARCH

newsmen that "we have the whole sector under control" and that the Reds fourth division there had "been soundly beaten."

The blood of the enemy stained the river where soldiers were caught by planes while swimming or fording.

The American military assessment of the Changnyong action was that the Red Korean fourth divsiion had been eliminated as a fighting force after one of the most intensive battles of the war.

The main threat remained north of Taegu where the appearance of a probing spearhead only 10 miles away was followed by orders that the more than 500,000 civilians leave the city entirely to the military. South Korea's government also abandoned it as a provisional capital. Red shells struck Teagu Saturday night, hitting the railroad yard and killing two South Koreans.

The spearhead's forced retreat and lessening pressure on other fronts added up to a remarkable defensive victory. But there was no apparent feeling at General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo or at U. S. eighth army headquarters in Korea that the Reds have given up their offensive.

Their units still appeared to be probing for any weak spots through which to hurl the might of 50,000 troops.

Another possible meance was posed in the extreme south—in the sector where the marines had pushed almost to Chinju only to be called back 27 miles to thicken defenses elsewhere. In that sector east of Chinju, defended by the U. S. 25th division, Assocated Press Correspondent Stan Swinton said the Reds were concentrating tanks and motorized infantry last night.

Swinton said front line officers expected the Reds to open a new drive against American forces defending Masan. The Americans have driven back dawn attacks in battalion strength by the sixth North Korean division for two successive days.

The extent and intent of the American-South Korean push in the Pohang sector remained to be assessed. A U. S. eighth army spokesman said other American and South Korean units were attacking northwest of Taegu along a highway from Indong.

Receipt of these latest developments pierced a two-fold blackout of communications.

War correspondents lost contact with their Tokyo offices when the U. S. eighth army removed army telephone and teletype lines from the correspondents' billet near the army's advanced headquarters in Korea. The army said only that the equipment was needed in military installations.

There are no other means of communications available to the front line correspondents in Korea.

Further explanation from eighth army field headquarters was not available because correspondents in Korea could not contact Tokyo and Tokyo could not contact them.

The blackout is expected to be only temporary, but while it lasts war news remains sharply restricted.

(Compounding the communications problem was an atmospheric blackout of radio communications between Tokyo and the United States, which had lasted for several hours.)

The word of a new Communist massing, apparently on the front before Taegu, main American forward base, came from an unconfirmed prisoner-of-war report via General MacArthur's headquarters.

The headquarters summary early today (Sunday) said the Red first, third, 13th and 15th divisions were reported preparing for a new assault to breach United Nations defense lines.

The summary did not precisely locate the area, but said the enemy was probing in search of soft spots along the Naktong river. That is in the zone west of Taegu.

Contact with the enemy was broken off on the northern front a dozen or more miles north of Taegu, the summary related and patrols penetrated four to six miles without finding Red resistance.

A. P. Correspondent Don Whitehead had placed the Red third, 13th and 15th divisions on that northern front in fighting Friday night (the implication was that they might have shifted farther southwest.)

An enemy buildup also was reported on the U. S. 25th division front in the southern most Korean war sector. The Tokyo summary said pilots spotted enemy troop concentrations in the vicinity 30 miles west and southwest of Masan. That is about 60 air miles southwest of Taegu.

In a Saturday dispatch shortly before the communications cut-off, A. P. Correspondent Stan Swinton reported from that southern front that the Red sixth division was continuing to smash at the Americans. He said the reports of a major buildup in the Chinju area led to fears that the attack might develop into an offensive.

The communications closedown prevented clarification or amplification of these reports.

A spokesman for MacArthur had said Saturday that the threat to Taegu—until Friday South Korea's temporary capital—"does not exist today as it did Thursday."

This was the result of American and South Korean defensive successes Friday.

The South Korean second corps aided by the American 27th regiment had turned back a threat to Taegu from the north. However, three to five Red divisions had been reported still in the vicinity.

The Tokyo spokesman also said the North Korean fourth division in the enemy's Changnyong bridgehead, east of the Naktong river on the central front, had been so badly mauled that it was not considered a fighting unit 'for the immediate future."

Elements of the U. S. marine first brigade and the 24th infantry division, who cracked the shell of the Communist Changnyong beachhead Friday, continued to smash at the retreating Reds Saturday, with considerable help from the air.

Enemy troops fleeing from the marines and infantrymen were strafed, rocketed and bombed by marine and fifth air force planes as they swam or forded the Naktong in their effort to rejoin the main body of North Korean units on the west side of the river. Some Reds escaped under cover of a smoke screen.

A. P. Correspondent Don Huth reported after a flight over the bridgehead in an observation plane that the U. S. troops appeared close to their goal of throwing the Reds back across the river.

Huth said American artillery and planes had set fires in six villages on the west side of the river.

In the first allied action' of its kind in the war, South Korean troops made a surprise landing Friday on Tokchok Island, 35 miles southwest of Inchon on the Korean west coast, after brief shelling of the island by British cruisers and derewayers.

Significance of the move was not explained by the spokesman at MacArthur's headquarters, who announced it. They did not disclose whether any Reds were found on the island.

In allied hands, the island could become an observation point covering enemy movements of troops and supplies by water from North Korea to ports on the southwestern coast of the Korean peninsula.

Sixty U. S. B-29s blasted rail yards, iron works, and port and dock facilities Saturday at Chingjin, 60 miles south of Russian territory on the northwest coast of Korea with 550 tons of bombs.

Thirty other B-29s hit Hamhung, 130 miles north of the 38th parallel. These blows by a total of 90 B-29s represented the second largest air strike of the war on Korea. The largest was the blow by almost 100 B-29s earlier this week at Red troops in the Waegwan area of the central front.

The fifth air force flew a record number of 350 strikes against Red ground troops, and flew a total of 550 sorties of all types to equal the previous single day's record.

TIDELAND

posed to the measure that it appears a virtual impossibility to reach an agreement on a bill which could then be speedily pushed through congress during the short time remaining.

This appears to be the situation despite the fact that everyone concerned believes that some type of interim legislation dealing with the many controversies between the states of Texas, Louisiana and California, on one hand and the federal government on the other, arising from the supreme court decisions giving the federal government paramount powers over the submerged offshore lands and minerals underlying them, should be enacted as soon as possible.

During the past week, members of the senate committee; top government officials; officials of the states involved; and executives of oil companies operating in the tidelands, all declared in favor of temporary legislation designed to permit continued development of and production of oil and gas in the offshore lands until congress can finally enact permanent legislation settling the long dispute.

Federal officials, however, insisted that future management of the tidelands, even under interim legislation, should be transferred to the secretary of interior. On the other hand, top officials. On Texas and Louisiana were equally insistent that these powers remain with the states and demanded that the O'Mahoney bill be so amended.

Louisiana's position, similar to that taken by Texas earlier this week, was presented to the committee today by several officials, either in direct testimony or statements filed with the committee.

Lieutenant Governor William J. Dodd, who was forced to leave Washington Friday after remaining here for most of the week, agreed in his statement that temporary legislation at this time would "prove beneficial." He explained that he was authorized to speak for Governor Earl K. Long.

At the same time, he declared that the O'Mahoney resolution should be amended on four points. Briefly, they are:

1. Continue control of the tidelands in the states.
2. Validate all leases made by the states prior to effect date of this legislation.
3. Define or set up method of defining inland waters so that Louisiana could continue to operate these admittedly state-owned properties.
4. Waive any claim the federal government might make or monies received by states from operation of disputed lands.

Louisiana State Attorney General Bolivar Kemp attracted special interest by committee members in his proposal that, insofar as an interim agreement is concerned, the line between inland and seaward waters established already by an act of congress be used for the tidelands problem.

BELGIUM REDS

ergetically and courageously a theory that the majority of Belgians rejects," he added. "In a Democratic country like ours, all opinions have the right to show themselves so long as they respect the laws the nation has given itself."

But the Communists already were in action. They called a "mourning" strike in the Liege metal works plants in the Seraing suburb, and some sources said the strike might continue until Lahaut's burial Tuesday. Lahaut, silver-haired and jovial, enjoyed some popularity outside Communist ranks.

The Belgian party, according to semi-official figures, is not numerically strong. There are only about 25,000 party members in a total population of 8,500,000. But party sympathizers are estimated at 175,000. Lahaut was one of seven Communist members in the lower house of Parliament. The Communists have three senators.

Officially Lahaut was head of the party, but the real boss is said to be bald-headed Edgard Lalmand, a former Antwerp grain dealer who is the party's general secretary and a member of Parliament. Lalmand recently spent several weeks in Russia, ostensibly on a holiday. He had left Belgium soon after his party got a beating at the polls in June 4 elections.

An interesting sidelight on these events came from London, where the pro-Russian English language news sheet, New Diplomat, accused both the Belgian and French Communist parties of "messianic deviation." This term was not explained in detail, but the article charged that "Communist parties of France and Belgium are stuffed with Titoists, Crypto - Trotzkyists and authentic Trotzkyists." This deviation, it said cannot continue. The publication is not, according to the Soviet news agency Tass, officially cooperating with either the Soviet government or its embassy in London.

The Communist party called a meeting in Liege and rushed out a leaflet for distribution which blamed the assassination on Leo-rexists." (This is a combination of the terms Leopoldist and Rexists, the latter being a prewar Fascist movement.)

"Arm the murderers and stop Fascism!" it said. "Demonstrate in mass to show your indignation against the assassination of the man who fought for democracy and peace! The people, by its action, will avenge Julien Lehaut!"

The Communist newspaper Le Drapeau Rouge carried a six-column headline saying "our dear comrade Julien Lehaut was assassinated by Leo-Rexists."

All shades of political opinion were condemning the crime as police launched an extensive hunt for the slayers.

KOREAN WAR

congressional action and presidential approval.

Industrial production in June and July stood at a peacetime peak—199 per cent of the 1935-39 average.

Gross national production also stood at a peacetime record level at mid-year—$270 billion.

Those peaks were built fundamentally on peacetime demand for goods and services.

That peacetime production can be expanded for war. But how much?

The steel industry, for example, is the backbone of war needs. It is operating at around 100 per cent of capacity and turning out nearly 2,000,000 tons a week—a record rate.

Instead of expanding, wartime needs must be met by diversion from civilian needs. That means more emphasis on tanks and less on automobiles, more freight cars and fewer passenger cars, more munitions and less toys. That's one reason there is a stampede to buy steel before diversion begins.

Shipping at the moment is adequate.

Manpower is the biggest question, but we are stronger now than in the last war. In 1944 we had a labor force of 65,890,000 persons including 11,260,000 in the armed forces. Today we have a labor force of 65,742,000 including only 1,315,000 in the armed forces.

So far the draft is authorized to take only 185,000 men. Defense officials are talking in terms of 800,000 new men from all sources for the armed forces.

But right now the whole economic picture is as puzzling as fear of a sugar shortage. This year the country will have available around 16,000,000,000 pounds of sugar for 150,000,000 people. The bets are that hoarding or no hoarding, people just won't be able to eat that much sugar.

square opposed to calling the convention; that I have been working against it privately and will in due course oppose it publicly, giving my reasons thereof," Tooke said.

Barham said he concurred in Tooke's position and that he already had so stated to his own people in Ruston.

Crothers, in his statement, that, in voting for the Long administration's convention call after failing to amend it for an unrestricted referendum on any new constitution, "I did not feel that we condoned the calling of the convention, which I opposed during the regular session and which I now oppose and will oppose on November 7."

medical supplies was issued on behalf of the women and children who fled before the advancing Communist forces and are now crowded in the Pusan area.

Articles specified as being desperately needed include blankets, clothing for women and children including small sizes of shoes for both, sweaters, jackets and underwear for women and children for winter wear and drugs and medical supplies for medical shipment.

All supplies and clothing for the refugees may be left at the Adams Cleaners at 803 DeSiard in Monroe, where it will be collected by Altrusans and redirected to the Japanese headquarters of the Korean unit.

a far more important objective—western Europe."

His essentials are:

1. Immediate completion and approval by the 12 Atlantic treaty nations of a defense plan for western Europe which will specify precisely the military tasks and missions of each country. His call for such a plan made it clear that none yet exists.

2. Establishment of a unified military command "with authority and responsibility to implement and execute the defense plans, and to assume the command function if needed."

In this connection Cooper declared "it is inevitable and moral that Germany shall be given the opportunity to defend itself." He suggested that might be accomplished by letting Germany participate in a European army such as that favored by the council of Europe.

GERMANS PROFIT

dicted from these and other nations. Industry spokesmen say the orders cannot be met unless the production ceiling is raised.

The allies limit West Germany's annual steel production to 11 100,000 tons. This is about 3,500,000 tons below what the Germans could produce with their present plants. The Germans would like the lin it boosted now to 13,000,000 tons a year, and later on, to 14,500,000 tons.

German steel experts said orders for 850,000 tons of steel were received by Ruhr valley plants in the first half of August. Of these orders, American firms accounted for 150,000 tons.

Three months ago the Germans were not selling a penny's worth of steel to the United States, and order for the entire month of June from all foreign firms totalled only 200,080 tons. After the Korea invasion, foreign orders hit 500,000 tons in July.

picket lines will continue and the newspaper will make no effort to open its plant before the Tuesday vote.

The newspaper, one of New York's three afternoon dailies, has been shut down since June 13, when the guildsmen walked out.

A. F. L. Printers and Mechanical Unions, with whom the guild had recently agreed on a program of mutual support, refused to cross guild picket lines throughout the strike.

Chief guild demands were for a 10 per cent general wage increase, a requirement that nine out of 10 new employes be guild members, and new job security provisions.

The job-security issue was considered a major one by the guild because the paper recently added heavily to its staff after merging with the old New York Sun last Jan. 5.

The night-long bargaining session came at the end of a week of almost continuous talks launched at the behest of Federal Mediator Walter A. Maggiolo.

Until then, meetings had been held about once a week. In starting the intensified bargaining, Maggiolo said that "the strike has gone too far for either side to win a clear-cut victory. There will have to be a compromise."

During the strike, idle guildsmen have received benefits of 25 per cent of their regular pay, plus extra for dependents, from a fund made up from a city-wide guild assessment.

Some 40 editorial and business employes who did not strike have received their regular paychecks from the paper.

A. F. L. Mechanical Workers either got other jobs as vacation relief hands, or received benefits from their union.

CO-CHAIRMEN ON EDUCATION NAMED

J. W. Rutledge And Mrs. O. B. Copeland Chosen By Chairman Keaty

Tom S. Keaty, acting chairman of the Louisiana Inter-civic educational council appointed temporary co-chairmen of the organization in Ouachita parish, J. W Rutledge and Mrs. O. B. Copeland.

The meeting held at 7 p.m. in the Virginia hotel marked the beginning of what is hoped will be an extensive and continuous educational program for the adults of Ouachita parish it was announced.

According to statistics in 1940, approximately 13 per cent of the Louisiana population 25 years old and older, had not completed even one year of school. More than one third of the adult citizens could not read intelligently and no material reasons have been given that the situation has improved.

Many persons, who because of circumstances or choice have had their education interrupted, find that they cannot obtain certain jobs or cannot be promoted because they do not have a high school diploma.

Act 252 of 1950 provides funds for adult education with proper certification for those who complete the quivalent of elementary and secondary grades.

A survey must be made in this area to determine the number of persons who would like to take advantage of this free educational program.

Any civic group or club interested in aiding individuals of this parish obtain economic security, decreasing unemployment by providing a more flexible population, and furthering the Democratic ideals by providing an education for all who desire it is urged to take part in obtaining this survey.

PARTY TO HONOR SUMMER READERS

Plans Are Announced By Miss Flanders, Parish Librarian

Miss Frances Flanders, Ouachita Parish librarian, announced plans yesterday for a party honoring members of the Ouachita Parish Public Library Summer Reading club which will be given by Brown Paper Mill on Sept. 5th.

The party will be held at 3 p.m. in the Ouachita Parish High School auditorium.

Brown Paper Mill is giving a picture show party with refreshments to club members who have earned certificates by reading two books on forestry and 10 additional books.

"Keep Louisiana Green," has been the reading club's slogan this summer, Miss Flanders said.

In connection with the slogan Brown Paper Mill is sponsoring a party for members who have read the required books and earned certificates which will be furnished by the Louisiana Forestry Association. The certificates will be presented club members after school opens, according to Miss Flanders.

She urged all children who have entered the reading club to turn their notebooks into the library by August 26th in order that they may be invited to the party.

Miss Flanders pointed out that 1100 children in Ouachita parish had enrolled in the summer reading club and estimated that more than 500 would participate in the party.

The Children's Book Shop is offering three books as prizes which will be awarded by Miss Julia Wossman at the party. One will go to the child under 10 years of age who has read the most books, another to the club member over 10 years old who has read the most books and a special prize to the Bookmobile child who has read the most books.

Alfred F. McCaleb Praised In Korea

A graduate of Neville high school and former Monroe resident, Alfred F. McCaleb, Jr., was praised in a recent communique from Korea for a spectacular "mercy mission" to fellow Marines.

Capt. McCaleb, who graduated from Neville in 1940 and joined the Marines at the beginning of World War II, took part in a recent "waterdrop" mission to beleaguered American fighting men who were temporarily cut off from their units and supply lines.

As described by a war correspondent who went along on the trip, McCaleb piloted a small Marine artillery observation plane over the fighting area with water tanks tied to each wingtip. He had rigged up a special bomb release mechanism to control them.

McCaleb flew the tiny, unarmed craft low over a rice paddy near the troops and dropped the cans into the muddy field. The Marines had to scramble only a few yards for the water while McCaleb pulled the plane up virtually off the ground. His plane was followed later by one which dropped food.

McCaleb was born in Monroe and lived here with his parents until he went in the service after his graduation from high school. His father, Col. A. F. McCaleb, an official in the Louisiana National Guard, now resides in New Orleans.

C. A. P. Ends First Interstate Air Tour

The Civil Air Patrol completed their first interstate air tour recently with flights between Louisiana and Mississippi.

Plans had been made for a Tri-State (La., Ark., Miss.) tour, but because of prevailing bad weather the plans were reversed and the course altered from Shreveport to Jackson.

The first destination of the tour was Vicksburg. After a brief talk with local C. A. P. officials the flight took off for Jackson, and then returned to Monroe.

The six planes that made up the flight took off from Selman Field, with the exception of the C. A. P. observation plane, which was flown by S. K. Bernheim with Cadet George Harper as navigator. The other five planes were flown by their owners as follows: Darwin Nichols, with Cadet George Walker as passenger; M. C. White, with Alvie Wilkinson as passenger; Major Charles Stratford, with Cadets Bob Nix, Richard Brown, and Charles Laws as passengers; Lewis Lee, with Dr. Edward Foster as passenger; Mr. and Mrs. Skateland Smith with Jimmy Vaughn and James Whitehead as passengers.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No. She should fight the other woman. Sociologist Florence Hollis says, in substance: "Resentment is natural, but the wise, mature woman uses patience, continues to be friendly to her husband, looks within herself for possible causes of his misbehavior and waits for the infatuation to pass. This usually ends in a deeper, more understanding love than ever. If so, the entire matter should be buried forever." Wise advice from a wise woman!

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes, unless all you want to do is to relieve your own feelings, which is the case about half the time. You must do three things; First, ascertain all the facts. If the person is an employee, find out all you can about his life. Every boss should do this anyway. Second, you should try to make it a friendly discussion rather than a "calling down." Third, you should never reprimand a person in the presence of anyone else.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. True. A young man who has never wept is a hard boiled extrovert — careless of others' feelings. He will never be a man rich in spirit nor will he make a good husband. Old men who do not daugh have never found out that even amid life's hard, bitter, dirty work "to miss the joy is to miss all." Joy is there, but it often takes the courage of the Happy Warrior singing in battle to find it.

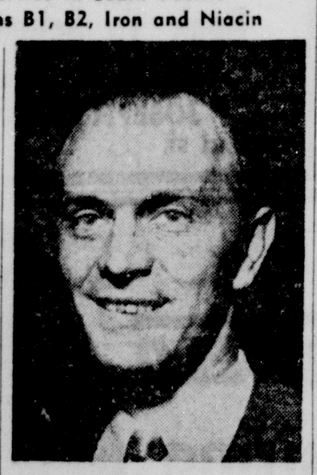
Business Leader With Great War Record Tells How Hadacol Has Rebuilt Him Physically

Was run-down, weak, after service in South Pacific due to deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin



Mr. Donald Hedburg, who resides at 1812 Parker in the fashionable Riverside District of Wichita, Kansas, has been an up-and-coming executive member of the staff of the great Wichita Eagle newspaper for over four years.

Mr. Hedburg has an enviable record of combat with the U. S. Army in the South Pacific in World War II. He is very active in civic affairs. And just as he was anxious to pitch in and do a job during the war—he now wants to help his fellow citizens who (like he was once), are physically run-down and weak due to lack of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin in their systems.

Here is Donald W. Hedburg's witnessed statement: "When I returned from service, I faced the problem of rebuilding myself physically. I was in a general run-down condition.

"In my present capacity of advertising salesman for Kansas' greatest newspaper, The Wichita Eagle, it's absolutely necessary that I have plenty of vitality— 'get up and go.' I had real cause to worry. Nothing seemed to rebuild me constitutionally. Then a friend of mine on the national staff told me about HADACOL — he asked me to try at least five bottles. I'm on my fourth bottle and already I feel like my old self. I look forward to a day's work and go home—play with the children—work in the yard — fish until midnight! Thanks again to HADACOL, energy and vitality once again course through every fiber of my body. You bet, I too, am now a missionary for this great new HADACOL."

Get That Wonderful HADACOL Feeling Everyone Is Talking About

HADACOL gives such wonderful results because it not only supplies deficient, weak run-down systems with more than their daily needs of important Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin — but also helpful amounts of precious Calcium, Phosphorus and Manganese — elements so vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

If you are a victim of neuritis pains, certain stomach and nervous disturbances, constipation, insomnia or a weak, run-down condition due to such deficiencies, HADACOL will start you on the road to feeling better often within a few days. Thousands upon thousands of records of grateful men, women and children proved this to be so.

Many Doctors Recommend It

HADACOL is recommended by many doctors not only to their patients but to members of their own families who have such deficiencies. Before giving up hope—you owe it to yourself to at least give HADACOL a chance to help you. Why keep dragging yourself around feeling "half-alive" when it's so easy to have that wonderful HADACOL feeling that everyone is talking about! Trial-size bottle, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. Refuse substitutes.

BURNS HURLS 6-HIT SHUT OUT AT EL DORADO

MONROE SPORTS TROUNCE OILERS TO TUNE OF 7-0

Locals In Final Game Of Season With Arkansas Rivals Today

El Dorado, Ark., Aug. 19.—(Special)—Jim Burns, who hurled a no-hit no-run Cotton States game as a pitcher for the Clarksdale Planters a couple of seasons ago, tossed his first shut out of the 1950 season here tonight as he pitched the Monroe Sports to a 7-0 victory over the El Dorado Oilers.

Jim Burns

While Burns was keeping the Oiler batters handcuffed on six hits, two of them freak infield bounders, the Sports punched El Dorado pitching solidly in the late innings after being held to only one run and four hits for the first seven frames by Rex Wehunt who went the distance for the Oilers.

It was the tenth win of the year for Burns against four defeats. Wehunt absorbed his ninth loss against six wins.

It was the second straight win for the Sports in their current series here. The two clubs meet for the last time during the current campaign here Sunday afternoon.

Successive doubles by Burns and Carl Tucker produced the opening wedge for the Sports as they took a one-run lead after two were out in the fifth inning.

But the Sports finally went after insurance runs for Burns in the eighth and ninth frames.

Tucker opened the eighth with a single into center and went to second on a sacrifice by Jimmy Pace. Leonard Morrison beat out an infield hit, and Ray Coss singled into center field, scoring Tucker. A double into left field by "A. B." Cross scored Morrison, and then Wehunt cut loose with a wild pitch that enabled Coss to score and sent Cross to third. Al Mazur lifted a high fly into left field, Cross scoring after the catch.

Sinclair Kouns and Wayne Moon then followed with singles, totalling six safe blows in the inning, but the Oilers ended that whirl when Burns forced Moon at second.

Monroe tallied two more in the ninth, both unearned. Tucker was safe on an error at shortstop. Pace flied out to Roy Niccolai in center. Morrison singled to center, and Coss flied out to center. Then Cross walked to fill the sacks, and Mazur drove Tucker and Morrison Kouns went down to retire the side.

El Dorado was in threatening positions only twice during the game. Bob LaBeff and John Palazzini were on with infield singles but left stranded in the third inning. In the seventh with Wehunt on second after LaBeff had walked behind his single and two out, Palazzini punched a single into right field. Wehunt rounded third romping for home but Coss, fielding Palazzini's hit, rifled the ball in to the plate where Catcher Wayne Moon caught Wehunt in plenty of time.

The U. C. L. A. and Purdue football teams will meet on the gridiron for the first time, in 1950.

WORK BEGINS ON TECH BLEACHERS

Will Increase Seating Capacity At Football Field By 2,500

Ruston, Aug. 19. —(Special)—Work has started at Louisiana Tech on the footings for steel bleachers with a seating capacity of 2,500 to be built on the east side of the football field.

The new stands are being constructed for the exclusive use of students and will enable the students to sit together at football games for the first time in many years. The Tech band will join the students on the east side and a section in the west concrete stadium formerly occupied by the band will be available to the general public.

It is expected that the steel bleachers will be completed in time for use when the Techmen play their first home game of the season with Howard Payne College here on the night of Saturday, September 23.

Plans are being considered to place benches for the Tech football team in front of the new student section on the east side. In that event, visiting players would operate from the west side of the field formerly used by the Techsters.

The steel bleachers are being erected by members of the college buildings and grounds staff. The cost of the bleachers will be about $11,000.

Bonita-Jones Defeats Bastrop Barons, 4 To 2

Bastrop, La., Aug. 19.—(Special)—Bonita-Jones edged by the Bastrop Barons in a 4-2 game Saturday night, taking their first victory in the last three games between the two teams.

Bunk Goyne slammed a home run 400 feet over the left field fence in the sixth inning to take the lead as Bastrop's heaviest hitter.

Heafner, Cooper Deadlock For Lead In Eastern Open

LLOYD MANGRUM ONE STROKE OFF PACE OF LEADERS

Hunched In Third Place Are Romans, Middlecoff, And Palmer

By George Bowen

Baltimore, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Clayton Haefner held grimly to a share in the lead at the three-quarter pole of the Eastern Open Golf tourney today.

Curly - haired Pete Cooper from Ponte Vedra, Fla., steamed into a tie with Haefner who has been in front since the first 18 holes Thursday.

The pudgy North Carolinian struggled mightily to match par 72 today and bring his 54-hole total to 209. Cooper, playing in the same trio, chopped three strokes from par to pull up even.

Pace-setters in the $16,500 tourney on the Mount Pleasant links are bunched for a mad rush to the wire in the final 18 holes tomorrow. A hot round by any of several touring pros can grab the $2,600 first money.

The honors for such a round on the third 18 went to Lloyd Mangrum, the former National Open champion from Nile, Ill. He flashed to 67 to bring his total to 210 which tied him for second place with Fred Haas, Jr., from Claremont, Calif.

Bunched another stroke back in striking position are Walter Romans, Baltimore, Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla., and John Palmer, Badin, N. C.

The course, already a long 6,895 yards, was stretched to the fullest today by pushing back the tees and the pins. Several of the contenders, including Haefner, found it rough going.

The most notable of these was young Jimmy Clark from Huntington Beach, Calif. He soared to a 77, five over par, and a sixth-place 214. He started the round in a first - place tie with Haefner at 137.

Henry Ransom, the Tam O'Shanter "world" titleholder, faltered to 78 and dropped to 8th place at 216, par for the 54 holes.

Haefner, after fighting par every swing of the way, just missed taking undisputed lead on the last hole. His 8-foot putt for a birdie stopped an inch from the cup.

Haefner went one over par when he took a six on the par-four fourth hole, but evened up with a birdie on the fifth. He dropped another stroke on the ninth, but a birdie on the 13th got him even again and e stayed that way.

Two strokes over par on the fourth hole put Heafner on the spot. He birdied the next to match par but then dropped another stroke on the ninth. A birdie on the 13th got him even again and he stayed that way.

Three birdies on the first six holes set up Cooper, a 35-year-old who has been on the circuit four years. He lost a stroke on the ninth but made it up on the 10th.

Haas, who started the round two strokes off the pace, warmed up on his second nine to post 71. He was one over par on the first nine but three birdies on the next nine enabled him to get one under for the 18.

MULLOY, TALBERT GAIN TITLE ROUND

Rain Stops Other Semi-Final In National Doubles Tennis Meet

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Davis Cup aces Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, and Bill Talbert of New York, qualified in easy fashion for the National Doubles tennis final but a heavy shower drove their most dangerous rivals, Australia's Jack Bromwich and Frank Sedgman out of semi-final action today at Longwood.

Mulloy and Talbert, who have held the team title four times since 1942, romped to a 7-5, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Harry Hopman, 44-year-old non - playing captain of the Australian Davis Cup forces, and Seymour Greenberg of Chicago.

Greenberg was unable to hold his southpaw service four times during the match, for Mulloy and Talbert threw heavy pressure against him all the way.

BETTER SELF 1ST IN SARATOGA 'CAP

Finishes Length In Front Of Greek Ship To Win $25,000 Event

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—King Ranch's Better Self found the muddy track to his liking today and won the $25,000 added Saratoga Handicap.

The Texas stalwart spurted under the wire a length in front of the favorite, Brookmeade stable's Greek Ship, to pay $23.10. He paid $8.60 to place and $5.50 to show.

The rain-coated crowd of 20,167 was thrilled by an exciting stretch duel that saw Greek Ship try vainly to overhaul the winner. Greek Ship finished a length ahead of Addison stable's Arise.

Better Self, making his first start since finishing tenth in the Carter Handicap July 1, splashed over the mile and a quarter in 2:05 3/5.

The victory was worth $20,850 to his owners, boosting his year's earnings to more than $64,000.

Willie Boland never put forth a stronger finish on a horse. He hooked up with Joe Culmone, who came up from New Jersey to ride Greek Ship, and the pair gave it the old nip-and-tuck all the way. The others never were close, although Arise did gain on the leaders at the end.

Fourth was Double Brandy, while Loser Weeper quit early. Royal Governor never had it, nor did Sun Bahram.

Because of the mud, Three Rings, Capot, Cochise and Hypocrite II were withdrawn.

Cain Hoy stable's Battle Morn, a $6.70 second choice, won the secondary feature, the 48th running of the $10,000-added Grand Union Hotel Stakes.

Ridden by Eddie Arcaro, Battle Morn beat Sam E. Wilson Jr's. Royal Mustang by 2 11-2 lengths in running the six furloughs in 1:13. Main Chance farm's Silver Wings was third, a neck behind Royal Mustang.

Cotton States

Pine Bluff, Ark., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Pine Bluff's Judges shoved across two runs in the third inning of a Cotton States baseball contest here tonight to win a tight 2-0 decision over the Greenwood Dodgers.

Rosie Cantrell, Judge left infielder smashed a single to score two of his mates in the third inning rally of a game which saw only two Greenwood runners reach second base.

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Alex Cosmidis' double in the ninth inning scored Jerry Brezen with the winning run as the Hot Springs Bathers topped the Clarksdale Planters, 5-4, in the second game of the series here tonight.

Clarksdale scored two runs in the first and two more in the fourth.

After Hot Springs had tallied twice in the first and once in the third, Dan Phalen doubled and Don Tierney brought him home with a single to tie up the game in the fifth.

Danny Caccavo, Hot Springs southpaw, hurled his 16th victory although he was rattled for 12 hits.

Johnny Johnson With Lion Coaching Staff

Johnny Johnson, the former Northeast Junior College halfback who has been on the coaching staff at Neville High School here for the last three years, has been named as an assistant to Head Coach Jim Hodgins at Ouachita Parish High School here.

Coach Hodgins last night announced the appointment of Johnson who had resigned at Neville earlier in the summer with the announcement that he was going to L. S. U. to work on his master's degree.

The Ouachita gridders have just completed their first week of football practice.

Coach Hodgins reports he is far from deciding anything resembling a starting lineup this early in the training period. He has a heavy squad on hand, but the material generally is unseasoned and still needs lots of work to come anywhere near what Ouachita fans expect in the way of a football club.

MERIDIAN YOUTH IS JAYCEE RULER

Eddie Merrins Beats Gay Brewer In National Junior Golf Finals

Ames, Ia., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Eddie Merrins, a fighting little guy from Meridian, Miss., staged a brisk comeback today to win the National Junior golf championship.

He licked Gay Brewer, a battler in his own right, 1 up in the 36 hole final in the tournament sponsored by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Merrins, a bantam - sized golfer at 5-7 and weighing 140 pounds was three down to his Lexington, Ky., foe at the end of 16 holes in the morning round. He was two holes in arrears at 18.

But he flashed an even-par 71 game in the afternoon. He smashed down at Gay's advantage and soared three up at the end of the 33rd hole. He appeared safely in.

Then came a stiff counter-punch from Brewer. Gay, winner of the 1949 National Junior conducted by the U. S. G. A., stormed back with a birdie 4 on the 34th and took the 35th with a par 3.

So the 18-year-olds came to the 36th with Merrins 1 up. He met Brewer's pressure with a halve 4.

Eddie's championship was won, in a sense, for a golfing pay fatally injured in an automobile accident while returning from the 1949 tournament at Houston. He was Terry Boykin of Laurel, Miss. Merrins was the only one of five members of the Mississippi team not injured after a tire blew out.

The championship revolving trophy is named for Terry, so Eddie said he intends to give the trophy to Terry's mother. Jaycee officials, learning of that gesture, said a duplicate would be given to Eddie.

MISS RILEY WINS WESTERN CROWN

Repulses Threat Of Mae Murray, 4 And 3, In Women's Amateur Final

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)— After eight years of trying, persistent Polly Riley of Ft. Worth, Tex., today won her first Women's Western Amateur golf title, 4 and 3, over a newcomer, Mae Murray of Rutland, Vt., who lost her earlier tourney skill.

Polly, 23, the meet medalist, jumped into a three-hole lead after the first five greens of the scheduled 36-hole match at sun-splattered Exmoor Country Club, and Mae never could get closer than two holes behind.

Miss Murray, who looks more like a high school kid than the 24-year-old she is, in 61 previous competitive holes during her first appearance in this tourney had been only one over par.

Today, Mae, the daughter of a Rutland pro, was a staggering 12 over par for the 33 holes played.

Polly, on the other hand, methodically ground to a seven-over-par for the distance.

The best Miss Riley ever did previously in the tourney was reach the 1948 finals, losing to Dot Kielty.

Mae still had a chance after 27 holes when she trailed by three holes. But miserable luck with her putter, including four taps from eight to 12 feet which lipped the cup on the last 18, cooked her goose.

Polly won the 28th and 29th to go five up, and Miss Murray made her dying bid on the 31st, sinking an eight footer for a winning par three. They halved the next two holes with fives, ending the match on the 33rd.

MEDALIST BOUNCED OUT OF KRAFCO EVENT

BRULTE BEATEN BY BASTROP ACE IN FIRST ROUND

McClendon, Jones, Austin, Moses Enter Semi-Finals Today

Medalist Dr. T. A. Brulte was bounced out of the championship flight of the second annual Krafco Golf Tournament in the first round of play yesterday and before the afternoon was over only Harold McClendon, Tilden Austin, Bill Jones, and O. B. Moses remained in the battle for the tourney championship over the McGuire Park Golf Club's course in West Monroe.

Brulte, who qualified with a two-under-par 70 for medal honors, bowed before McClendon, Morehouse Country Club champion of Bastrop, 4 and 3, in the first round of play. McClendon went on to the semi-finals by stopping Ed Shaver, 2 and 1.

With the exception of McClendon, all remaining contenders are Twin City linksmen.

Austin gained the bracket of four by downing Abb Guice, 2 and 1, and Clyde Nash, 1 up. Jones stopped E. B. Peddy, 6 and 5, and then defeated one of the tourney favorites, Kenneth Holt 5 and 4. Moses came up over Edell Blanks Jr., 4 and 4, and E. E. Lawson, 3 and 2.

The McClendon vs. Austin and Jones vs. Moses semi - final matches will be played this morning in a foursome beginning at 9 o'clock.

Kaler, American Legion hurler, held West Monroe hitless for five innings to give Legion a 4-2 victory that eliminates West Monroe from the Recreation Baseball finals.

The win left Drew and American Legion to battle for the Recreation championship.

Legion had a big inning in the third when they scored three runs. In the sixth inning Kaler weakened and allowed West Monroe to score two runs on two hits and a pass. Pettit served as catcher.

Brown and Miller were the losing battery. Brown fanned six and allowed six hits.

WAR TAKES TOLL OF GOLF ENTRIES

Three Southerners Will Miss Participation In National Amateur

Minneapolis, Aug. 19. -(AP)- The Korean war took its toll of contestants in the 50th annual National Amateur golf tourney today when three southern golfers telegraphed the United States Golf Association that "business and/or the army" made it impossible for them to compete, starting Monday.

At the same time it became known that MacGregor Hunt of Pacific Palisades, Calif., one of the better younger players in the field at the Minneapolis Golf Club, already has passed his physical and is expecting his call to duty momentarily.

The trio who advised the U. S. G. A. it would be unable to play is made up of Robert Lowry, Jr., of Huntsville, Ala.; Tom Henderson, Jr., of Nashville, and Elbert S. Jemison of Birmingham, Ala. Mack and Russell Brothers, both of Nashville, have been designated alternates for Lowry and Jemison. A replacement for Henderson will be picked tomorrow.

Other changes announced today by the U. S. G. A. are:

Robert E. McCoy of Los Angeles withdrew and was replaced by Jack Anderson of Los Angeles.

W. Y. Stembler of Miami, withdrew and was replaced by Ronald Garretson of Miami.

Ed Finnessey of Towson, Md., withdrew and was replaced by John A. Emich of Baltimore.

Mike Cestone of West Orange, N. J. withdrew and was replaced by Richard A. Henry of Springfield, N. J.

J. C. Hamilton, Jr., of Tulsa withdrew and was replaced by E. J. Rogers, Sr., of Oklahoma City.

Overnight rains and strong winds throughout the day sent most of today's practice scores above the 35-36—71 par. Charles Coe of Oklahoma City, the defending champion, clipped about two strokes off par in an informal round with Jim McHale of Bethlehem, Pa. McHale had a probable 70. Each played a second ball on several holes. Coe was two under on the par 5 twelfth.

Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., National Junior champion, posted a 75 while Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., three times a runner-up in the Nationl, came home with a 74.

Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y. who won in 1938 and again in 1948, trudged off the wind-blown hilltop and muttered "it was a man-sized job out there today in the wind." He posted no score.

'Dutch' Harrison Weds Senator From Hawaii

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Golf Pro E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Hawaiian Territorial Senator Thelma Akana were married here last night.

The ceremony took place at the home of a friend of Harrison, who formerly resided in Little Rock and is known on the golf tournament circuit as the "Arkansas Traveler."

The couple is honeymooning in Little Rock, but will leave early next week for Montreal, where Harrison will defend his Canadian Open championship.

Harrison gave his age as 40 in applying for a marriage license; his bride listed hers as 45.

Curtis Offers Segura Chance To Reclaim Mat Crown

TITLE SCRAMBLE FEATURES SHOW AT GUS KALLIO'S

Rex Mobley, 'Green Ghost' Billed For Semi-Final Tuesday Night

The light heavyweight championship feud that developed when Jack Curtis lifted the crown from Bobby Segura here a month ago, and entered complications when Segura met Curtis a couple of weeks late in Shreveport with the Mexican still claiming the crown, will be resumed here Tuesday night with Curtis, a five - times holder of the crown, again offering Segura a chance to claim the belt he held only briefly this summer.

Segura, the light-heavy champ of Mexico, took the crown for the first time from Balk Estes, Elk City, Okla., in a match at Pensacola, Fla., and lost it in his first defense here against Curtis, the Vicksburg, Miss., flash.

Segura, described as either a hard loser or a man who was simply refusing to be uncrowned even in defeat, then went to Shreveport for a tag match still claiming he was champion even though Curtis left the ring here the week before with the belt in his possession.

The Shreveport promoters then booked a Curtis - Segura match which their publicity department described as a title scrap with Segura the defender, accepting the Mexican's explanation that his match here with Curtis ended in a disputed contest.

"When I read in the Shreveport papers that Segura was still claiming the belt, I made a special trip there to see the match and determine what the mix-up was all about," Promoter Gus Kallio said. "Well, everything was straightened out the night of the match and Curtis emerged the winner again. It was a good match until Segura began breaking the rules. He finished in a bloody mess and very much disappointed."

The Curtis-Segura title scramble features Kallio's show at his Walnut street arena and will be over a 90-minute time limit route, two falls to win.

Rex. Mobley, a former holder of the belt from Texas City, Tex., and the "Green Ghost," masked battler, will clash in the semi-final that opens the program at 8:15 o'clock.

Promoter Kallio wants to referee the main event, but doesn't know yet whether he'll take the job.

"The Louisiana Wrestling Commission frowns upon promoters refereeing on their own cards," Kallio said. "I would like to handle the Curtis-Segura match, however, and am seeking permission to do so. If I get permission, then Bill Barney will referee the semi-final only. Otherwise Barney will handle both bouts Tuesday."

JOHNSON NAMED BENGAL CAPTAIN

J. W. Richards Alternate Field General For Neville High Eleven

Camp Hardtner, La., Aug. 19.—(Special)—Center Johnny Johnson and Tackle J. W. Richards, will lead the Neville (Monroe) High School Tigers into their football battles this fall.

The Bengals, who opened football training here the first of the week, have elected Johnson as captain for the 1950 season. Richards was elected alternate captain.

"We have had a good week," declared Head Coach Bill Ruple as the Monroe squad ended its first week of training today. "The heat has been pretty bad, the but boys have taken it in stride."

The Tigers are holding drills twice daily, from 5:30 to 7 o'clock in the mornings and 3:30 until 5:30 in the afternoons. They enjoy swimming and fishing during their lax hours.

Although the Tigers apparently will have a good, heavy eleven on the field come September, they appear weak on reserves. Biggest surprise, to hear the Bengal mentors talk, is Charles "Bulldog" Calhoun, big defensive tackle, who has been showing plenty of hustle in the drills.

Members of Ruple's coaching staff here include Jim Boats, backfield; Gus Petterson, freshman; Richard Slaters, junior high; Van Leigh, coach and physical educational instructor of Georgia Tucker Grammar School at Monroe; and Clyde Perkins, coach and physical education instructor of Sherrouse, Lida Benton and Central Grammar of Monroe.

Ty Cobb scored 2,244 runs during his major league career, more than any other player.

The schedule of Solunar periods, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport each day has to offer.

The major periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

CURANDERO COPS WHIRLAWAY RUN

All Blue In Second, Laico Third; Favored Ponder Finishes Sixth

By Charles Dunkley

Chicago, Aug. 19. —(AP)— King Ranch's Curandero raced to a three quarters of a length victory in the $28,250 Whirlaway Stakes at Washington Park today, with the Calumet farms' All Blue second. Mrs. Polly Alexander's Laico finished third.

Ponder, 1950's biggest money winner with a roll of $205,550, wound up sixth after trailing the field of 13 in last place until a quarter of a mile from home.

Curandero, bred on the fabulous King Ranch in Texas owned by Robert Kleberg, sprinted the mile in 1:34 2-5. The four-year-old son of Brazado-Ciencia was expertly ridden by Jockey Darrel Madden.

The Walmac farm's turf champion, Volcanic, finished fourth, just ahead of Seaward. Ponder was coupled with All Blue as the Calumet farm's entry. The third Calumet flyer, Fervent, was scratched, along with Prop.

Curandero returned $10.60, $4.80 and $3.20, and All Blue paid $3.20 to place and $2.60 to show. The show price on Laico was 2.80.

All Blue, a 3-year-old, almost saved the day for Calumet. Largely because of Ponder, the Calumet twosome was established as the 6-5 favorite by the crowd of 19,916. But Ponder, burdened under 129 pounds, never threatened. Last and 15 lengths behind on the far turn, Ponder cut lose with his reserve in the stretch but could get no better than sixth, about three and a quarter lengths behind the winner.

Calumet had won three previous runnings of the Whirlaway, which honors that stable's long - tailed champion of some years ago.

Curandero never had won a stakes before. His clocking for the mile today was only two-fifths of a second below the track mark set by Coaltown in winning the 1949 Whirlaway. The world mark of 1:33 3-5 is held by another Calumet galloper, Citation.

Curandero ran the fastest mile of the Chicago season.

Ponder, which had a chance to move into sixth place in the all-time money winning list, above On Trust and just below the horse for which today's stakes was named, was coming fastest of all at the finish.

First money was $19,275 and raised Curandero's earnings for the year to $48,950 for six victories in 13 starts. The colt won four of 21 starts last year and picked up $21,175.

Kiner Ahead Of His Home Run Parade Of Year Ago

Chicago, Aug. 19. —(AP)— Ralph Kiner's 35th and 36th home runs today put him nine games ahead of his pace last year when he led the National League with 54.

At the same time he is only one game behind the pace Babe Ruth set en route to his record 60 in 1927.

Last year Kiner didn't hit his 36th homer until the 120th game Aug. 26. He has played only 111 games this year.

Babe Ruth hit No. 36 in his 110th game.

Football Won't Be The Same Anymore; Dr. Bendel Retires As Game Official

Physician, Who Made Hobby Of Sport, To Become 'Another Spectator'

They'll keep right on playing football, but things won't quite be the same on the high school and college gridirons of this section this year—Dr. W. L. Bendel will be watching from the sidelines and not on the field.

Dr. W. L. Bendel

The prominent Monroe physician, who has made a hobby of following the athletic parade of this section for nearly 30 years, has announced his retirement as a football official. He worked his last official game at Lutcher in the Tallulah-Hahnville state Class B championship scrap last Dec. 16. His last official appearance in Monroe was in the Junior Sugar Bowl battle between Lees - McRae of North Carolina and Wharton of Texas last Dec. 9.

He doesn't remember the date of his first game but it was between the old Monroe Tigers, combination of Ouachita and Monroe City High athletes, and Rayville High "about 30 years ago."

"I feel that at my age it's time to retire and let our promising young officials take over," Dr. Bendel said. "I regret to give it up. Officiating has been one of my hoobies, and I have enjoyed every minute of it."

A member of the Southern Football Officials Association for 20 years and chairman and organizer of the Northeast Louisiana Football Officials Association, Dr. Bendel estimates he has worked from 750 to 800 football games, averaging 25 a year and he has worked as many as 30 in one season.

Winner of the News-Star-World's "Good Citizen" award nearly two years ago for his contribution to the youth of this area in that he has for years taken care of all athletic injuries without charges, Dr. Bendel announced his retirement as an official did not mean he would sever his other contacts.

"I intend to continue taking care of athletic injuries as in the past just as long as the coaches and boys want me to," he said. "I'll also continue to assist our young officials in any advisory capacity."

Once each week Dr. Bendel holds meetings for around 60 grid officials of this district, conducting lectures and discussions of rules. He plans to continue the meetings which have been a tremendous lift to the quality of officiating in this section. The officials' organization of this district has the best record with the Louisiana High School Athletic Association as the group with the fewest complaints registered. Included on the district committee with Dr. Bendel are Coach Jim Hodgins of Ouachita High, and Principal Paul J. Neal of Neville High. Ed W. Lockhart, Monroe, is secretary-treasurer.

Although Dr. Bendel appeared as referee, umpire, head linesman or field judge in few games at the start of his career he has been greatly in demand in the later years. He may have a record in "most games in a day" when he worked three contests only a few seasons ago—an L. T. I. morning game here, an afternoon contest, and a night game all in the same day.

He has worked in close accord with the coaches of this area, including the reign of such local mentors as J. Paul Kemerer and James L. Malone, the only head grid coaches the local junior college has ever had; Paul J. Neal, Percy Brown, Devon Payne, Elgin Boggs, and Bill Ruple of Neville High; and Alf Beid, Ben Rush, "Lefty" Haynes, Mack Avants, George Riser, and Jim Hodgins of Ouachita High. Louisiana Tech and Northwestern Louisiana State have also benefited from Dr. Bendel's services.

He'll just sit back and watch from now on, just another spectator, but it wouldn't be surprising if he found himself an honorary seat on any players' bench in the section.

SOFTBALL TITLE PLAY CONTINUES

Nichols Meets Grocers, Clover Leaf Tackles Spats Tomorrow Night

The big four teams in the City Softball League meet for the second time Monday night to determine which two will hang on for the final go-round.

Nichols Motors will tangle with Spatafora Grocery at Barkdull Faulk at 7 o'clock Monday night. Nichols has already presented the Grocers with a sound thumping in their first meet last Wednesday night.

Clover Leaf Dairy, district softball champions, are scheduled against Spatafora Pharmacy at Barkdull Faulk at 8 p.m. The Dairymen have high hopes of handing in a repeat performance by giving the Pharmacists their second defeat. If Clover Leaf and Nichols take tomorrows games, they will open the finals Thursday, and follow-up Sunday.

Three out of five games will determine the League championship.

BRITISH PRO CHAMP

Eastbourne, England, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Dan Maskell of London won the British professional lawn tennis title today for the 16th time. He defeated W. J. Moss of Birmingham, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, in the final.

SEMI-PROS OPEN SERIES MONDAY

Columbia Visits Winnsboro, Urania At Tallulah For First Games

Winnsboro, La., Aug. 19.—(Special)—The Northeast Louisiana League opens its championship series Monday night with games at Winnsboro and Tallulah.

The Tallulah Planters, who finished first after the league reorganized near mid-season when Jonesville and Lake Providence dropped out will be hosts to the Urania Oilers, fourth place club, and the Winnsboro Red Sox will be at home to the Columbia Ramblers in the Monday openers which are scheduled to begin at 8:15 o'clock.

The only game scheduled for Tuesday night has Tallulah invading Urania. Wednesday night Winnsboro goes to Columbia, and Urania returns to Tallulah.

Playoff plans were made there tonight at a meeting attended by League President Edgar S. Lowry, Winnsboro; Secretary John Blanchard, Winnsboro; and club representatives, H. S. "Buck" Weaver, J. W. Love and A. J. Boswell, Tallulah; L. M. Calhoun and W. E. Marionneaux, Winnsboro; Fred H. Minard, Urania; and Dr. E. L. Carroll, Winnsboro.

Umpires P. R. Thaxton, Oak Grove, and F. O. Patterson, Swartz, were named to alternate as umpire-in-chief at the games. Admission prices for all playoff games were fixed at 75 cents for adults and 30 cents for children.

Probable batteries for the playoff openers were also announced as Brandon and Farrar, Columbia; Pardue and Thaxton, Winnsboro; Boone and Bauer, Urania; and Tallulah to be announced.

First clubs winning four games in the semi-finals will advance to the four-out-of-seven finals.

Long Shot, De Luxe Cops Gorham Handicap In Mud

Salem, N. H., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A 26-to-1 long shot, De Luxe, the True Davis, Jr., colt proved the top mudder today as he pounded home through heavy rain to win the six furlongs $5,000 Gorham Handicap at Rockingham Park before 16,762 fans.

De Luxe came from the back of the pack on the stretch and raced past 10 other starters to win by a length and a half over T. P. Morgan's Thwarted. Cacomo was third.

De Luxe's time was 1:12 1-5 and he paid $55, $20 and $11. Thwarted paid $9.60 and $6.60; Cacomo $4.00.

HOUTTEMAN HURLS ONE-HITTER AT BROWNS

TIGER ACE WINS, 6 TO 0; YANKEES SOCK A'S, 6 TO 2

Indians Take White Sox, 1 To 0; Red Hose Shade Senators, 5 To 4

By Charles C. Cain

Detroit, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Young Art Houtteman of the Detroit Tigers just missed pitching a perfect game today as he blanked the St. Louis Browns 6-0 on a one-hitter facing only 27 batters in the process.

Outfielder Jim Delsing spoiled Houtteman's efforts for a no-hitter as he pumped a clean single into right on a one-one pitch in the second inning. But from then on the Browns could do little as Houtteman notched his 16th victory as against nine losses.

Only two other Brownies got to first, both on walks, but they were erased by a couple of double plays as the Tigers came up with their most brilliant defensive play of the year.

Detroit banged Ned Garver for 10 hits including a two-run homer by Johnny Groth in the eighth. It was his 10th of the season and played a large part in handing Garver his 11th loss, four of which have come at the hands of the Tigers.

Garver pitched good ball as he farned seven and walked only two bu the Tiger ability to bunch its hits put him in the hole in the second inning and he never got out.

Three straight hits by Vic Wertz, Hoot Evers and Groth sent Detroit's first two runs across the plate and the Tigers were on their way to their fourth straight victory.

It also was Houtteman's fourth successive triumph and his second over the Brownies.

It came on the eve of Houtteman Day at Briggs Stadium as he will be presented with a power launch and other gifts tomorrow. But it is unlikely that Art will value any of those gifts higher than his pitching performance.

Wertz and Groth led the Tiger attack with three hits apiece, Groth getting two singles in addition to his four-bagger. Wertz had a double and a pair of singles.

Cleveland, Aug. 19.—(AP)— Early Wynn finally pitched his first shutout of the season for Cleveland today. He trimmed the Chicago White Sox, 1-0, with the help of Luke Easter's home run.

Four other times Wynn had started ninth innings with a shutout within his reach.

Today he gave up only three hits. Only three balls were hit out of the infield off his throws. Two of the outfield blows were flies caught by Thurman Tucker. The other was a fifth inning pop double to left field by Chico Carrasquel.

DiMAG SPARKS YANKS

Philadelphia, Aug. 19. —(AP)— Joe DiMaggio continued to bang Philadelphia pitching today as the New York Yankees trimmed the Athletics, 6-2.

DiMaggio hit a double and two singles and drove in two runs. The Yankee Clipper returned to the starting lineup last night after a week on the bench and won the game with a ninth inning homer.

The Yanks nicked Hank Wyse for two runs in the first with DiMaggio driving home the second with his two bagger. They picked up two more in the fourth on a pair of singles, error, fielder's choice and double play. An error and singles by Joe Collins and Billy Johnson led to another run in the eighth. DiMaggio singled home the Yanks' final run in the ninth.

BOSOX NUDGE NATS

Boston, Aug. 19. —(AP)— Boston's Red Sox came through with two ninth inning runs they needed to whip Washington's Senators 5-4 today and extended their winning streak to seven games.

The string equals their best previous mark of the season, compiled immediately after Steve O'Neill took over as manager from Joe McCarthy late in June.

Catcher Buddy Rosar, who played only the ninth inning, came through with a lusty two-out bases loaded single high off the wall in left center to drive in Vern Stephens with the winning run.

Stephens' line double into the left field corner, his second two bagger of the game, had driven home Johnny Pesky with the tying run.

SOLO SWIM CHAMP

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Beulah Gundling of Cedar Rapids, Ia., won the National A. A. U. synchronized solo swimming championship today at the Chicago Fair. Mrs Gundling scored a mild upset when she defeated June Taylor of St. Catharine, Ont., the Canadian champ, who placed second.

Start Title Playoff In Big 8 Loop Today

Ruston, La., Aug. 19.—(Special) — Officials of the Big Eight Baseball League, at a meeting here last night, completed plans for their Shaughnessy championship playoff beginning Sunday afternoon.

The Ruston Rebels, who finished second, will play the third - place Farmerville club at Fraser Field here Sunday afternoon in the first game. Front - running Bernice will play fourth-place Commercial Solvents of Sterlington at Bernice Monday night in their series opener.

The second Bernice - Sterlington game is billed for Wednesday afternoon at Sterlington, while the Rebels and Farmerville tangle Thursday night at Farmerville in their second fracas.

The managers also named Glenn Post, Bernice manager, as the league's "most valuable" player to receive the Raymond Heard Trophy. Post has a season record of eleven homers, a .359 batting average and 39 R. B. I.'s The Ruston Hardware Trophy for the leading pitcher goes to Calvin Tanner of Bernice (7-0), and the winner of the K. R. U. S. award for the batting champion will be named when Bobby Henderson, league statistician, returns from St. Louis with the Farmerville American Legion team.

Kiner Runs Homer Total To 36 During Rout Of Cubs

BUCS ROMP OVER CHICAGO BRUINS TO TUNE OF 13-8

Five Pitchers Toil In Effort To Stem 14- Hit Pirate Attack

Chicago, Aug. 19. —(AP)— Ralph Kiner blasted his 35th and 36th homers of the season and Clyde McCullough drove in six runs today during a Pittsburgh Pirate slugfest which overwhelmed the Chicago Cubs, 13 to 8. It was the Bucs' sixth win in their last seven games.

Ralph Kiner

The Cubs paraded five pitchersers — Doyle Lade, Johnny Klippstein, Dutch Leonard, Bob Rush and Johnny Schmitz— to the mound while the Pirates hammered out 14 hits. These included Kiner's two homers, another by Johnny Hopp, a triple and double by McCullough and doubles by Gus Bell and Murray Dickson.

The Pirates employed Mel Queen, Dickson and Bill Werle to stem the tide of Cub hits. Werle stopped them after there had been homers by Roy Smalley, Mickey Owen and Hank Sauer and a double by Andy Pafko.

Stymie Out Of Retirement To Shoot For Money Mark

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Stymie the pride of Brooklyn, is due back at Jamaica track Monday to desert a life of retirement and try to regain the world's money-earning leadership from Citation.

The nine-year-old chestnut horse owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs of New York retired once in 1948 after a foot injury, then came back last year to earn $7,150 and push his money winnings to $918,485.

But he was retired to the stud in Kentucky this spring.

Georgetown and Rutgers are newcomers to the 1950 Penn State football schedule.

'Coon-On-Log' Will Again Feature Meeting Of Sportsmen At Arcadia

Four-Day Meeting Of Ring-Tailed Coon Hunters Opening Tuesday

Arcadia, La., Aug. 19.—(Special) —This thrilling sport where a coonhound takes a plunge and swims out determined to remove a hostile coon from a log in a lake or pond has terminated into an annual event in northwest Louisiana where thousands of spectators come from the four states of Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Mississippi to witness this exciting sport. Arcadia will again feature the spectacular event in a four-day meeting of racoon hunters here, beginning Tuesday.

The Ring-Tailed Coon Hunters Association of Louisiana, Inc., sponsors this annual event which is growing in leaps and bounds. This is a non-profit organization and is staged for coon hunters and the general public to enjoy. It is a grand sport and for all coonhunters it is a thriller-diller of the first magnitude. The Ring-Tailed Coon Hunters Association is to be congratulated on staging this annual coon versus coon-hound show and gaining national recognition and attention.

According to them the "Coon-On-Log" event this year is the third they have staged, so the history of this event isn't too long. The first event was staged October 5, 6, and 7, 1948, at Arcadia with an estimated crowd of 2,000 in attendance and the second was staged September 5, 6, and 7, 1949, with 4,000 in attendance. The idea according to them was conceived by J. M. Lamkin, Jr. and Ben G. Craighead, after reading about, Coon-On-Log, which had been held in Arkansas. They presented their ideas to several other coonhunters and then with them, the association was organized. The founders being Ray Davis, Kenneth Holyfield, Charles Nickelson, Bill Patterson, James T. Storey, William A. Storey, Sidney Ray, State Trooper H. N. Davis, Ben. G. Craighead and J. M. Lamkin, Jr.

A site for building a pond and having enough space for parking the thousands of cars, as well as room for the several buildings that were needed was secured from F. M. Sutton, who had a place about three miles north of Arcadia on a black-topped highway. The land was leased from Mr. Sutton and a beautiful pond built on a portion of the 40 acres of land. Since getting the area cleaned of underbrush and the pond built the organization has built a club house, office, a fourteen by forty-two foot cafe. ladies and men's rooms, have installed electricity, water and have a beautiful play ground for the children, also plenty of parking space.

Rules for the contest are as follows: Numbers are drawn by owners of each hound for the contest position. Number 1 will be first in the contest, No. 2 will be in second position, etc., thence each hound is unleashed at the bank of the pond and allowed one minute to swim out 30 feet in deep water, remove the coon, if he can, and bring it back to the length of a fifteen-foot cord. A whistle is blown at the end of the minute designating the end of the contest period. The coon hound which removes the coon off the log and brings him to the end of the cord in the shortest length of time and in the best manner, according to the five judges will be eligible to participate in the finals. The finals are judged by the time only. Everytime a hound is unleashed to go after the coon on the log, there are two veteran coonhunters in a boat to insure no injury to dog or coon. Their position is very important, being like the "pick up" men in a rodeo.

Last year of the 80 coon hounds competing only 25 were gritty and masterful enough to remove Mr. Coon from the log. Bo owned by H. C. Gibson of Meridian, Miss., was the winner in 19 seconds; and that is a record for any coon hound to shoot at.

These men have succeeded in giving the state of Louisiana one more rip-snorting colorful, outdoor show — the unique "Coon-On-Log."

If you have never had the opportunity to see such a sport and show, you are urged to attend the third annual Coon-On-Log to be held at the home of the Ring-Tailed Coon Hunters Association, three miles north of Arcadia, August 22, 23, 24, 25.

Imacomin Romps Home 1st To Win Mermaid Handicap

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Imacomin, a homebred from Harry Z. Isaac's Brookfield farms, picked up topweight of 122 pounds to score an impressive victory in the six furlong $10,000 added Mermaid Handicap at the Atlantic City race track today.

The 4-year-old filly turned in a fast 1:09 3-5 to beat Chloe by a length. Music was four lengths back in third position with Spats earning the fourth money in a field of seven.

A crowd of 22,713, largest of the meeting, made Imacomin a 6-5 favorite. It was her third straight triumph and she paid $4.40, $2.40 and $2.40. Chloe returned $2.40 and $2.20 and Music $3.40.

SUGAR BOWL GETS FOREIGN RUNNERS

Trackmen From Sweden, Ireland, Australia To Run At New Orleans

New Orleans, Aug. 19.—(AP)— Three foreign stars will add an international flavor to the annual Sugar Bowl track meet here Dec. 31.

L. diBenedetto, chairman of the bowl's track committee, said Milers Joe Barry of Ireland and Alf Holmberg of Sweden and quarter miler Morris Curotta of Australia will run this year.

diBenedetto said the world's high hurdle record holder, Dick Attelsey of California, will perform. Attelsey's record is 13.6 seconds for the event.

The collegiate section of the meet will include the 120-yard high hurdles, 440-yard dash, mile run, 100-yard dash and mile relay.

For high school athletes there will be a football shuttle relay and a two-mile run.

Attelsey's opponents in the hurdles will include Bill Fleming of Notre Dame, last year's Sugar Bowl champion, and Jim Gehrdes of Penn State.

In the quarter miles, Curotta, a student at Seton Hall, is expected to face Charley Moore of Cornell and John Voight of Oklahoma A. & M.

The biggest American threat to the two foreign entries in the mile may be Bill McGuire of Missouri.

Charley Peters of Indiana, Charley Parker of Texas and Dick Stolpe of Oklahoma A. & M. are the prominent entries in the 100-yard dash. All have 9.5 seconds times to their credit.

Oklahoma A. & M. the defending Sugar Bowl champions, Louisiana State University and either Rice or Texas A & M, will enter mile relay teams diBenedetto said.

PICK ALL-STARS

Ruston, La., Aug. 19.—(Special) —In preparation for the proposed All-Star game between the leading players of the Big Eight and the Northwest Louisiana leagues, the Big Eight managers have selected the players to represent their group.

Ben Carroll of Bernice, a former Louisiana Tech star will do the catching. Tom Smith and Tinker Hood, two former Tech aces, and Douglas Lowery, up from the Ruston American Legion Junior ranks and Ruston High, will get the call as pitchers.

Johnny Williamson, a sensational fielder and dangerous hitter will occupy the first sack; Billy Hanna, a Shreveport boy and L. S. U. letterman will be on second. An old timer in the Big Eight. Tim Taylor who has the habit of breaking up ball games with his big stick, will be on the hot corner; and Johnny Emmons, Northwestern's star football and baseball player, was the choice for shortstop.

Glenn Post, manager of the Bernice Ball club, and winner of the Raymond Heard trophy as the Most Valuable Player in the league was an unanimous choice for center field, and he will be flanked by Bob Brasher, manager of the Farmerville Club, and Jerry Gregg a .400 hitter.

Berry Hinton, Louisiana Tech bas ball coach, will be utility man and manager of the team. Berry is known throughout North Louisiana and south Arkansas as "tops" in baseball playing and as a strategist in our national pastime. Larry Fox, president of the Big Eight has appointed G. L. McIllvene, Alton Bradley and Berry Hinton as a committee to handle the All-Star game. They will confer with Lt. B. B. Crawford, president of the Northwestern League, in order to make final arrangements. Both leagues are now having their Shaughnessy playoffs, but an effort will be made to play the game as soon as possible.

OIL AND GAS NEWS

Output Of Domestic Crude Oil Is Slated For Rise

By Max B. Skelton

Houston, Aug. 19.—(AP)— Domestic crude oil production can be expected to reach an all time high next month.

This apparently was assured Thursday as another 202,836 barrels daily were added to September output allowables from Texas fields.

Domestic production last week averaged 5,674,750 barrels daily, only 47,350 below the nation's all-time monthly daily average set in December 1948.

Texas' new allowable hike, combined with similar action expected from other oil producing states, should boost the nation's September output above 5,800,000 barrels daily.

Such an average is even more impressive when it is compared with the post-war low of 4,703,800 barrels daily only 14 months ago.

Texas' big September increase results from increased military demand for petroleum products and continued heavy civilian consumption of motor fuels.

It also is a good example of how the state's oil and gas conservation statutes operate in limiting output to actual demand.

Crude oil purchasers advised the Texas railroad commission they expect their September requirements to total 218,436 barrels daily.

The commission set the September allowable at a record 2,823,720. Actual output normally is about 8 per cent below the statewide allowable total. Mechanical failures, cleaning and abandoning of wells are among the factors causing this underproduction.

A U. S. Bureau of Mines report placed domestic stocks at 238,812,000 on August 5.

Record breaking refinery operations are responsible for the slump in crude stocks.

Last week domestic refineries processed a record 6,044,000 barrels of crude daily. This was 369,000 barrels above actual crude production.

Most of the processed crude was turned into gasoline.

During the week, refineries turned out 20,305,000 barrels of gasoline, some 300,000 above the nation's previous weekly output record.

K. S. Adams, president of Phillips petroleum company, this week gave indication of how the Korean war has affected refinery operations.

In the August edition of "Phillips news," company publication for employes, Adams said:

"We are currently producing 100 and 115 octane gasoline at more than half our peak wartime production."

NEW COMPRESSOR CAPACITY GIVEN

Commission Gives Texas Corporation Nod On More Horsepower

Washington, Aug. 19. —(AP)— The power commission gave Texas Gas Transmission Corp., Owensboro, Ky., temporary authority today to install 9,960 horsepower in compressor capacity at existing and new stations on its pipeline system.

The additional capacity will be used to transport increased quantities of natural gas for Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. Shreveport, La.

The commission at the same time gave Texas Eastern temporary authority to sell additional volumes of natural gas to current customers west of compressor station No. 20, which is in southwestern Pennsylvania.

The Texas gas construction program will cost an estimated $2,108,887.

It will provide for installation of 5,460 additional horsepower at four existing stations in Tennessee and Kentucky, and construction of a new 4,500 horsepower station in Kentucky.

Texas gas will use the additional capacity to deliver for Texas Eastern up to 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day between Nov. 1, 1950 and Nov. 1, 1951 and up to 34,000,000 cubic feet a day from Nov. 1, 1951, to Nov. 1, 1952, or until Texas Eastern completes new facilities under an application now before the commission.

Texas Gas will transport the gas for Texas Eastern from an existing connection between the two systems near Lisbon, La., to another connection near Lebanon, Ohio.

Texas Eastern plans to offer the gas to its customers west of compressor station No. 20 in proportion to their respective daily contract quantities under present service agreements.

Accordingly, the 60,000,000 cubic feet a day will be apportioned as follows: East Ohio Gas Co., 33,500,000 cubic feet; the Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., jointly 25,600,000 cubic feet; Missouri Utilities Co., 300,000 cubic feet; National Gas and Oil Corp., 600,000 cubic feet.

Both temporary authorizations were granted without prejudice to the commission's final action.

Texas Eastern's pending application proposes expansion of capacity to give added service to present customers and to supply Algonquin Gas Transmission Co. with gas for resale in New England.

Summer sports prove to be most entertaining with the Bayou DeSiard Country Club offering a diversity of activities. The tennis courts draw their share of players and Miss Sue Ann Windes, Miss Libby Siegle and Mrs. Jack Rubin, above, are no exception. Ardent golfers on the golf course who enjoy playing together often are Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Landry E. Ducote, Mrs Clark Upp and Mrs. David Garrett, Jr. at the upper right. Center, Miss Asley Hamilton with her house guest, Miss Helen Hopper of Lincoln, Calif., left, find horseback riding a great thrill. Swimming, tanning and sunning are favorite diversions with the younger set in the summer, lower right. Left to right are Miss Carol Emerson, Miss Ann Shafto and Miss Rosemary McGinn. Below is Mrs. K. E. Booth and daughter, Sandra Lee of Greensboro, North Carolina in the gardens of the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Steen. Mrs. Booth is the former Miss Dorothy Steen.

NGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Miss Gwendolyn Walsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Walsworth of Lake Providence, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Edward Fontaine, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fontaine of Shreveport is announced today. The marriage will be solemnized Septerber 2.

MISS GWENDOLYN WALSWORTH TO BE BRIDE OF EDWARD FONTAINE

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Walsworth of Lake Providence, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Gwendolyn, to Edward Fontaine, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fontaine of Shreveport. The marriage will be solemnized at the First Baptist Church, Saturday, September 2, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon with the Rev. C. A. Martin officiating.

The bride-to-be has chosen has her matron-of-honor, Mrs. C. L. Miller of Epps, aunt of the bride, and bridesmaids will be Miss Evelyn Brown of Doyline, Miss Donna Davis of Lake Providence, and Miss Joan Richards of Little Rock, Ark. The flower girls will be Alice Jean Cooper and Carolyn Ann Oswalt.

Mr. J. C. Fontaine of Shreveport, father of the groom, will serve as best man and the groomsmen will be Clem Scott of San Antonio, Texas, Raymond Franks of Shreveport, and Edwin B. Coats of Monroe.

Gary Miller of Epps will be the ring bearer. Lee Fontaine of Shreveport and Bobby Jo Tullos of Lake Providence will light the candles.

Mrs. Herman Schwartz will be the organist and Miss Bettie Ann Bauguss of Shreveport, vocalist.

Miss Walsworth is a graduate of Lake Providence High School and attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston. Mr. Fontains is a graduate of Byrd High School and also attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

After a wedding trip the couple will reside in Ruston where they are students at Louisiana Tech.

Murray Family Enjoy Reunion

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murray gathered at the home of a daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson near Quitman Sunday for the first family get-to-gether in nine years.

A delectable noon day meal served family style was enjoyed by the following: Mr. and Mrs. Chris Murray and son Freddie of Freeport, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Otis McVicker and daughter Miss Doris Nell McVicker of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Murray of Waynesboro, Mississippi, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Murray of Quitman, Mr. and Mrs. Esther Murray of Oklahoma City and the honor guests and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murray of Quitman.

Don't give your lawn a light sprinkle every afternoon to "cool things off." Such shallow watering encourages short roots and coaxes more growth from crabgrass then from your planted lawn.

MISS BARBARA ANNE HUDNALL IS BRIDE OF MR. BOBBY JOE LEE

A very pretty wedding of the late summer was that of Miss Barbara Anne Hudnall, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie R. Hudnall, to Mr. Bobby Joe Lee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde B. Lee of Newellton, Louisiana. The wedding took place at the home of the bride in St. Joseph on the fifth day of August at seven of the clock in the evening, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The color theme of green and white was artistically carried out in the various rooms of the attractive home. Quantities of white perennial phlox, white zinnias, white verbena, and trailing fern banked the mirrored mantel in the living room. Crystal candlesticks holding white candles were placed at each end of the mantel. The same color theme was carried out in the dining room.

Pre-nuptial music, some selections of his own composing, was beautifully rendered by Mr. J. A. Schuchs, Jr., at the piano.

The petite blonde bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a traditional wedding gown of white satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline outlined in seed pearls and with long fitted sleeves ending in lily points at the wrist; the full hooped skirt fell in graceful folds from a fitted bodice and ended in a sweeping train. Her finger tip veil of illusion was caught to a dainty Juliet cap of chantilly lace trimmed with seed pearls; the veil was bordered with applique of the chantilly lace. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls; she carried a shower bouquet of tuberoses centered with a single purse orchid and mounted on a white prayer book with white satin streamers.

Attendants of the bride were, Mrs. Eugene Scott, matron-of-honor; her cousin, Miss Jo Ellen Overby and the graam's sister, Miss Tommie Jean Lee, bride-maids; her little sister, Cecil Linda, and the groom's little sister, Cheryl, as flower girls. Mrs. Scott wore a charming gown of patel pink fashioned with fitted bodice of lace and with long full skirt of nylon net over taffeta; she carried a nosegay of blue carnations and baby breath mounted on blue tulle and tied with wide pink satin streamers. The gowns of Miss Overby and Miss Lee of patel green, were fahioned along the same lines as Mrs. Scott's; they carried nosegay of pink carnation and baby breath mounted on pink tulle and tied with pink satin streamers. Each of the attendants wore a pale pink double althea in her hair. The little flower girls wore quaint ruffled frocks of pink organdy over taffeta, and carried small round baskets containing flower petals.

The groom had as his best man the bride's brother, Mr. Willie Braxton Hudnall, and as groomsman Mr. Newton Wilds, Jr. The groom, his attendants, and the bride's father all wore summer tuxedoes and white carnation boutonneires.

Just before the ceremony, all the lights were extinguished and candles lighted throughout the house and at the altar by Mr. Newton Wilds, Jr. The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Mr. J. A. Schuchs, Jr., for the processional. With their attendants about them, the bridal pair pledged their vows in the soft candlelight at one end of the long screened porch before an improvised altar beautifully arranged with background of magnolia foliage and garlands of trailing fern; on either side were placed seven-branched candlelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers, and graceful baskets filled with white gladioli, phillipine lilies, and fern. The impressive double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Clyde Frazier, pastor of the Methodist Church in St. Joseph. During the ceremony the Lord's Prayer was beautifully sung by Miss Jo Ellen Overby, accompanied at the piano by Mr. Schuchs.

After the ceremony there was an informal reception; Mr. and Mrs. Hudnall were assisted in receiving their guests by Mrs. Hudnall's mother, Mrs. Daniel B. Coor, and Mr. Hudnall's mother, Mrs. James F. Hudnall, and the groom's parents. The mother of the bride wore a pretty navy blue sheer frock; her corsage was of pink carnations and white tuberoses. The groom's mother wore a black sheer frock accented with white; her corsage was of white carnations and tuberoses. The floating hostesses, all of them close friends of the bride, were Misses Margaret Gene Ohlen, Barbara Clower, Sue Hale, and Betty Jane Rives; they all wore lovely floor length summer frocks.

Mrs. Fred Miller presided at the bride's book. Mrs. William G. Oehmig and Mrs. Peter Prince were at the punch tables serving delicious frosted punch and daintily iced cakes. The bride's table, overlaid with a handsome imported linen cloth beautifully embroidered in white with Mexican hand drawn work, was centered with the three-tiered wedding cake garlanded with green and elaborately embossed with white roses with a minature bride and groom at the top; three-branched silver candlelabra holding lighted tapers were on either side of the cake. After the bride and groom cut and shared the first slice of cake, Mrs. Robert James Lancaster presided at the table.

For her going away frock, Mrs. Lee selected a two piece aqua linen; her hat, bag, and gloves were of white and her sandals were multi-colored; she wore the orchid from her bouquet as a corsage. The happy couple left amid showers of rice for a short honeymoon on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. They will make their home on Hopkins Plantation near Newellton, La.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were, Mrs. Virginia Gary Valentine of Cannonsburg, Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Overby, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Daves, and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Coor, all of Baton Rouge; Misses Catherine Rychman, Sue Keneker, and Mr. Sidney Landry, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perrault, Miss Cornelia Hudnall, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Palmer, and Mr. William Perry, Natchez, Mississippi; Mr. Mac Medlin of Tallulah, and a large number of friends and relatives from Newellton, Waterproof, and Lake St. John.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

A daughter, Madeleine Lensing, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Casper M. Lensing on Aug. 10. Maternally Mr. and Mrs. Ford Land of Conway, Ark., are grandparents, and Mrs. Fred P. Regenold, great grandmother.

Mrs. W. J. Grossman, Jr., entertained on Friday of the past week at a conversational hour, that Lake Providence friends might have the pleasure of meeting her cousins, Mrs. Katherine King and Mrs. Adine Moore of Forrest City, Ark.

A cooling and refreshing atmosphere was created by white and green refreshment table cover, rosebud decoration, and crystal trays of sandwiches and bowls of salted nuts, served with refrigerated drinks.

Friends of the Grossman families called to welcome the honorees to Lake Providence and to enjoy the hour with the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Herron and sons Hunter and Russell of Shreveport, recently visited in Lake Providence with Mr. and Mrs. H. P. DuBose.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Pinkston, Jr., and children Ann and Edwin, left Wednesday to take Mr. Pinkston's mother, Mrs. Irene Pinkston, to Midway, Ala., to visit relatives.

Mrs. Vail Delony and daughter, Betty, Mrs. Margaret Neill, Miss Mary Pearl and Mrs. Georgia B. Long, motored to Greenville Sunday for a visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. John J. Nelson was joined in Vicksburg by her daughter, Miss Hattie Nelson, for the trip to Mobile, Ala., where they attended the wedding, Aug. 12, of daughter and sister, Miss Myrtle Nelson, and Mr. W. Tummer, at high mass at eight in the morning. In returning Mrs. Nelson stopped in Baton Rouge with Mr. and Mrs. Knecht.

TO TAKE CARIBBEAN CRUISE

Miss Roseann Marks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Marks, will leave this week for New Orleans where she will join Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Marks who will sail the latter part of the week on a seventeen day Caribbean Cruise.

SUMMER READING CLUB FOR CHILDREN DRAWS TO A CLOSE

The summer reading club for the children of Ouachita parish comes to a close on August 26. All note books are to be turned in to the library before or by that date. Children who have participated in this program are urged to be very careful to turn in the lists of the books read. In order to earn a certificate a child must read 12 books, of which number two must deal with forestry. For every five books read over the required number a child will earn a gold star on his certificate. The notebooks must be signed by one of the parents stating that the child has read the books listed.

Every child who earns a certificate will be entitled to attend the picnic given by the Brown Paper Mill. The picnic will be given a little later on when the weather is cooler. Watch the papers for announcements. The reading certificates are being donated by the Louisiana Forestry Association. They will be presented at the schools by members of the library staff.

Parents are urged to check their children's notebooks and see that each notebook has the necessary information in it. The notebook must contain the child's name, the name of the school which he attends the author and titles of the books read and the parent's signature. Please cooperate with your Ouachita Parish Public Library by seeing that the notebooks are turned in on time.

CALHOUN

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Caraway of Jonesboro are spending several days in the home of their sister, the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Smith.

Mrs. Frank Smith, Jr., of West Monroe visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Turner one day last week.

Beauty Hints for summer

by Jeanette Y Lee

Ageing skin can be checked— start this summer with Endocreme

Does your skin seem to be ageing lately? Tiny wrinkles appearing? Then let me give you some exciting news. I've seen positive proof that in an overwhelming majority of cases ageing skin can be definitely improved by the regular use of Endocreme Hormone Cream. And... the best news of all... you can start right this summer!

You don't have to use a rich, heavy hormone cream during the hot summer months . . . even though this is the season when your skin needs more care than ever because it's exposed to the hot summer sun and winds. The hormone cream I recommend for you who are anxious to get started now... when you can do the most good... is ENDOCREME FOR YOUNGER WOMEN, sometimes called Endocreme Light. Here's why.

In "designing" a hormone cream for younger skins that aren't hungry for rich, heavy oils, we've retained exactly the same hormone potency that you find in regular Endocreme, yet the cream is quick-absorbing and very light in texture. It's a "natural" for summer.

And a "tip" for all of you daily users of ENDOCREME "Regular" ... don't grow careless about your daily application of Endocreme because you're on vacation . . . or it's just too hot. Simply switch to ENDOCREME FOR YOUNGER WOMEN . . . for you and I know so well that it's constant daily application of Endocreme that makes it so effective. And remember... only Endocreme contains "Activol."

P.S.: I keep my Endocreme in the ice box during hot weather. Have you tried it? It's really so cool to use. And don't forget... a 30 days' supply costs you just $3.50 plus tax... ask about the free jar plan.

CUT WEDDING CAKE

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harvey Siscoe shown cutting their wedding cake following their recent marriage which took place at the Methodist Church in Rayville. Mrs. Siscoe is the former Miss Jennie Jo Blanchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Blanchard of Rayville.

JENNIE JO BLANCHARD IS BRIDE OF MR. JACK HARVEY SISCOE

The Methodist Church in Rayville, La., was the scene Saturday, August 5th at six o'clock in the evening of the wedding of Jennie Jo Blanchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Blanchard, and Mrs. Jack Harvey Siscoe, Corpus Christi, Tex.

The Rev. Earl B. Emmerick, pastor, officiated in the double ring ceremony which took place before an altar decorated with southern smilax, white star clematis and baskets of white marconi daisies, gladiolus and ferns. Tall candelabras holding slender tapers were placed on each side of altar. The bride and groom stood under an archway decorated with plumosa fern, huckleberry foilage and marconi daisies. Broad satin ribbon bows were used lavishly with the flowers and foilage to add to the picturesqueness of the scene.

Reserved pews were marked with satin ribbon bows entwined with southern smilax.

Mrs. W. L. Calhoun, talented organist, rendered appropriate music. During the prenuptial program Miss Jane Shea, Monroe, La., sang "One Alone" and "O, Promise Me." She was accompanied by Mrs. Calhoun.

The traditional wedding marches were played for the processional and the recessional.

The bride given in marriage by her father was lovely in a white sheer marquisette conventional wedding dress worn over white taffeta. The yolk of the high, round neck was outlined with a narrow ruffle. Long tight-fitted sleeves came to a point at the hand. The skirt and train were trimmed with many narrow ruffles. Her finger tip veil of net illusion was fastened to an original bandeau of marquisette and tuberoses. Her only ornament was a delicate pink cameo pendant, worn on a slender chain around her neck and borrowed from her cousin, Miss Sybil Tharpe. She carried a large white, fanshaped bouquet of tulle, white mums and tuberoses with bows and streamers of white satin ribbon.

Miss Mignonne Henry, of Winnsboro, La., was maid of honor. She wore a yellow sleeveless marquisette gown fashioned like the bride's, worn with long marquisette gloves. She carried a small fanshaped bouquet of yellow tulle with orchid color mums and yellow satin ribbon. Her head piece matched her bouquet. The two bridesmaid's gowns, bouquets and head pieces were replicas of the maid of honor's except color. Miss Sybil Tharpe, Shreveport, La., wore a green gown with yellow mums on green tulle fan with ribbon bows and streamers. Miss Edith Derrick, Eudora, Ark., wore an orchid color gown with yellow color mums on orchid tulle fan with satin bows and streamers.

Jim Conerly, Monroe, La., served as best man. The ushers were Don Conerly, Monroe, La., Bill Meridith, Ruston, La., Hugh Baker, Oak Ridge, La., and John Earl Blanchard, Winnsboro, La., uncle of the bride.

The bride's mother wore an aqua crepe trimmed with matching lace. She wore a pale rose color flower hat and pale rose color gloves. Her corsage was of pink angel lillies. The groom's mother wore sheer black with matching hat and gloves. Her corsage was of salmon pink gladiolus.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The reception rooms were pleasingly decorated with large crystal bowles filled with roses of three shades of pink. The bowls of roses were placed on the mantal and piano in the living room and on tables in gift room. Tall baskets of white marconi daisies and gladiolus were placed in the living room near the receiving line and in the dining room at each end of the bride's table.

The bride's book was presided over by Miss Helen Stall, of Gibsland, La. Mrs. Tommy Christian, sister of the bride welcomed the guests to the room to view the many useful and beautiful gifts received by the bride.

Green and white were the colors used throughout the dining room. The three tier wedding cake was white. A minature bride and groom stood under an arch on the top tier. Graceful arrangements on each end of the table were of formosanum lillies, tuberoses and clematis in crystal bowls. White satin hearts on satin ribbons were spread fan shape on the table. Tall white tapers in crystal holders lighted the table.

Miss Pearl LeFevre presided at the refreshment table where the same flowers were used for decoration as on the bride's table. Green fruit punch and individual wedding cakes were served. Others assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Bill Meridith, Misses Jackie and Nitsy Guynes, Elsie Duncan and Bettye Phillips.

The bride chose for her wedding trip a two piece dress of navy and dusty rose linen with accessories to match. She wore a spangled mum corsage, a gift from the groom.

The happy couple left in a shower of rice and good wishes. They will be at home after August 14th at Corpus Christi, Tex.

REAFFIRMS RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

JERUSALEM —(AP)— The Israeli government says it is sticking to a policy of religious freedom for all denominations in this country. This principle again was made clear recently in a letter from the office of Premier David Ben Gurion to five Protestant church leaders. They had protested the refusal of the Israel broadcasting service to permit the Hebrew portion of a scheduled Protestant religious service to be broadcast. The government replied that Protestant communities are free to use the Hebrew language in their radio casted services as long as the content does not constitute an affront to the religious feeling or sense of propriety of other religious denominations.

Katie Lou Prestridge And Mr. T. L. Davis Take Marriage Vows

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Katie Lou Prestridge, daughter of Mrs. Jay Gould Prestridge of Olla and Mr. T. L. Davis of Shreveport which took place August 6 at four o'clock in the afternoon at the Olla Baptist Church.

The impressive double ring ceremony with the Rev. J. O. James officiating took place before the altar which was decorated with ferns and tall basket of white gladioli and branched candelabra holding slender white tapers.

Miss Elaine Canady at the piano rendered a prenuptial program of music, and accompanied Francis Elliott, cousin of the bride, who sang, "I Will Love You Always" and at the closing of the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

Lighting the candles were Miss Joan Prestridge of Natchitoches and Miss Mattie Sue Detro of Shreveport. Ushers were Frank James and Bill Talley of Olla.

Serving the groom as best man was Cecil Cole of Shreveport.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, J. E. Prestridge, was gowned in pale pink sheer embroidered organdy over a taffeta underskirt. The ballerina length skirt was attached to a tight fitting bodice and she wore an off the face headdress to which was attached a short flowing veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible topped with tube roses centered by an orchid tied with pink satin streamers.

Miss Susan Bowles of Shreveport was the maid-of-honor and the bride's only attendant. She was wearing a pale green organdy made with bouffant, ballerina length skirt and tight fitting bodice. She was wearing a picture hat of identical shade and carried a bouquet of spirea, tuberoses and matching streamers.

Mrs. Prestridge, mother of the bride, was wearing a silk floral print with matching accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's mother which was decorated throughout with attractive arrangements of summer flowers.

Registering the guests were Mrs. Tommy Goslin of Ruston who was gowned in a pale blue gown and accessories of black.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white embroidered linen cloth. At one end was the heart shaped wedding confection placed on a mirror and surrounded by white roses and fern. Placed at the other end was the punch bowl and entered with candelabra holding slender white tapers.

Miss Bettie Green of Shreveport presided at the punch bowl while Miss Mary Bess Prestridge of Columbia served the wedding cake. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. Alice Teddlie and Mrs. Earnest Meredith.

Mrs. Davis is a graduate of Olla - Standard High School and Northwestern State College. Since graduating she has been employed in Shreveport as a technician.

For their wedding trip to New Orleans and other points along the coast the bride was wearing a brown linen dress with white accessories.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Prestridge and Joan of Natchitoches, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Nunn and Miss Mary Bess Prestridge of Columbia; Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Prestridge of Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lowe of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Inbeau and son of New Orleans; Mrs. H. K. McClure and Miss Mary Eleanor of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. MaHaffee of Jackson, Miss.; and Mrs. Melvin Allbritton of Harrisonburg.

Rehearsal Dinner

Following the rehearsal of the Davis-Prestridge wedding a dinner was given in the home of the bride's mother. She was assisted by Mrs. Alice Teddie and Mrs. Earnest Meredith.

The house was beautifully decorated with ferns, asters, and gladioli. Centering the dining table was a miniature bride and groom with an arrangement of tube roses and fern.

The bride and groom took this time to present members of the bridal party with gifts.

Those enjoying the occasion were Miss Susan Bowles of Shreveport, Miss Mattie Sue Detro of Shreveport, Miss Joan Prestridge of Natchitoches, Miss Francis Elliott of Olla, Cecil Cole of Shreveport, Miss Elaine Canady of Olla and J. E. Prestridge.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA HAVE REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America was held Monday evening at 7:30 in the meeting room of St. Matthew's Gymnasium-Auditorium.

In the absence of Mrs. Marie Mulhearn, Grand Regent, Mrs. Mamie Hodges, Past Regent, presided.

Routine business was expedited in the following order:

Date for benefit party announced for September 15th to be held in the St. Matthew's Gymnasium.

Mrs. Gladys Watkins, chairman for the religious articles announced complete shipment of supplies received, and the sales room would be open after each Mass Sunday, August 20th.

Mrs. Mamie Hodges, chairman for Library, announced an early opening of this worthwhile project. Many books have been purchased and many donated. Recent donations of the books from Father Simon Vitali and Mrs. Charles Horuff.

Mrs. Peggy Grigsby, chairman for the L. T. I. visiting project gave a most interesting report on Cottage "D," which is sponsored jointly by the Episcopal and Catholic Church groups. Mrs. Grigsby distributed the "Cottage Gazette," giving all cottage activities, birthdays celebrated, and all entertainment and sports enjoyed during the month. Of special interest to readers is the quoted article from "Changing Times," which is indeed a story of the "Golden Rule" having been applied to a young delinquent in whom the sponsor expressed confidence, and by his encouragement helped a fifteen year old boy over a tragic experience he was trying hard to forget. This project is in it's infancy and the committee is working hard for it's success.

Miss Mamie Campbell, Maternity Clinic, chairman, reported case load had increased materially, which increases the efforts of the committee workers who are happy in their job of doing for those less fortunate.

Catholic Daughters have purchased a piano for the meeting room, this is indeed an asset to the organization and a credit to the ladies who negotiated the purchase.

An important visitor, Father Simon Vitali, accompanied the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John C. Marsh, C. D. A. Chaplain, who has just returned from a Pilgrimage to Rome, where he was honored to have a personal audience with Pope Pius XII, the Vicar of Christ on earth. Msgr. Marsh gave the high lights of his trip and especially mentioned having visited the Shrine of "Cure D'Ars," one dedicated to the happy memory of St. John Viamey, Patron of Parish Priests. This shrine is by no means the largest, but due to the many charities accomplished and acts of humility practiced by the priest for whom it is named, this spot is indelibly impressed on Msgr. Marsh's mind. In reference to Lourdes, he told of its vast numbers of faithful visitors and of special note was the Monsignor's beautiful remarks that all do not receive physical cures but many are priviledged to enjoy permanent spiritual cures.

Msgr. Marsh presented the Court with a special blessing from the Ho'y Father to Court St. Matthew's. This bears a picture of Pope Pius XII, a special prayer and the official seal of the Vatican. Each member was presented with a rosary bearing all the coveted indulgences. This gift is one that shall be cherished and will always be a reminder of the "Holy Year Pilgrimage."

The meeting then closed with a prayer after which delicious refreshments were served.

EXPLOSIVE DOOR-STOPS

KHARTOUM—(AP)—The Sudan government advised Khartoum dwellers to stop using cannon shells as door-stops. The reason: an old warhead, dating back to the 1884-85 siege of Khartoum, exploded during building excavations. Several offices in the Sudanese capital use old cannon shells as door-stops.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Penalty Cards Can Be A Help

Written for NEA Service

A player with penalty cards on the table is not allowed to discard a card from his hand proper. Apart from that, possession of penalty cards does not hurt a player in the slightest. He may use penalty cards or a combination of penalty cards and cards from his hand proper to make a legal meld, or to take the discard pile. He may meld cards from his hand even though he has penalty cards on the table.

Sometimes a player will get an advantage due to having penalty cards on the table. This took place in a recent game. Our side needed 120. My partner placed three tens face up on the table, stopped, did some finger counting, did some more finger counting, and finally said, "I can't do it." Three tens were all the cards he had exposed; they became his only penalty cards, and he discarded one of the three tens.

The next card discarded to him was a ten. My partner smiled happily and placed all the nine cards in his hand on the table. They were three jacks, three queens, two sevens and a deuce, and counted 90 points. The two tens on the table made 110, the ten on top of the discard pile 120.

He added the ten to those cards, had a legal meld, and took the discard pile. You see, he had his count before, but only by using all the cards in his hand which he was not allowed to do. Now he could meld all his cards because the cards from the discard pile would go into his hand.

If he had simply discarded the ten without first going through the rigamarole of insufficient meld, his right hand opponent might have figured that he was splitting tens and discarded some safer card, whereupon my partner would neither have had the count, nor the discard pile.

It is possible for you to legalize your own insufficient meld if you craw the right card. Thus you have two eights, a deuce and a joker on the table as penalty cards You may add that to your penalty cards and they will immediately become melded cards.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Bride-Elect Honored At Shower In Hodge

Miss Julia Marie Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thompson of Jonesboro was honor guest at a bridal shower given at the home of Mrs. Earnest Bishop, with Mrs. J. J. Briehn, Miss Effie Smart, Mrs. Arthur Weeks and Mrs. V. R. Jones as co-hostesses, Wednesday from 4 until 6 o'clock.

The reception rooms of the Bishop home were very attractively decorated. Lovely miniature bridesmaids and bride were placed at vantage points throughout the reception rooms.

The refreshment table in the dining room was overlaid with a handsome cut work table cloth and centered with a low bowl of yellow carnations and tuberoses with double hearts entwined with cascades of satin ribbon streamers falling softly about the floral decoration. Flanked on either side of the center decoration were crystal candle holders holding tall yellow burning tapers.

The buffet was attractively decorated with miniature bride and her three bridesmaids against a background of white clematis. The romantic theme was accentuated by the soft glow of burning tapers. Mrs. Paul Stinson presided at the crystal punch service and Mrs. J. J. Briehn and Miss Effie Smart assisted in serving of the dainty sandwiche designed in wedding rings, bells, rolling pins and the delicious toasted nuts. The napkins were white featuring the names "Judy" and "William" in the corners.

Miss Thompson is a graduate of Louisiana Poletechnic Institute 1950 fall semester as was Mr. Jamerson. The wedding will be performed at the Jonesboro Methodist Church at one o'clock Sunday afternoon, August 20th with the Reverend McKnight, pastor of the church officiating in the double ring ceremony.

Pelts Styled For Versatility, Luxury

By Gaile Dugas

New York. —(NEA)— The little furs which provide luxury on a budget are high fashion this fall. They possess wardrobe versatility, are carefully detailed and as flattering as much more expensive furs.

A natural gray squirrel shawl, designed by Heinz, can appear in the afternoon over a slim wool dress and again in the evening as a handsome wrap. Edged with gray silk fringe, it's worked on chiffon to give it extreme lightness and pliability.

The fur sweater, so important on the fall fashion scene, is done by this designer in white Indian broadtail. Lined in white silk and given a hand-knitted waistband, sleeves and collar, it's feather light. It can be worn over an afternoon dress, over an evening gown. It lends itself to rhinestones and pearls, can be worn dressed up or dressed down.

A third fur from the same designer is a black caracul mess jacket, shining, neat and clipped at the waist. It fits snugly over a slender wool dress, can team with black or with color, and can appear from morning through evening.

MARRIED RECENTLY

Mr. and Mrs. James Phillips Pettit following their recent marriage which took place at the Memorial Methodist Church. Mrs. Pettit is the former Miss Carolyn Sue Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Minor. Mr. Pettit is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Pettit

Carolyn Sue Minor Weds James Phillips Pettit

Memorial Methodist Church Scene Of Impressive Double Ring Ceremony

The Memorial Methodist Church was a lovely scene at six o'clock in the evening of July 28 when Miss Carolyn Sue Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Minor became the bride of Mr. James Phillips Pettit, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Pettit.

The Rev. George Pearce, Jr., officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony which was performed by candlelight before the altar decorated with fern, white gladioli and white asters.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. J. M. McIlwain at the organ rendered a program of prenuptial music. "Song To An Evening Star" was played while Miss Betty Jane Pettit gowned in orchid organdy and Miss Bonnie Albritton gowned in yellow organdy, lighted the candles. The traditional wedding marches were used to mark the beginning and end of the ceremony. "I Love You Truly" was played softly during the ceremony.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Tillman was the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She was gowned in an tea length dress of white organdy with blue embroidery over the taffeta. Her corsage was of pink glamelia.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a tea length dress of white Swiss organdy with Swiss embroidery around inset net illusion on the bodice. She wore white organdy mittens and an elbow length veil of net illusion. She carried a white ivory prayer book which was topped with a single orchid with streamers of tube roses and satin ribbon.

Mr. Thomas W. Holden served the groom as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents to relatives and close friends. The bride's table was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with the tiered wedding confection.

For their short wedding trip the bride wore a grey voile dress with white accessories. Her corsage was the single orchid from her bouquet.

The bride is attending Ouachita Parish high school. The groom graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and attended Northeast Junior College and Louisiana Tech.

NO GERMANS IN EGYPT'S ARMY

CAIRO —(AP)— Authoritative independent sources here say there is no basis for recurrent West German press reports that "6,000 Afrika Korps veterans" are serving with the Egyptian army. Foreign military experts and correspondents who have traveled extensively with Egyptian army units in all parts of the country say they have never seen any indication or hint of any German units or individual German soldiers.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

Friends in this area regret to learn of the serious illness of E. D. Schneider, local merchant and president of the East Carroll parish school board.

Mrs. Louis Nevin and son, Ronnie, after a delightful week in Memphis visiting their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gordan I. Gordon, were accompanied home by little Miss Carolyn Gordan who will visit with them for a part of the summer.

Few have the happiness and privilege of celebrating their seventy-fifth birthday, while still enjoying good health, vigor and energy. So it was with Mr. Louis Leach who was honored Tuesday evening at a delightful dinner at the Municipal auditorium. There were 50 relatives and friends present to make memorable the happy occasion. The banquet board was family seated with the honoree, filled with vari-hued gladioli, based with Oregon fern and Clematis and flanked with slim white tapers.

A delightful program, honoring the honor guest and entertaining the guests opened with singing "Happy Birthday" and invocation by Mrs. A. S. Herzog. Two poems, recited by Mrs. C. S. Leach, were "We Love You So", an expression of endearment to Mr. Leach, and his expressed appreciation for the many valued friendships enjoyed during a long and active life "My Friendships". Two brilliant piano numbers, "G and Valse de Concerte", and "The Sunny South" were contributed by Mrs. J. R. Davenport, Mrs. J. E. Kelly read the many congratulatory telegrams. An evening of great pleasure, and a pleasant memory to carry thoughout the years, concluded with singing of "Auld Lang Syne".

Out of town guests included Mrs. Essie Leach, and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Marcovitz of Oak Grove, Mrs. J. E. Kelly of Baton Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Roberts, Ruston, Miss Carolyn Gordon of Memphis, and Judge and Mrs. Frank Voelker, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nevin, Simon Marcus, Misses Melanie and Pelachie Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. H. 'SQUARE LIPPER'

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Want to learn to sing? Then be a "square lipper," says William Ernest Ross, associate professor of voice at Indiana University. Form your lips into a square, throw back your shoulders and burst into song. And don't be afraid to show you upper or lower front teeth, either, he says.

Other pointers thrown out by the professor are: Don't smile when you sing. You're more likely to yell than sing if you do. Don't sing with "lazy lips."

EVANGELIST

BROTHER EURSHAN

Rev. Urshan, Presbyterian evangelist, is in chrage of the revival services being conducted under the big gospel tent at the corner of South Second and Magnolia street with E. W. Caughron, serving as pastor.

Reverend Urshan was born in the ancient land of Persia (now Iran) and lived in the same country 12 years in the midst of the Mohammedans. His father was a Presbyterian minister and school teacher in that country.

He was called to preach the gospel at the age of 12 in 1914. Shortly after this the Mohammedans declared a holy war against all the Christians of the land.

In the first massacre of the Christians, he lost his mother and most of his relatives. In the second one his father was killed.

He escaped to Russia, and then to London where he received his education. He then came to the United States where he has carried the gospel to all parts of this nation as well as in Canada.

The public is invited to come and hear this evangelist each night at 7:30 at the big gospel tent.

SIDE REMARK BY LONG IS STUDIED

Indicates Convention Plans To Be Fought Out On Present Lines

By Edmond LeBreon

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 19.—(AP)—When Gov. Earl K. Long suddenly announced his decision to take an out of state vacation, a side remark he made seemed to have the most immediate political significance.

He said in effect that he had no plans for further changes in the law providing for a constitutional convention next year, subject to the decision of the voters November 7.

He remarked that he didn't consider the bill perfect, but that he couldn't think of any change that would make it more acceptable to the voters.

If this is a firm decision, it means that the campaign for and against the convention will be fought out on the lines already drawn—with the number of non-elected delegates, the limitations on popular ratification of any new constitution, and the convention's power to extend the governor's and other officials' terms as the big issues.

In recent days the opposition has been calling for another special session—to repeal the whole convention call.

Before the governor's departure changed the picture, there were strange rumors that still another session of the legislature was in the making to work over the convention call again. It was thought that the session probably would be called before September 15, the first key date in the timetable set-up by the legislature in connection with the convention.

September 15 marks the end of the qualifying period for candidates for the delegateships directly elected by the people—100 out of the 149 provided for the convention.

The next important date, and presumably the final one for any other changes in the convention plans, is November 7. That is general election day, when the voters will decide whether or not to have a convention and also ballot on the 100 delegates, in case a convention should be called.

There will, by the way, be no runoff for seats in the convention—high man in each delegate district wins, whether or not he has a majority.

The governor made it plain that the campaign for approval of the convention plan would go on in his absence and that he would get back into it when he returned, although he did not expect to take on any strenuous stump appearances.

He said considerable research was being done on past conventions, to provide precedents and arguments for the arrangements he has sponsored for the projected 1951 meeting.

Members of his administration and other supporters are making periodical broadcasts meanwhile on behalf of the convention.

Before leaving Baton Rouge, Governor Long repeated his prediction of a big vote in the convention ratification election. He said he would not be surprised by a 750,000 turnout and reminded reporters that most guesses in advance of the vote in the recent senatorial primary fell far short of the total actually cast.

A number of observers—including some opponents of the constitutional convention—are inclined to agree with the governor that there will be a sizeable vote every time any phase of the plan is submitted to the people.

Although much discussion has centered on the possibility that the convention might lengthen the governor's term, there has been little public mention of the fact that local officials' terms also might be lengthened.

Thus any sheriffs, legislators and others who are interested in serving beyond 1952 without another ordinary election have a stake in the convention plans. Conversely, posts who plan to run against incumbents in 1952 are also interested.

NOTEBOOK

Korea—(AP)—It is night and you are miles behind your own line.

You may have gone up to the front and been scared during the day, but that was earlier. You have come home to the tapwater from an army disapproved shower to wash away the road dust that feels an inch deep on your skin.

You have got back in time to eat a meal. Or you may be forced to try to digest something out of a can you have stuffed under a bunk.

But bad as the food may taste or persistent as the mosquitoes are buzzing around to dagger you, you are among the fortunate ones of the Korean war. You at least generally sleep free from danger.

This is the great advantage a correspondent has over any one group of doughboys. They had to stay and take it—and he comes up for a visit and then gets the hell out of there.

The disadvantage of the reporter covering a war is that he has to go up each day to the place where the battle activity is highest, or at least he does many days if he has a conscience. So if you total up his exposure to "the million dollar wound"—the one that sends him home with four limbs and a head—he gets at least an admiring understanding of the average combat infantryman.

And he gets an extra bonus—an understanding on the part of the doughboy of the job a correspondent has to do. This happens so often that it usually makes a correspondent feel ashamed. Many and many a time an infantryman will say to a reporter who comes up to write the story of men under fire:

"You're crazy. You mean you come up here when you ain't ordered to? Lock! Be smart! Get the hell out of here."

But if you hang around for a while with them under mortar or artillery fire and still get the hell out of there they like you for it. And they remember you as an old friend the next time you visit them—whether they are in combat or not. You have become one of them because you shared their danger. You don't have to tell them whether you went on to share danger with another outfit or not. You are part of them forever.

For some reason this gives you a feeling of fuilt at night after you have come back to what passes for a comfortable billet in wartime and have finished your writing for the day.

You go out on a small balcony and see the light of distant guns and hear their far-off rumble. A few trigger-happy rear headquarters troops send up some red tracer fire and someone new to the front says:

"Look! Lightning bugs!"

And some more experienced correspondent says:

"Yeah, .50-caliber fire-flies!"

It's all so beautiful when you are out of range. It looks like the fourth of July back home as the flashes are born and die in the darkness and the illuminating shells hang like the star of Bethlehem in the sky for a few moments and then die below the horizon.

Oh, it feels so good to be alive and so far away from it then. You don't think that tomorrow you will be up in that battlefront again yousrelf.

You just think that maybe you ought to write a letter home to someone you love—and you wonder whether the unseen and hidden hell of metal that breaks with each flash of light will kill an enemy—or touch someone you met yesterday or the day before.

And if the news does carry you that way the next day you will hesitate to ask for the friends you knew before. For the heart always shrinks from hurt. And sometimes it says it just can't take the loss of one more friend and still you keep on writing. And you can't listen to it—can you?

MAN EATING LION KILLED

KHARTOUM, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan. —(AP)— Natives finally have speared to death "Asad the Assassin," a man-eating lion who killed seven humans but ran away when an angry housewife pulled his tail. Three persons mauled by the lion are in serious condition at Sources Yubu hospital. For weeks the killer had been stalking the Zande country of Equatoria Province, South Sudan. He got his name from the Arabic word for lion — "asad." The villagers finally tracked the lion down and killed him with spears. Examination of the body showed he was very large, old and—like most man eaters, had teeth missing which caused him to turn to easily killed human prey.

James Marlow:

THE NATION TODAY

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—How can businessmen get business with the government?

Which is another way of saying: How can they stay abreast of contracts for which the government wants bids?

Do they have to come to Washington to find out? In many cases, perhaps most, they don't. They can find out in their own towns.

The department of commerce has worked out a system to keep them informed and help them make bids on work they can do.

It's done through the department's 42 officers around the country and business organizations in cities and communities, such as local Chambers of Commerce, boards of trade and so on.

Altogether there are about 2,100 such outlets. The main point in the system is the department's Chicago office and this is the way it works:

Say the army quartermaster in New York wants to have uniforms made. Through a nationwide teletype hook-up of government agencies, he sends this information to the Chicago office.

This office summarizes the information pouring into it daily, and then sends it out by mail to the 2,100 outlets mentioned above.

They display it for businessmen in their area to read. About 500 summaries of these contracts that need to be filled go to the 2,100 outlets daily, department of commerce officials say.

And, since they're displayed in those outlets, businessmen can go to them daily to see what's cooking in the way of government business.

Here's a theoretical example of what happens:

Jones in Peoria makes zippers and therefore has metal-working machinery. He reads that the army needs zippers or something else which he thinks his machines can make.

The summary about the zippers, which Jones reads in his Chamber of Commerce office in Peoria, will say what branch of the government wants the work done. It may be, for illustration, the same army quartermaster in New York.

If Jones can make what the quartermaster wants, he writes to him, and asks for detailed information. When he receives this, he figures out the cheapest price at which he can do the job.

He sends this, his bid, to the quartermaster. On a certain day try. And each of these has a list of businessmen who long ago asked to be considered bidders on contracts that fall within their ability to produce.

So the system worked out by the department of commerce simply widens the range of possible bidders and makes it easier for businessmen around the country to be better informed on government contract needs.

At the commerce department here, it was said that a lot of businessmen are coming into Washington, looking for contracts, when they could save time and money by checking the contract needs at one of the 2,100 outlets nearest them.

In addition, once a week the 2,100 outlets get a list of contracts awarded by the department of defense for $25,000 or more .

Through this businessmen can learn where they may get subcontracts from those firms which already have obtained the prime contracts of $25,000 or more. The defense department is the biggest single agency which has business contracts.

Of course, this isn't an iron-clad system for letting businessmen in on every government contract. Some, because of security reasons, are handled directly with one firm and kept secret.

And in some cases this happens: The government tells a big aircraft plant to make 500 planes. That plant may then hand out on its own subcontracts to a group of small manufacturers with whom it has done similar business before.

DISCRIMINATION CASE

Madras, India—(AP)—Barring anyone from colleges on grounds of community, caste or religion violates India's constitution, a full bench of the local high court recently ruled. The case arose out of a Madras government order fixing the ratio for admission of major religious communities into government colleges. The government said this was necessary to prevent highly intellectual minority communities from standing in the way of the progress of the backward majority. The Brahmin community which forms only three per cent of Madras state's 55,500,000 people was able, because of superior intelligence, to capture most of the admissions into the colleges. The government, therefore, fixed two seats for the Brahmins out of every 14 vacancies. The Madras government is appealing to the supreme court of India against the decision.

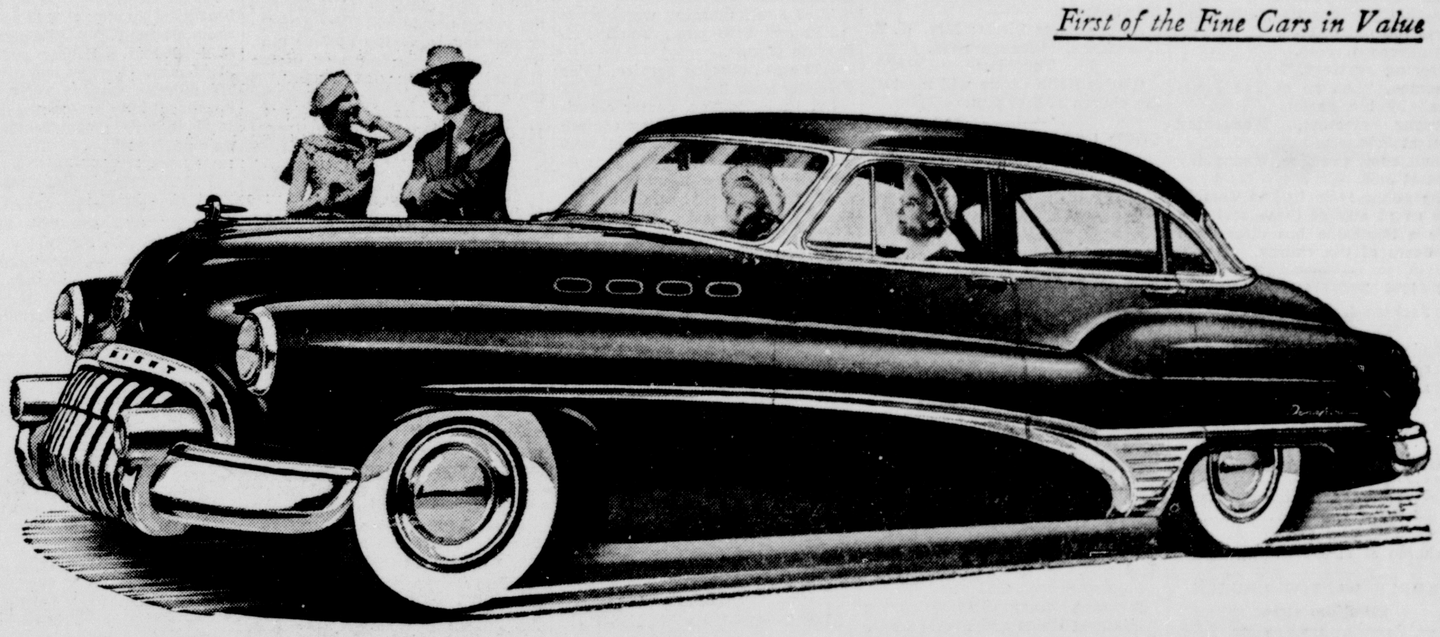
First of the Fine Cars in Value



It's a Very Satisfying Feeling

Yes, it's good to slip into a truly fine automobile and sense its richness, its comfort, its room.

And there's a great thrill in touching off the waiting power of a great-hearted straight-eight and feeling its swift response at any speed.

It's fun to count the quick, admiring glances thrown your way.

It's nice to have a car that parks easily, for all its inches. It's very pleasant to do away with gearshifting and clutch-pedal pushing, and know in its stead the utter smoothness of Dynaflow Drive's silken transmission of power.

And still that doesn't probe the depths of a ROADMASTER owner's secret satisfaction.

For while he knows he has a fine car, by its look, its feel, its appointments—

While he has performance at his command that needs play second fiddle to no other on the road—

While he enjoys a very special measure of creature comfort in the quite matchless gentleness of ROADMASTER's ever-level ride—

He knows too that he has made an exceptionally wise investment.

He has spent his money for the things that make a fine car fine—and nothing simply for show.

He has paid the lowest price per pound in the fine-car field—he has the very satisfying feeling of knowing his dollars have given him solid merit, and solid merit alone.

We'd like to have you try ROADMASTER in honest comparison with the highest-priced cars to be found. We'd like to have you try to match it for room, for comfort, for finish, for handling ease and for ability on the road.

Then check the prices—and see if your own sense of value doesn't advise signing up right now with your Buick dealer for a Buick ROADMASTER.

Course Of Human Events Demands Man Have Tan

By Jim Reynolds
(Of the Morning World Staff)

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for a young man to impress a young lady with his outdoor nature, the chances are ten to one these days that he begins a frantic search for the secret of suntan.

Not too many years ago, a bronzed, weatherbeaten face indicated the result of a hard life, and the dandies of the day were prone to keep their faces as white as the head on a mug of beer.

Lately, though, the trend is to seek the nut-brown hue of the brew itself . . . to impress the world with the virile, healthy side of life.

Probably the romantic pre-eminence of the cowboy had a lot to do with the hope of the ordinary young man to add a touch of tan to his pallid face. Maybe it's the current trend toward "healthy pursuits" and exercise that's to blame. Perhaps it's merely that the average man and woman wants a change in color scheme.

One way or the other, America is wallowing in the midst of the Bronze Age, a period during which social acceptability is measured by the depth of one's color.

Many and varied are the plans for acquiring this tawny epidermis. There are those who swear by different brands of patent sun oils, there are the proponents of the baby oil and iodine method, there is rumored to be a brilliantine school, and it's been bruited about that Jack Blanks, the Mahogany Man of the municipal pool, secretly favors a coating of tannic acid solution as a means to the tanned end . . . wait a minute, that didn't sound right . . . I mean the tanned form.

Ardent pursuers of the brown look can be seen almost daily at the pools in the city, on the riverbank or beside the bayou, suffering mightily for the greater good. All schools are represented, including the nature boys, who feel that an endless series of painful scorchings will eventually achieve the desired effect. The net result for them is a continual shedding of the skin. They look, all during the summer, like so many new potatoes. The sight of a backslapping friend approaching sends them into a cold sweat and precipitates a torrent of warnings, pleas and protestations which seldom halt the hearty clap on the shoulders. They become experts in the weak smile, the gallant gesture and the "oh, that's all right. It's not really bad" type conversation.

One predominant cause of all this searing and broiling activity is the easily-tanned girl. When the young man who is wooing the lady beholds her normally peaches-and-cream complexion turning to saffron, gold and finally copper, he makes the great resolve.

'This year," he murmurs to himself, "I'm really going to get brown." By this point, it's too late. He's done for. All the future holds for him is the peeling nose, the smarting shins and the incandescent back of the sun-lover.

Unfortunately, there's always someone just a little darker than you. There's always temptation to try one more day's suffering 'o get the hoped-for shade. For even the darkest of us, there's always Jack Blanks . . . maybe, if we try to get out in the sun just a little more . . . and so on.

Personally, if I had the courage, I'd join that stalwart band which believes that the best way to darken oneself to the right shade is to sit in a dark, air conditioned pub and drink beer. Although there's no case on record of any of this crew getting an attractive tan as result, few of them know the agonies of sunburn. Then too, science has never proved it impossible to get a tan this way.

But, being just one of the sheep, I'll probably continue my visits to the broiling decks available.

Oh, yes . . . one more thing . . . when you see me there, please don't slap me on the back . . . and don't pretend you don't know the reason why.

Boy Makes Saucer Fly

AP Newsfeatures

Charleston, W. Va.—Department of defense officials please note.

There is such a thing as a flying saucer.

And it flies.

Joe Ward, 14-year-old son of a pilot, has one.

The youth, who lives at Belle, about 10 miles east of Charleston, is a model airplane builder of years standing. Intrigued by the thought of a flying saucer, he started out to make one. He had no model to work from, obviously.

He wound up with a doughnut-shaped contraption made of balsa wood and silk and equipped with a motor, flaps, landing gear, wheels and propeller.

The boys of his gang scoffed at the idea that the contraption would fly. So did his father, who bet Joe two cans of gasoline that the saucer would be a flop.

The payoff came at a large cinder plant field near the Dupont plant. The saucer, attached to 50 feet of wire so that it would not be lost, not only flew but it looped, hovered, circled and dipped.

Joe now has plans for a larger, radio-controlled saucer that would put the skeptics to rou t .

TRAP, SKEETSHOOTERS IN ACTION

Skeet Enthusiasts Thrive In Monroe

By Jim Reynolds
Of The Morning World Staff

Seventy years ago, a group of New England hunters with a yen for shooting and a touch of Yankee ingenuity went to work on the problem of supplying themselves with flying targets for practice. The result of their efforts was the now-popular clay pigeon.

The popularity of this inanimate, easily fractured "bird" grew with the years, as hunters found that blazing away at the soaring targets gave them valuable practice in quick gun handling and rapid calculations of lead, elevation and distance.

Twin Cities scatter - gunners for the past four years have made their Mecca for the pursuit of the elusive pigeons the Monroe Skeet and Trap Club range on Plum St., operated by S. K. Bernheim and J. B. Thoman. Whether they're hunters anxious to brush up their shooting eye before the season or just lovers of the "flying saucer" sport, Sunday afternoons and evenings and Thursday nights find the gunners on the range, blazing away at the airborne pellets.

Incidentally, night skeetshooting is far from common. In fact, the Monroe range is the only one lighted for night shooting in this area. The closest similarly - equipped range is in Ohio.

Tournament shoots are a feature at the Monroe range too. . . an added incentive for the shooter, whether he be novice or expert. This afternoon shotgunners will gather for a chance at prizes as well as an opportunity for practice and sport. Prizes for the event have been supplied by Hunt and Whitaker, No-D-Lay Cleaners, Joe's Steak House, the Independent Ice Co., the Package Liquor Store, Gene's Sporting Goods Store, the Hokus Pokus Liquor Store, Miano's Grocery and other local merchants.

Prizes for the ladies will be given away, too. Lots of the girls have decided that the housewife has been missing plenty sport when she lets the man of the family take off on a hunting trip. Now they're getting even, taking out their vengeance on the fleet clay pigeons.

Thomas and Bernheim, avid gunners, are propagandizing for their favorite sport continually, and when you watch the shooters at work it's easy to understand why. They really love it.

If the skeet and trap -shooters prove as effective on the winged variety of birds as they are on the fake ones, it's time to be a little kinder to some of our feathered visitors. They're going to have a rough time of it, come open season.

Anniversary of Broken Dreams

The Second World War ended five years ago last Monday with the surrender of Japan. In the days that followed here's what people were saying:

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in Moscow: "I see nothing in the future that would prevent Russia and the United States from being the closest possible friends. If we are really going to be friends we must really understand each other."

President Truman: "This is the day for Democrats. This is the day when we can start on our real task of implementation of free government in the world where we are faced with the greatest task we've ever been faced with. . . I know we are going to do it."

Dr. Snygman Rhee, chairman of the Korean commission: "The Japanese surrender means the end of a long nightmare of terror and oppression in Korea. The Korean people will be forever grateful to the American people. . ." Izvestia, official Soviet newspaper. 'The cause of world peace and the freedom and security of peoples has triumphed."

Milton D. Cohn, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans: "The DAV hopes that the crushing of Japan ends wars for all time."

Winston Churchill warned of the the atom bomb: "So far as we know, there are perhaps three or spread of communism and said of four years before the great progress in the United States can be overtaken. In these three years, we must remold the relationships of all men of all nations in such a way that these men do not wish, or dare, to fall upon each other for the sake of vulgar, outdated ambition or for passionate differences in ideologies, and that international bodies by supreme authority may give peace on earth and justice among men. Our pilgrimmage has brought us to a sublime moment in the history of the world."

Josef Stalin to Chiang Kai-Shek: "I wish to express the certainity that friendship and cooperation of equitable system Armageddon will be at our door."

John W. Snyder, director of reconversion: "I believe we are on the threshold of one of the greatest eras that mankind has ever known."

our countries together, all the freedom-loving nations will serve the cause of universal peace and the prosperity of all peoples."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur. "We have had our last chance. If we do not devise some greater and more

California To Get New Stamp

By Syd Kornish

One hundred years ago California became the 31st state in the union. To mark this occasion the U. S. will issue a new 3-cent commemorative stamp. It will be placed on first day sale at Sacramento, Calif., on Sept. 9. The color will be yellow.

The central design depicts a covered wagon, a pioneer man and woman, and a miner with his pan. The steamship "Oregon" which brought to California the first news that this far western territory had become a state is pictured on the left. Above the ship are citrus fruits and at the far right are oil wells.

Stamp collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes, not in excess of ten, to the Postmaster at Sacramento, Calif., with postal note or money order to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed. The outside envelopes should be endorsed "First Day Covers."

SAVING TRAGEDY

Chicago —(AP)— During the depression Theodore Oller lost his savings when a bank failed.

Since then he kept his money in a big can hidden in his bedroom. But that "bank" failed, too. Burglars walked off with the can.

HIS 100th BIRTHDAY

Bienne, Switzerland—Eugene Aufranc, called "Father Time" by his fellow Swiss watchmakers, is celebrating his 100th birthday. Here he shows his daughter, Julia, 75, the comparison between a modern Swiss watch and his masterpiece, a big calendar watch he made 80 years ago. "I made this calendar watch for my watchmaker's diploma," Aufranc says proudly. But now he has the date windows closed on the dial. He says he doesn't want to know the dates—only the hours.

Noted Author Insists Cheap Flat Suits Him

By Bernard Gavzer
AP Newsfeatures

Chicago—Author Nelson Algren lives in a ten-dollar-a-month flat in a Chicago factory district.

He doesn't have to. His latest book, "The Man With the Golden Arm," brought him enough fame and fortune to warrant a move to the other side of the tracks.

The book won an American industry award for a distinguished work. A selection of a book club, it also is being made into a movie and Algren is writing the dialogue for the shooting script.

Second Floor Flat

Algren's small second floor flat is in the back part of a two-house lot northwest of the loop. It vibrates in rhythm with the rumble of passing freight trains. Seated amid stacks of books and surrounded by the paraphernalia of writing, Algren says he has no intention of deserting the slum for a penthouse.

He expressed the fear that moving to a swank spot on the near north side might be too distracting.

"There are too many phonies living what they think is a very Bohemian life," he says. "For someone who wants to do serious work that sort of thing only encroaches on his time."

Has Roots There

Time apparently is of great importance to the 41 year old novelist. He has an unlisted telephone number known only to a small group of friends. And the neighborhood where he lives, with its broken sidewalks and general shabbiness, is uninviting.

It is in this neighborhood that he says "I have my roots." At least it puts him within easy reach of the people he writes about.

His books chronicle the lives of dope addicts, prostitutes, burglars, hard-as-nails cops and cops looking for a pay-off. "Golden Arm" has as its protagonist a card dealer who becomes addicted to dope. "Never Come Morning" dealt with a prostitute. His other two works, "Neon Wilderness," a collection of shor stories, and "Somebody in Boots," his first novel written in 1935, wree focused on life along Chicago's Division street, Madison street and South State street.

Down Under People

Life there, Algren says, is subcommunity.

"There's no room for these people," he says. "They live on the edge of life with the prospect that it will end now—not today or tomorrow, but now. And on top of them, keeping them down, sits a great heavy middle class society."

His books, he said in an interview, are written with the motive of "bruising the complacency of the squares, the smug white-collared, righteous, church-going citizens. I want the middle class to be conscious of the world underneath."

Brazil Celebrates Event With Stamps

Speaking of athletic events, the world's football championship matches were held recently in Brazil. To celebrate this event Brazil issued three new stamps. The 60 centavos blue, green and brown shows a game in progress with a world globe in the background. The date 1950 appears over the South American continent. The 1.20-cr blue and brown depicts the huge stadium where the matches took place. The 5-cr airmail illustrates a football player with a flag in the background.

Americans call this form of football soccer. But throughout many countries of the world this sport is the national pastime.

Rio de Janeiro's huge new Vasco Da Gama stadium, the largest of its kind in the world, was the site of the contest. The seating capacity is 120,000 persons. Although not fully completed as yet, the stadium is designed to include swimming pools, tennis and basketball courts, and an accoustic shell for musical and theatrical performances.

Msgr. Marsh Reviews Europe As He Saw It

By Yvonne Brett
Of The Morning World Staff

From Paris—Lourdes—Nice—Genoa—Rome—Venice—and many other exciting places in Europe comes a revelation of wonderment and beauty as seen by Rt. Rev. Msgr. John C. Marsh who recently returned to Monroe with a log of travels.

Father Marsh along with an old school chum, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. Schexnayder, Houma, La., sailed on the S. S. Nordam from New York on June 10. Father Schexnayder had been in Europe previously, but it was the first time for the Monroe priest.

The two landed at Rotterdam on Monday, June 19. From there they went to Paris for a two and a half day excursion to visit the capitol of France, with its artistic and historic monuments, the great Louvre Museum, Notre Dame Cathedral, the Invalides and Napoleon's Tomb, Sainte Chapelle, the Arche of Triumph, the Latin Quarter, and Montmartre.

This tour was followed by a half day trip through the wooded suburbs of Paris to the majestic palace of Versailles.

On June 24 the pair arrived in Limoges, France, and visited the famous Havilan china plant. Father Marsh stated that the china was beautiful, but that it was so expensive that all he could do was look.

The Shrine of Bernadette in Lourdes was the next stop. "The most peaceful and restful atmosphere enveloped us as we entered th sanctuary. Large crowds of people numbering 50,000 a day com to seek healing and peace at this shrine. This is one of the few places in the world where the sick come first. Individuals consider it a privilege to carry the sick to the well to receive the blessed water."

"At night thousands of persons participate in the candlelight procession which winds around the three churches which are built on a hill. The first is built at the foot, the second half way up, and the third at the top. Behind all of this is the grotto where all go to receive benediction at the end of the candlelight procession, reported Father Marsh in his account of the world famous shrine.

One of the few walled cities remaining today, Carcassonne, in France was reached by the two Fathers on June 27. The local priest remarked that the castle in the center and the high walls built around a lake which surrounded the city inside, were just like those which one sees in the movies.

Motor excursions over the spectacular Grande Corniche and its incrediable panoramas before descending to Menton and returning via the low route past famous Monte Carlo and its Casino, the tiny principality of Monaco, and the picturesque port of Villefranche, was the tour that awaited them when they arrived in Nice on June 29.

At 4:30 in the afternoon the two Louisianians arrived in Genoa, the birth place of Columbus. Father Marsh pointed out that he had always thought of Genoa as being a small fishing town, but found it to be a large city.

The big day came when the two church men arrived in Rome on July 2. This was the purpose of the tour. Both fathers were anticipating the visit to the home of Catholicism, the Vatican City, with all its wonders to behold.

Father Marsh and Father Schexnayder visited many of the old Catholic churches in Rome. They toured the Vatican City and viewed famous paintings and a large display of sculpture.

"All the buildings were beautiful, but all were so magnificent and large that it made a bewildered person out o me," was his comment.

The audience with Pope Pius XII was the main event of the trip. Father Marsh and Father Schexnayder along with four other priests were received by the Pope. Father Marsh stated that "he was much impressed by the dignity and poise which the Pope held, but that he still gave one the feeling of friendliness."

Father Marsh asked blessings from the Pope for church organizations, and the people who composed his parish here in Monroe. The Pope blessed prayer beads for every member of the congregation at St. Matthew's.

Florence was the next city on the agenda. There they visited many monuments of Medici fame, the beautiful cathedral, famed Belfry by Giotto, art galleries of the Pitti and Uffizi palaces, Dante's house and fascinating banks of the Arno river.

In Venice the water streets with their black gondolas churning up and down the river were awaiting them. Father Marsh said that he was told by citizens that the boats were painted in bright colors once a year, but remained black the rest of the time because of the Black Plague which struck Europe in the 17th century.

While there they visited St. Mark's square with its cathedral, Doges palace, Piombi prisons, and famous bridge of sighs. Later on they were toured around in gondolas through the network of canals, past marble palaces, Rialto bridge and picturesque markets.

From Venice to Padua and then on to Milan to visit the important commercial center of Northern Italy, in the rich valley of the Po, the Duomo cathedral, famous fresco "The Last Supper" by Leonardo da Vinci, Scala Opera House and also Sforza castle and the church of St. Ambrose.

Over the Alps from Milan to Lucerne, Switzerland. Father Marsh remarked that "he had seen so many wonderful and unbelievable things which were man made, but when he saw how beautiful the valleys and mountains were h realized truthfully that nothing man had ever made or would ever make in the future could ever compare with this great work of God in the form of nature."

The passion play in Oberammergau, Germany, was the next fete for the two men. They were housed in the home of one of the tenors in the chorus. The production which portrays the passion of Christ from the entry into Jerusalem until the resurrection of tains its cast from the villagers.

They resumed their trip and proceeded back to Lucerne, then to Lyon and on to Paris. On Monday, July 31, the two fathers went to Le Havre and boarded the S. S. Veendam for New York.

"In all the places which we covered in our tour we found that we could enter any church and say mass where the people would understand. We had no trouble holding conversation with the priest in any country because of our mutual knowledge of Latin. While in school so many of us wondered why the Latin language was still used to say mass, but now we had no questions left in our minds as to the necessity of having a universal language in the Catholic church."

Father Marsh returned home with many keepsakes and memories, but one article was outstandingly predominant. That was a telephone directory which he had carried with him all over Europe so as to have the address of all his friends and congregation that he might send them postcards.

By this means a large number of Monroe citizens were kept posted on all Father Marsh's travels.

GIFTS FROM ROME

Hebrew Artists' Birds on Stamp

Drawings of birds by ancient Hebrew artists appear on a new air mail set from Israel, reports Gimbel's Stamp department. The drawings were originally inscribed on synagogues and tombs 1,500 to 2,000 years ago. The oldest among them is the Marisa Eagle of the 100-pruta stamp copied from a tomb in southern Israel.

The Beth Shearim Eagle is depicted on the 30-pr. A dove holding an olive leaf in its beak is illustrated on the 250-pr. Two doves pecking at a bunch of grapes are shown on the 5-pr. The dove on the 50-pr stamp has been copied from a flat limestone relief formerly in the Museum of Dormitio in Jerusalem. The Bird of Beth Alpha is pictured on the 40-pr stamp.

The Nunatagmiuts of Alaska, now nearly extinct, were exceptionally tall for Eskimos.

Scalping Season Opened By Indians And Tourists

By ROBERT A. BARNES
AP Newsfeatures

Albuquerque, N. M. Want to see a bear? A coyote? A mystery animal?

Want to buy a rug? An Indian bracelet?

Then New Mexico's the place. Just drive through and read the signs.

Summer tourists are here in hordes, and it's questionable who gives whom a rougher time—the tourists who make a trader unroll two dozen or so Navajo rugs and then drive off with nary a nice-knowin'-ya, bub; or the busy promoters who spot cross-country thoroughfares in the Southwest loaded, not for b'ar, but for vacationers.

Like all vacation havens New Mexico has all kinds of folks trying to put together a dollar here and there. The less scrupulous—the fakes—are the bane of ever decent, self - respecting businessman who has to compete with them.

Free Water is Free

"Free water!" the signs scream. "Last chance!"

What all too many easterners don't now is that there are virtually no legitimate spots in the state which charge for water. Unless you want to fill a tank-truk.

"See the zoo! See the wild animals!"

For mile after mile after mile you see them—the signs in giant orange and yellow letters.

"Four miles! Two miles! 300 yards! Right here, right here!" they scream.

Then—

"Stop! You PASSED it!"

The tourists stop. Lots of them. Folks who live around here don't pay too much attention. A cobra's a cobra, they figure. So's a laughing hyena.

Indians Resent Fakers

Legitimate Indian traders chomp at their bits over the counterfeiters. One of the best-known—Dean Kirk—has his answer printed for all to see near his trading post west of Gallup.

"One mile to Dean Kirk trading post. Genuine handmade Indian goods. No wild animals, no cheap gas, no beer, no snakes, no junk curios, no fake exhibits."

Some trading posts aren't really trading posts at all. They're just souvenir trinket stores.

But there are genuine Indian trading posts, established for the primary purpose of dealing with Indians. Naturally the ones in more isolated locations make their living by trading, not selling to tourists.

Vacationers pay thousands of dollars annually for Indian merchandise without knowing whether it is what it purports to be.

The United Indian Traders association, which includes some 300 traders on the Navajo, Hopi, Zuni and other Indian reservations in New Mexico and adjoining states, has taken steps to aid the unwary tourist.

All genuine handmade Indian jewelry coming from members of the UITA bears a stamp identifying it. Jewelry which is not stamped may or may not be handmade. Great quantities of silverwork are sold as "Indian-made" articles. This often means they were turned out in an assembly line process by Indian silversmiths working in one of the big jewelry factories.

Some dealers have at least two prices on everything one for the home folks, one for strangers. But that doesn't mean a tourist can bargain his way to a lower price. Usually for the outsider it's pay the asked price or go elsewhere.

Here Are Some Tips

An Indian trader's profit is hard come-by. He has thousands of dollars tied up in pawn, and his inventory is costly. It's the folks with the jun jewelry and poor quality merchandise priced too high who give the traders a bad time.

How can you avoid being taken to the cleaners?

Look for the UITA stamp w shows the jewelry is handm Don't buy the first thing you compare prices and quality at ferent stores. But it takes ye to learn values in the Indian handicrafts business. Your best bet is to check a firm's reliability with the local chamber of commerce or newspaper.

DRAMATIC SURPRISE OF THE YEAR!

In the arms of Wendell Corey, Margaret Sullivan offers a toast in this scene from "No Sad Songs for Me" which opens a three- day engagement at the Paramount Theatre today. For the first time this picture deals courageously with a subject never before presented on the screen. "No Sad Songs for Me" is the brave picture of the year.

'No Sad Songs For Me' Is Acclaimed 'Brave Picture'

Margaret Sullavan Returns To Paramount Screen In Dramatic Film

Margaret Sullavan returns to the Paramount Theatre screen today in Columbia Pictures' unusual love story "No Sad Songs For Me," with Wendell Corey and Viveca Lindfors also starred. Miss Sullavan's first picture in more than six years, "No Sad Songs For Me" is considered to have as brave and exciting a theme as films like "Pinky," "The Snake Pit," "Gentlemen's Agreement" and "Home of the Brave."

"No Sad Songs For Me" is the story of a woman, a wife and mother who learns she has only ten months to live. To insure the happiness of her husband and child she hides her tears behind a smile while she chooses another woman to take her place, and grooms that other woman for the job. Hollywood reports Miss Sullavan's return to the screen a triumphant one, paying tribute to the tremendous and inspired performance with which she plays the wife and mother.

Corey is cast as the engineer-husband who does not learn until almost too late of the courage and spirit of his wife, with Miss Lindfors seen as "the other woman" in the unusual, tender love story. Important featured players are Natalie Wood, as the daughter of the family; John McIntire as the doctor who sympathetically watches Miss Sullavan give a final meaning to love; Ann Doran, as her friend, and Richard Quine as Miss Lindfors' exuberant casual suitor.

"No Sad Songs For Me" has won the praise of such Hollywood stars as Edward Arnold, Lucille Ball, Joan Bennett, Humphrey Bogart, Broderick Crawford, Al Jolson, Ida Lupino, Dorothy McGuire, Dick Powell, Edward G. Robinson, Lizabeth Scott, Cornel Wilde, and Shelley Winters.

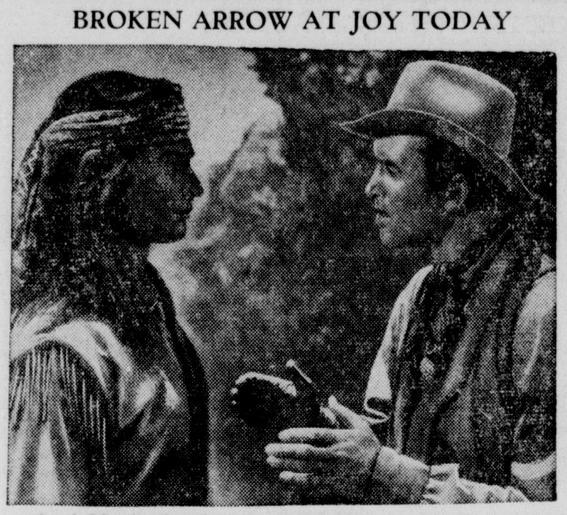
BROKEN ARROW AT JOY TODAY



Good friends, though on opposite sides of a bloody war, frontiersman Jimmy Stewart explains a point to Cochise, Apache warrior chief played by Jeff Chandler, in this scene from "Broken Arrow," now showing at the Joy Theater. This friendship, which is actually part of Arizona history, helped bring peace between Whites and Apaches in that state.

'Broken Arrow,' Hailed As Great Film, Playing At Joy

James Stewart Heads Cast Of Picture Dealing With Indians, Whites

The panorama of Indian - white relationships, an unusual love story and the challenge of the great outdoors are the ingredients of "Broken Arrow," already hailed as a movie of magnitude elsewhere and today playing at the Joy Theatre here. The Twentieth Century-Fox large-scale sage of an important chapter in American lore was filmed in Technicolor and stars James Stewart as an adventurer with the courage to pioneer fair treatment of Indians, and features Debra Paget as an Indian girl with whom he falls in love and Jeff Chandler as the renowned Indian chief Cochise.

In endeavoring to bring a page of history to the contemporary screen, the film's producers went to a popular book, "Blood Brother," a novel by Elliott Arnold. It told the personal history of the legendary Apache warrior chief Cochise, whose name spelled terror for pioneering white men in early day Arizona of 1870. Starting with the book as original source, researchers entered into a two-year period of culling known information. From this exhaustive study, screen writer Michael Blankford determined what should be the core of the script.

The central situation, Blankfort decided, should be the unique friendship between the white adventurer Tom Jeffords and the Indian chief. These were men who might have killed one another, but instead, beginning with their mutual respect for one another's honesty and bravery, developed a deep and true friendship that served as a practical basis for a reform of then existing Indian-white inequities.

No less care was exercised by Producer Julian Blaustein in visualizing Blankfort's screenplay for actual film production. Blaustein determined to cast Stewart, who hadn't played a westerner in more than a decade, or the role of Jeffords. For the role of Cochise, Blaustein turned to the upcoming Jeff Chandler on the basis of his quite different role in "Sword in the Desert." Diminutive Debra Paget won the leading feminine role on the basis of the teen-ager's work in "Cry of the City" and "House of Strangers." The "Broken Arrow" supporting cast includes Basil Ruysdael, Will Geer, Joyce MacKenzie and Arthur Hunnicutt.

Delmer Daves was the choice to direct "Broken Arrow." He led an expedition to the desolate wastes of Arizona to film "Broken Arrow" in actual locations, not far from the White River Reservation, where many of the Apaches, some direct descendants of Cochise himself, now dwell. Headquarters for the operations involving one of sonnel and equipment since the war, was Sedona.

Director Daves employed 375 full-blooded Apaches from the nearby reservation as well as a hundred other local residents. The Arizona country lent itself spectacularly to the Technicolor camera treatment, the director has noted.

PLAYING WEST MONROE STAR

Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon in a scene from the technicolor love story "Blossom in The Dust," playing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

'Ma And Pa Kettle' Coming Soon To Joy

Universal - International's "Ma and Pa Kettle Go To Town," which opens soon at the Joy Theatre, is the second film in that studio's "Kettle" series and bids fair to attain a success even greater than its predecessor did, which is a mark for any film to shoot at nowadays.

It is a better picture than the first of the series, its comedy being more sustained and possessing the same salty character which caused "Ma and Pa Kettle" to roll up unprecedented popularity at the box office.

The new Kettle film has virtually the same cast as the first, co-starring Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride, with Meg Randall and Richard Long providing the romantic interest and fourteen younger Kettle kids boiling through scene after hilarious scene.

The producer, Leonard Goldstein and director, Charles Lamont, also are of the first Kettle picture.

The story, of stouter thread and swifter pace than the first in the series, deals with Ma Kettle winning a trip for herself and Pa to New York with a prize slogan for a cola drink. When a bank robber seeks refuge in the old Kettle shack and decides to serve as baby sitter for the incredible Kettle kids while the elderly couple go to New York, the fun begins, and it doesn't let up until the film's fadeout.

The chase for a black bag containing a fortune in stolen money, which the unwitting Pa has been duped into taking to New York for delivery to a pal of the bank robber, has not been matched on the screen, for sock suspense-comedy, in many a day.

Near East Is Locale For 'Sword In Desert'

One of the world's hot spots, the flaming Near East, is the locale for Universal - International's exciting new film drama, "Sword in the Desert." The picture, which opens at the Joy Drive-In Theatre on Tuesday is the first Hollywood product dealing with the recent dramatic events that made Palestine a headline story.

With Marta Toren, sultry Swedish importation, and Stephen McNally, who won wide acclaim for his portrayal in "Johnny Belinda," providing the romantic interest as intrepid lovers in the underground forces, the film also stars Dana Andrews, playing the skipper of an American freighter, who plays a vital part in the conflict.

More than year in the making, the film was produced and written by Robert Buckner, who visited Palestine prior to production and conferred with military and administrative authorities in an effort to bring to the picture the full force of the story's dramatic background. For his locale Buckner chose a desolate expanse of sand dunes near Monterey, California, which were an incredibly similar likeness of the Palestinian topography. Buckner's big headache was finding a group of buildings resembling a kibbutz, or Jewish community settlement. He was virtually reconciled to an artificial, studio-built job when near Victorville, California, he drove by a cluster of buildings that might have been transplanted from Palestine. A rustic sign outside stated: McCARTHY'S DUDE RANCH. Buckner immediately rented it and used the farm for much of his location filming.

COMING TO JOY

Marjorie Main's prize-winning slogan in Universal-International's new comedy hit, "Ma and Pa Kettle Go To Town," takes the popular star to New York City in company with "Pa" Kettle as played by Percy Kilbride. The new Kettle release features Meg Randall and Richard Long.

Magnitude And Speed Of War Effort Is Amazing

Volume Of Ferried Troops And Supplies Is Tremendous

By Elton C. Fay

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The urgencies of war have enabled the armed forces to get things done in a magnitude and at a speed undreamed of in the peacetime era of less than two month sago.

Troops and supplies have been ferried to the Korean warfront by a rapidly mobilized water "lift" in tremendous volume; a brand new weapon was invented and delivered to the battle zone in 23 days (that usually takes years); big bomber units fly combat missions to enemy targets four to six days after receiving orders at their home bases in the United States.

A minor miracle of troop supply was done by the military sea transport service (the organization which resulted from the combining of the navy's and army's separate transport services, as part of the service unification program), combat ships of the navy, and regular commercial shipping.

In a little over a month after the start of the war on June 25, more than 40,000 men, 500,000 tons of cargo and 2,000,000 barrels of petroleum were poured into the war zone.

Back in the peacetime days, the average total military "lift" and cargo for a 35-day period ran about like this: 10,000 passengers, 180,000 tons of cargo, 1,000,000 barrels of fuel.

The increase in the first weeks of the war now is mounting rapidly as more ships go into operation. Another 65 ships are being taken out of mothballs by the maritime commission to add to the already augmented supply fleet.

The MSTS had 174 of its own ships and six chartered vessels in operation at the start of the war. By the week just ended the total had risen to 213 MSTs-owned ships, with 151 American-flag commercial ships and 13 foreign-owned vessels under charter.

To get critically needed material and personnel to the front, the military ain transport service (a combined navy-air force organization) flew 200 tons of cargo and about 2,000 men during the first weeks of the war. The airlift, like the water lift, is being expanded steadily.

One of the most dramatic instances of how the war has put everything into high gear came in disclosure of the appearance in battle of a new super rocket, a 6 1/2-inch missile launched from planes with a "shaped charge" warhead. The rocket, called by the navy the "Atar" (anti-tank aircraft rocket) reportedly has even greater penetrating power than the new ground weapon, the 3 1/2-inch bazooka. The latter can penetrate 11 inches of armor.

The first report on results of its use came from a marine pilot of an F4U Corsair. The navy-developed weapon has been delivered to the air force, marine and navy pilots. The marine pilot said he knocked out the first enemy tank he hit with the big rocket, the missile boring into the tank to be followed by a firey explosion as it detonated in the interior. A Corsair, which is a World War II, piston-engined plane, can carry eight of the rockets. These eight give a single plane a firepower greater than the broadside of a big, 2,200 ton destroyer firing all of her five-inch guns.

But the amazing thing about the Atar is its history of development.

A year ago experts in the naval bureau of ordnance thought it would be handy to have some type of tank-buster rocket. They made a few figures and rough sketches. But there was no money to go ahead with development of the vague idea and no critical need then for such a weapon.

Then on June 25 this year the Korean war brought a drastic change in values. There was critical need and there was money. The ordnance bureau told the air force it had the idea for a rocket that looked promising. The air force said it needed such a gadget—quickly and by the thousands. Naval ordnance headquarters here wired its naval ordnance test station at Inyokern, Calif., to get busy. Seven days later the first experimental shot was fired—an interval usually requiring about one and a half years.

Twenty-three days later the order was sent to Inyokern to begin development a cargo plane landed in Japan with the first hand-made models, ready for combat use. The first consignment went to the air force.

Another phase of the supply picture involves the big B29s. A B-29 group of 30 planes is a large outfit, requiring not only the combat planes and crews but a force of several hundred maintenance men and tons of equipment to keep it in operation. In the deliberate days of peace it takes weeks to move a Superfortress group from one place to another and get it into the routine of training at the new location.

But not in a war. When it became obvious that more air power was needed to back up the single group of B-29s in the far east in the strategic attacks on north Korean targets, USAF headquarters flashed notices to groups based in the west and on the west coast. In less than half a dozen days, some of these groups were over north Korean cities, bombs tumbling from their bays.

Not only were the bombers operating in the war zone, but the ground crews of maintanance men, spare engines, special tools, heaps of spare parts were at the bases from which the bombers operated, flown there in transports which traveled with the bombers.

SEVERAL STATES TO VOTE TUESDAY

Five Incumbent Representatives Face Contests In New York

By D. Harold Oliver

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Primary votes start down the 1950 home stretch Tuesday by choosing candidates for 54 house seats—45 of them in New York—and one governorship.

Only five incumbent representatives face contests in New York's primaries—three Republicans and two Democrats.

On the same day Wyoming and Mississippi voters select house nominees—with the former also nominating for governor—and Delaware Democrats hold a convention to pick a candidate to run against Republican Representative Boggs.

Texas Democrats next Saturday go into a run-off primary to decide house contests in the 16th and 18th districts which were unresolved in the first primary July 22, and two state office races.

After next week, only 14 states will remain to pick nominees—for 11 of the 3 senatorships and 62 of the 435 house places up this year. All the choosing will come in September.

The chief contest on the Republican side in New York's voting Tuesday is between Rep. W. Sterling Cole, an eight-termer from Bath and veteran member of the house armed services committee, and John Young of Corning. This is rated a close fight. Cole represents the 39th district.

The other two Republicans challenged are Reps. Edwin A. Hall, of Binghamton (37th district), and Rep. Clarence E. Kilburn, of Malone (34th).

Hall may have the edge because his opposition is divided among three men—James H. Westfall, of Vestal, and T. Milton Bond and Lester R. Mosher, of Binghampton.

Kilburn's chances to defeat Frank W. Aikin, of Watertown, are said by party leaders to be good.

Both the Democratic contests are in Brooklyn, with Rep. Joseph L. Pfeifer (8th) locked in a hot fight with Victor L. Anfuso, and Rep. Louis B. Heller (7th) challenged by Charles Kleinberg.

Three of New York's 20 G. O. P. house members are voluntarily retiring—Reps. James W. Wadsworth (41st) after nine house terms (1932-50) and two in the senate (1914-26); William L. Pfeifer (42nd), Republican state chairman, and William LeFevre (30th).

Rep. Vito Marcantonio, lone American labor party member in the house, is unopposed in New York City's 18th district. But in November he will face a coalition candidate in James G. Donovan, former state senator. Donovan, a Democrat, has the endorsement of the Republican and Liberal parties. He says communism will be the main issue.

New York's senate and governor nominees will be named in state conventions Sept. 6-7.

In Wyoming, three Democrats and three Republicans seek the right to run for the state's lone house seat, now held by Rep. Frank A. Barrett, a Republican. Barrett is running for the G. O. P. gubernatorial nomination.

The Democratic house primary candidates include John B. Clark of Cheyenne, son of Dr. John D. Clark, a member of President Truman's economic advisory council. He's opposed by Ragnor Barhaugh, Casper business man, and Sidney Kornegay, Cheyenne farmer. All three are war veterans.

The Republicans are T. C. Thompson, Cheyenne, deputy secretary of state; William Henry Harrison, Sheridian, state representative, and Homer Oxley, Lingle, rancher and former speaker of the Wyoming house.

The Democratic candidates have pledged full support of the national administration program and war effort. The Republicans have assailed administration economic policies and urged the trimming of non-defense expenditures.

In the Republican gubernatorial race, Representative Barrett is opposed by C. D. Williamson, banker and chairman of the Wyoming commerce and industry commission; Leeland U. Grieve, state senator and livestockman, and Samuel L. Asher, Cheyenne grocer.

Former Rep. John J. McIntyre of Casper is a Democratic governorship aspirant, along with State Senator Rudolph Anselmi, of Rock Springs, and Carl Johnson, Cheyenne public accountant.

In Mississippi, only two of the state's seven Democratic house incumbents have opposition—Reps. Arthur Winstead (5th district) and John Bell Williams (7th). Rep. William M. Whittington (3rd) is retiring, and three are seeking his seat.

Representative Winstead has five challengers, including former Rep. Ross Collins of Meridian. Representative Williams' only opponent is Davage Smith, of Jackson.

Republicans are running unopposed candidates in five districts but—as the Democrats say—only for the exercise.

A dash of vinegar in your rinsing water will insure longer wear for your clothes, since it helps remove all vestiges of soap and suds.

MOREHOUSE BANK TO OPEN MONDAY

Occasion Will Be Celebrated With Direct Radio Interviews

The bank of Morehouse will be officially open for business tomorrow, it was announced by Emmet Stephenson, president.

Formal opening of the bank will be celebrated with direct wire interviews over the Bastrop radio station with officers of the bank participating in the broadcast.

Stephenson cordially invites every citizen of Bastrop and Morehouse parish to inspect the bank during the opening day.

Bank services with the exception of safety deposit boxes will begin Monday. Stephenson said the safety deposit boxes will be installed between Sept. 15 and Oct 1.

Officers and directors of the bank have selected the slogan, "The Bank of Friendly Service." Stephenson said, "It is our aim to live up to our slogan."

The bank of Morehouse pays two per cent interest on savings up to $2,500 and one per cent on all over that amount.

Officers of the new bank are Stephenson, G. A. Corry, Jr., executive vice president; W. H. Todd, Jr., vice president, and Victor Cain cashier.

Members of the board of directors include E. Murray Caldwell; J. W. Flynn; W. P. Stephenson; Jack Yeldell; Harry Homer, Cain, Cory, Todd and Stephenson.

Other bank employes will include Mrs. C. L. Ginn, who has seven years of banking experience and Miss Geraldine Hopkins who has three and a half years of experience in banking.

The radio interviews will be staged in the bank building and broadcast at 2 p.m. Monday.

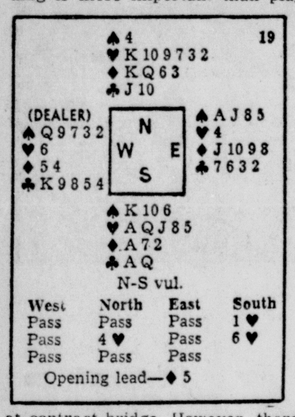
Flipping Coins May Wreck Good Bid

By Oswald Jacoby

Written for NEA Service

A surprising number of players bid far better than they play the cards. This is not as fatal a difficulty as bad bidding because bidding is more important than play at contract bridge. However, there are times when accurate play of the cards is of the greatest importance.



West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	6 ♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♦ 5

In the hand shown today, South got to an excellent slam contract with great skill. Unfortunately he did not show the same skill in playing the hand.

North's jump bid to four hearts after an original pass was a strong bid. Since he had passed originally, a jump to three hearts would not be forcing and might be passed by South. Hence the jump to four hearts showed a hand with which North did not want to risk a contract that was lower than game.

Naturally the strength shown by this bid was limited by the fact that North had passed originally and therefore could not have more than about two and a half bare tricks (if that).

Since South had an exceedingly powerful hand, including three aces and a king in the fourth suit, there was no need for him to make any exploring bids. A grand slam would have been a poor shot, in view of North's original pass.

It was most unlikely that North held the ace of spades, the king of hearts, and solidifying cards in the minor suits. There was bound to be a play for the small slam, however, the South was thoroughly justified in bidding it.

West opened the five of diamonds and dummy won with the queen. Declarer promptly drew trumps and tried two more top diamonds. When that suit failed to break, declarer needed two tricks in the black suits.

He could make his slam by a successful club finesse, merely losing one spade. Or he might play to find the ace of spades in the East hand and discard dummy's losing club on the king of spades.

South mentally flipped a coin in choosing which black suit to try first. Unfortunately for him, his mental coin told him to start the clubs. He lost the club finesse to West's king and West promptly returned a spade, setting the contract.

South should have tried the spades first. Since the ace of spades was actually in the East hand, all would be well. However, even if the spade play turned out badly, the contract would not be set immediately. South could still return to dummy with a trump to make a second try by means of the club finesse.

In other words, by going after spades first, South would have two chances for the slam. By going after clubs first, South had only once chance — and it happened to be wrong.

CZECHS GET WORK BONUSES

PRAGUE—(AP)—Miners of Czechoslovakia have been promised government bonuses up to 26,188 crowns ($523.76) each for faithful work to be handed out on Miner's Day, Sept. 10. But some, the official news agency noted in a dispatch from the coal center of Moravska Ostrava, will take a cut in their bonuses because they skipped work a few times in the last year. The story listed four men to get bonuses of over 20,000 crowns ($400) with the top sum going to Alois Lapis, 43, father of two. On the other hand, it said, Metodej Pazdera earned a reward of 11,003 crowns ($220.06) by going 52 per cent over his production quota—but he missed three shifts and it was cut to 687 crowns ($13.74).

Bob Thomas IN MOVIELAND

Hollywood, Aug. 12.—(AP)—You have to stay alert if you want to keep up with the Hollywood news.

No doubt about it. I discovered that truism this week. I went blithely off on a two weeks' vacation to the great and green northwest. Scenic grandeur unlimited. But while I was gaping at the greenery, all heck was breaking loose in Hollywood.

For instance, when I left town Errol Flynn was cooing over the Rumanian beauty, Princess Ghika. He swore they would be wed in the fall and he would settle down to feed on her blintzes, or whatever Rumanian girls cook for their husbands.

Now I return to find Flynn has tossed the princess aside for Patrice Wymore, who is not a member of royalty and is indeed a native of Kansas. Quite coincidentally, she is also Flynn's co-star in a movie.

This is an incident which could have reached as far as the state department. Except for the fact that Rumania is Red and the princess is not.

Let's take another news break. A couple of months ago, Betty Hutton broke with her husband, Ted Briskin. For several weeks she acted convincingly gay at various night spots with other men. She took over microphones for song sessions and generally gave a good impression of Mr. Martin's mood in the number, "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Out of My Hair."

So what happens? Betty reconciles with Briskin in Chicago

When I left town, better Davis had returned from divorcing the voluble William Grant Sherry in Mexico. She declared her reported romance with Gary Merrill was part of the Hollywood fable. Besides, his wife was divorcing him in slowpoke California, which requires a year for married couples to cool off.

But—what do you know?—Now Bette is Mrs. Merrill, thanks again to Mexican justice.

All this has confused men no end and I am listening to the broadcasters and reading all the columns so I can catch up.

DOROTHY DIX

Plenty Of Mothers-In-Law Add Happiness To Home

DEAR MISS DIX: Can two people who are sure that they love each other, having been engaged for four long years, hit it off O. K. with a third party, my mother, thrown in on the deal? I am an only child. My father died when I was only 5 years old and mother has been everything to me. I owe her everything, including a living. Naturally when I marry I shall insist that she live with my husband and me, and my fiance agrees that he can and will get along with her and insists that everything will be all right. Why all this folderol about mothers-in-law? It scares me before I even start. HELEN

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: It has been done, Helen. There are exceptions to every rule. There are many households in which the mother-in-law is not first aid to divorce but the guardian angel of the home. And there are plenty of sons-in-law who love their wives' mothers as well as they do their own.

TACT NEEDED

It depends chiefly upon how much tact and self-control the mother has and upon her willingness to sacrifice woman's innate mania for running whatever house she happens to be in. It also depends upon whether your prospective husband is one of the possessive men who want to monopolize their wives. It likewise depends upon how much good, hard, horse sense you have in managing the situation and keeping both your husband and your mother feeling that he or she is first with you. And, believe me, that requires some doing.

If your mother is one of the bossy kind of women and will no only rule you, as she has always done, but will tell your husband where he gets on and off, you will never make a success of your marriage. Nor will you if your husband is so much in love with you that he is jealous of your affection for anyone else. And you will certainly mess things up and probably land in the divorce court if you are always throwing mother in husband's teeth and telling him that mother thinks we should do thus and so, and mother says we shouldn't do that.

But if mother is one of the rare women who can keep her fingers out of other people's pies, and if husband is an easy-going, good-natured chap who likes company and doesn't object to a third party, and if you are an adept at rubbing fur the right way, why, there is no reason why you shouldn't marry and live happily ever after, despite the handicap of having a mother-in-law in the house.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married to a man who is good and kind, without any bad habits, and who is a good provider. But we are unhappy with each other and quarrel over little things. He complains because I like to stay up late at night and read and sleep in the morning and he has to get his own breakfast. He has to go to work early, but I leave the things on the table at night for him to cook. Also, he tracks in dirt, and when I scold him he only says: "What harm does it do?" And he leaves his shoes on the floor for me to pick up. Don't you think that he is unreasonable in these matters? S. E. C.

ANSWER: No, I don't. I think you are making mountains out of molehills and that if all you have to complain of in your husband is that he leaves his shoes on the floor and tracks in a little dirt, you are blessed among women.

If you had a husband who beat and mistreated you or one who was a drunkard whom you had to haul in the door because he couldn't find the keyhole or if you had one who was a philanderer who kept you awake wondering what pretty young girl he was out with, then you would have a right to bewail yourself, but you have no cause to weep over a pair of shoes or a mud or snow stain on the floor.

Also, it seems to me you are giving your husband a mighty raw deal when you won't get up and get his breakfast for him of a morning, and if he were not as patient as Job he wouldn't stand for it. If a man is willing to toil hard all day to support his wife, she might at least be willing to cook the food that he brings home.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: You have never given a logical definition of love. Please send me that information at your earliest convenience. W. R. Y.

ANSWER: Nobody has ever given a logical definition of love because there is no logic in love. It comes and goes as it pleases and none know why they love nor why they cease to love, nor is there any way of reviving love when it is dead.

DOROTHY DIX cannot answer personal mail. Her leaflet D-11, "Attentions from Married Man," analyzes the dangers of an extra-marital relationship from the girl's point of view. GAME PRESERVE TO BE INSPECTED

Will Be Highlight Of Forestry Tour Set For Aug. 24

Alexandria, Aug. 19.—(Special)—Inspection of the 44,000 acre Catahoula wildlife preserve, abounding in deer and other game, will be one of the highlights of a four parish forestry tour set for August 24, Q. T. Hardtner, Urania, chairman of the event, reported.

Beginning at 8:30 a.m. from Alexandria the motor tour will cove points of interest in Rapides, Grant, Winn and LaSalle parishes, Mr. Hardtner said. It is being sponsored by the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce and the Louisiana Forestry Association in cooperation with the U. S. forest service.

The game management preserve to be visited by the group is located in the Kisatchie National Forest. Experiments are being conducted there in the development of natural foodstuffs for all types of wildlife, he said.

Also scheduled to be seen are thousands of acres of reforested timberlands under both private and government management. At noon the group will be entertained with an old-fashioned barbecue luncheon at Urania.

Following the luncheon, Mr. Hardtner, a pioneer in reforestation, will outline results of a forestry program first inaugurated by his organization in 1904. Later that afternoon a mechanical tree planter developed by foresters of the Illinois Central Railroad will be demonstrated. The day's activities will conclude with a display of forest fire fighting apparatus by the state forestry commission.

Arrangements for the tour are being coordinated by Lamar Walters, agriculture director for the Chamber of Commerce, John B. Ferran, executive secretary of the Louisiana Forestry Association and Hugh S. Redding, supervisor, U. S. forest service.

STAGE PRESENCE!

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Tenthouse, a theater out on the north shore, has a low, circular stage. Members of the audience sometimes cut across the stage as they walk about during intermissions.

When the lights went up for the second act one night, a woman who had lost her bearings was standing in the spot where the heroine was supposed to be. Actor Barney Hughes directed her to her seat and the play was resumed.

DeWitt Mackenzie: Mackenzie's Column

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

General MacArthur's call or more ground troops rofm the United Nations membership, to bolster his badly outnumbered forces in Korea, has brought to light a lot of interesting facts—some a bit disconcerting.

While there have been numerous offers of various kinds of aid, there has seemed to be a considerable reluctance on the part of some nations to send ground forces.

As a result, thus far only eight countries have been announced as offering to send such troops. The rest are still considering the matter—or have decided to let Uncle Sam do it.

Another pertinent fact is that Washington has been proceeding circumspectly in handling details. Up until yesterday three offers of troops had been formally accepted—those of 4,500 men from Turkey. 4,000 from Thailand and about 5,000 from the Philippines. Also accepted "in principle" were offers of troops from Britain, New Zealand and Australia.

Naturally many details have to be discussed. Twenty-three days elapsed between Turkey's offer and the formal acceptance.

And even after offers have been accepted there still remains the great problem of transportation of troops, equipment and supplies. Logistics are a major consideration.

One thing which has delayed the sending of troops has been the desire of the donors to train new units for the Korean theater. That takes a lot of them, and General MacArthur has urged that organized units already in existence be sent, rather than spend time training new troops.

Signs are that the magnificent job which MacArthur's American and south Korean troops have been doing has blinded the outside world to the urgency of more ground troops. There even has been a request that America send troops to western Europe to bolster spirits there—a request which isn't likely to be met at this juncture.

We once more are getting a striking demonstration of the fact that it still takes infantry to win wars. And MacArthur hasn't anything like the infantry he needs. He is up against the bitter fact that north Korea is a Red cornucopia through which pours a never ending stream of fighting men. The forces of the U. N. commander in chief could knock out every last mother's son from north Korea, and still Manchurian and Chinese Communist fight-men could pour down.

Thirty thousand or more ground troops already have been pledged, and presumably a good many more will come from countries which haven't fully recognized the emergency and have been moving slowly. MacArthur's report should help to put that right.

So much for the physical aspect of this call for U. N. help. There remains another side of vast importance. That is the psychological effect of a powerful United Nations stand in Korea.

The members of the Soviet bloc are watching every move in the Korean war, to see how the democracies stand up to the job. That also is true of nations which thus far have been trying to maintain "neutrality" in the east-west clash.

Failure of the U. N. forces to turn the trick in Korea could be disastrous to the anti-Communist world. Success would go far towards winning the cold war.

In 1949 the U. S. government printing office handled 2,000 carloads of paper and printed 3,217 million postal cards, according to the Encyclopedia Americana.

Seven Arrested By Monroe Police

Four men were arrested by Monroe police early Saturday morning at the Little Club for being drunk and disorderly causing a fight, according to police officers.

The four men were: M. Dumas, 25, Sterlington; Duke Nevvels, 22, Farmerville, C. W. Wooley, 1307 South Fourth street; Sherman Johnson, 21, Bastrop.

Two other white men and one Negro were also arrested for being drunk and disorderly; Charles Frazier, 27, Kelly, La.; R. O. Kelley, 29, Tampa, Fla.; Henry Jackson, Negro, 25, Monroe.

RUBIA TELLS FLASH SHE SAVED HIM FROM THE SLAVE-GAS BECAUSE SHE LOVES HIM. "YOU SAY DALE IS DEAD," FLASH ANSWERS COLDLY. "IF SHE IS, YOU AND ZIN CAUSED HER DEATH. I'LL NEVER FORGIVE YOU."

"I'LL SEND YOU BACK TO THE GAS-CHAMBER MYSELF!" RUBIA RAGES. BUT SHE STOPS HER TIRADE ABRUPTLY AND WHISPERS: "CAREFUL. ZIN'S COMING." FLASH AGAIN PRETENDS TO BE A SLAVE-ZOMBIE, BUT WATCHES HIS CHANCE TO OUTWIT THEM BOTH.

"RUBIA, YOU ROMANTIC FOOL--KEEP AWAY FROM GORDON. I NEED HIM AS MY STOOGE TO CONQUER MONGO." THEN TURNING TO FLASH, HE COMMANDS: "MARCH BACK TO THE SLAVE BARRACKS!" FLASH PRETENDS TO OBEY.

TO TEST FLASH, ZIN LEADS HIM PAST THE WALLED AREA WHERE DALE IS HELD PRISONER. DALE CRIES OUT: "FLASH, THEY SAID YOU WERE DEAD! DARLING, DON'T YOU RECOGNIZE ME?" FLASH ALMOST STUMBLES, BUT MARCHES AWAY LIKE AN AUTOMATON, NOT DARING TO TURN HIS HEAD.

"YOU WILL OBEY ME, NOT RUBIA," ZIN COMMANDS. "STAY HERE TILL I SEND FOR YOU." FLASH PRETENDS TO SALUTE WOODENLY. BUT HIS MIND IS RACING. SO ZIN AND RUBIA LIED--DALE STILL LIVES.

FLASH MUST RESCUE DALE OR DIE TRYING. LATER THAT NIGHT HE TUNNELS UNDER THE WALL OF DALE'S PRISON.

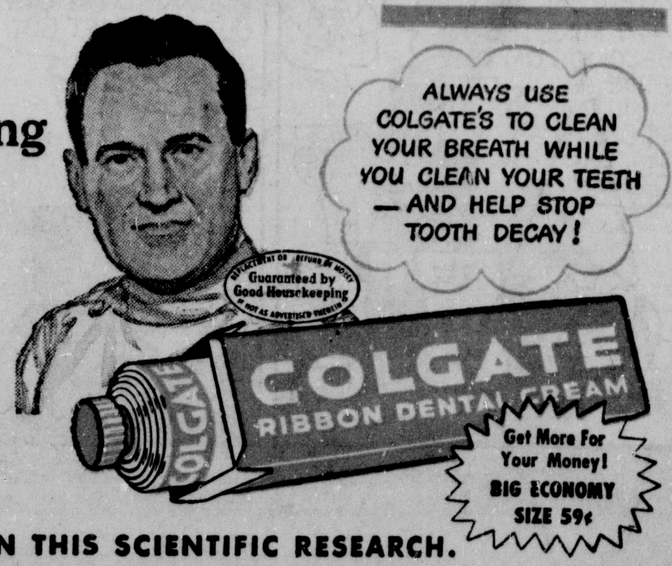
JULY Reader's Digest REPORTS THE RESEARCH WHICH PROVES* Brushing Teeth Right After Eating with COLGATE DENTAL CREAM STOPS TOOTH DECAY BEST

Better Than Any Other Way Of Preventing Tooth Decay According To Published Reports!

No Other Toothpaste or Powder AMMONIATED OR NOT Offers Proof of Such Results!

JULY READER'S DIGEST for the results of "one of the most extensive, costly and practical experiments in dental history"! The toothpaste used in this research was Colgate Dental Cream. And read this, too: Two years' research showed brushing teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream stopped tooth decay best! Yes, helped stop decay better than any other home method of oral hygiene! The Colgate way stopped more decay for more people than ever reported in dentifrice history!

NOT EVEN ONE NEW CAVITY IN 2 FULL YEARS for more than 1 out of 3 who used Colgate Dental Cream correctly! No other dentifrice has proof of such results—the best results ever reported in authoritative dental literature for a dentifrice of any type! So start your family on Colgate Dental Cream today. No dentifrice can stop all tooth decay, or help cavities already started. But brushing teeth right after eating with Colgate Dental Cream is the most effective way yet known to help your dentist prevent decay.



* COLGATE DENTAL CREAM WAS USED EXCLUSIVELY IN THIS SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH.
